AID TO INJURED BEGINS IN AREA HIT BY TORNADO

Relief Workers Seek for Victims in Isolated Arkansas Farms.

KNOWN DEAD NOW 50; MORE THAN 200 HURT

Huge Twister Split Into Two Whirlwinds in Its Terrific Dash.

EVERY HOUSE IN GUION WRECKED, SAYS FLIER

One Home Picked Up Twice; Train Races With Gale and Escapes Fury.

Little Rock, Ark., April 11 (A.P.).—Alternately mounting and falling as additional deaths were reported and other persons previously reported dead were found alive, the toll from yesterday's freakish "twin tornadoes" in northeast Arkansas late tonight was 50, with the injured list exceeding 200.

Wrecked farm houses in isolated parts of mountainous north Arkansas were still unexplored by rescue workers tonight, 24 hours after a pair of tornadoes dipped and swung across the region.

With rescue work showing great progress in the most thickly settled communities struck by the storm, the known dead tonight numbered 48. No accurate check of the number of injured could be made because of lack of systematic efforts in registering them and the demoralized condition of communication lines.

Relief work was going forward on a large scale in the Swifton section, the center of the storm area, where 25 bodies already have been recovered and from 30 to 50 injured persons taken from under littered debris to hospitals and private homes for treatment.

Governor Sends Tents.

The Red Cross had placed a large number of relief workers in the storm sections, while residents of stricken communities organized local relief work. Business men of Swifton and Alicia, between which the storm reaped its greatest toll, and of Newport, nearby, held a meeting at Swifton today and mapped out a program of relief and rehabilitation.

Gov. Harvey Parnell sent scores of tents and other supplies to the homeless and injured.

Reports of additional injured continued to come in tonight as communication was restored in the storm area, while the death list climbed slowly during the day after the early morning efforts of rescue workers.

The bodies of two children who had been missing—Jack Defries, 2, and his sister, Ruth, 4—were found in a drainage ditch in the Swifton community. Eleven-year-old Joe Bullard's body was recovered from a creek. He also had been listed among the missing. These, together with the death of Mrs. Randall Hudgens in a Newport hospital, increased the number of dead at Swifton to 25 and the total number of storm deaths to 50.

Known to Be Dead.

Hundreds of houses in widely scattered sections were demolished creating a tremendous problem in the caring for the homeless.

The known dead tonight were:

Swifton area—Cleo Nicholson, 25; Mrs. Cleo Nicholson, 23; Mrs. A. J. Rowlett, 53; John Loy, 55; Mrs. John Loy, 49; Charles Defries, 45; Grace Defries, 6; Ruth Defries, 1; Jack Defries, 2; Thurlow Hudgens, 26; Mrs. Russell Long, 38; Miss Vina Long, 18; Mrs. Ed Riley, 40; Buster Riley, 4; Ruth Riley, 6; Mrs. Esther Riley, mother-in-law of Mrs. Ed Riley; T. Mrs. Gann Is Honored At Envoy's Dry Dinner

Curtis' Sister Given Seat on Ambassador Davilla's Right at Function.

(United Press.)

Foreign diplomats set another precedent at the dinner here last night, when Mrs. Edward E. Gann, sister and hostess of Vice President Curtis, realized the fruits of her victory in Washington's social war and sat above the wives of diplomats.

The dinner, given by Don Carlos G. Davila, Chilean Ambassador, was absolutely bone dry.

The shattering of a precedent by serving only water attracted as much attention as the setting of a precedent in the case of Mrs. Gann, who occupied the seat of honor through a decision of the diplomatic corps. Nearly 200 of Washington's official and diplomatic elite were gathered about the table in the beautiful Pan-American Building here on this rather noteworthy occasion in social and diplomatic history. Members of President Hoover's cabinet were among the guests.

The dinner was on the occasion of the visit here of Chilean Minister of Finance Pablo Ramirez and was the first diplomatic social function of magnitude since the enactment of the Jones "five and ten" law.

No cocktails with seductive lure graced the snowy board. There was no harmony of popping champagne corks.

The Ambassador's dinner was not dry by accident. His decision to omit the customary cocktails, wines, champagne and liquors was reached only after days of careful deliberation of the problem, during which both wet and dry arguments were given consideration.

Probably almost as much time was given to this question during the early days of preparation for the dinner as the Ambassador was forced to give during the last week of the burning social question of where to seat Mrs. Gann. That question was finally settled for Ambassador Davila by the Diplomatic Corps in solemn meeting at the British Embassy Wednesday, when it was de-

LINDBERGH TO FLY TO CAPITAL TODAY

Airport Commission to Ask Advice of Colonel on Site Here.

LANDS IN NORTH CAROLINA

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is expected to leave Greensboro, N. C., where he was forced to land last night, at 6:30 o'clock this morning, according to Clem W. Gerson, manager of the Carleton Hotel, where the famous flier has had a reservation for several days. He would arrive in Washington about 10 o'clock under normal flying conditions.

When Lindbergh reaches here he will be asked to appear before the Congressional Airport Commission and to give his views about a national airport for Washington. Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, chairman of the commission, returned to Washington from his home last night.

Bound to New York from Brownsville, Tex., to meet the ship bringing home the body of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, Lindbergh left Meridian, Miss., at 9:20 o'clock yesterday morning, according to the Associated Press. He reached Atlanta, Ga., about noon, refueled, and hopped off again at 1 o'clock. He was next definitely heard from when he was forced to land at Greensboro, a station on the Atlanta-New York mail route, which he evidently was following north. Fog conditions here and south of here were bad and considerably delayed Lindbergh's progress.

If the flying colonel testifies before the congressional commission, he will find it well equipped to give the most effective consideration to his suggestions.

Yesterday a party headed by Larry Williams, chairman of the aviation committee of the Board of Trade, and Robert J. Cottrell, executive secretary of the board, visited two airport sites in an effort to be prepared to assist the commission in its deliberations. The party was not impressed by either of the sites.

The first field visited was the so-called Chillum, Md., site, about 3 miles northeast of Brookland. It lies in the valley of the Anacostia River and consists of farms and woodland.

What Mr. Williams didn't like were two elevations on either side of the valley, one about 150 feet high and the other about 100 feet high. Unless these

BIG GUNS FACE NACO; U. S. ARTILLERY SENT

Four 75's, in Rebel Camp, Menace City on Border; Attack Is Doubted.

BOMB RAID ON SAN BLAS

Naco, Ariz., April 11 (A.P.).—United States Artillery was being moved toward Naco tonight, ready to protect American lives and property should Mexican rebels open an artillery attack on the entrenched federals at Naco, Sonora.

The American move began at the same time as the rebels rolled four 75-millimeter guns into their camp facing Naco and while Rebel Gen. Gonzalo Escobar held a council of war with five of his aids at Cananea.

Some doubt was expressed by Gen. Lucas Gonzales, Naco commander, that rebel troops would have time to make another attack on the border city before they are called upon to defend other sectors in the State of Sonora which has become the rallying ground of the revolutionists.

Federal troops were reported advancing rapidly up the west coast from the State of Sinaloa and the army of Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, which is mopping up the State of Chihuahua, constituted a serious threat from the east as the remnants of Gen. Escobar's army retreated into Sonora through Pulpito pass in the mountains.

A typewritten notice, unsigned, caused excitement by threatening a gas attack on Naco. No rebel planes have ventured over the city, however, since the arrival of a United States Army air squadron in Arizona and the threat was not considered serious.

Nogales, Ariz., April 11 (United Press). Reports reaching rebel headquarters here tonight said that federal forces advancing on the west coast of Mexico made a severe air attack on San Blas, Sinaloa, today.

According to the reports, the bombing was so heavy that employes of the Southern Pacific de Mexico Railroad were forced to abandon their posts and flee.

Guerilla Warfare Feared.

Juarez, Mexico, April 11 (A.P.)—Fear that guerilla warfare may break out in western Chihuahua was expressed in Juarez today when reports spread that Gen. Marcelo Caraveo, rebel general, who evacuated the border city Tuesday night, could not be located. Gen. Caraveo left here with three trains, several hundred cavalrymen and supplies for an unknown destination over the Mexican Northwestern Railway. It was understood he had planned to go to Casas Grandes and then continue into Sonora to join Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, revolutionary chief, in a campaign in that state. Mexican federal officials in Juarez admitted today they did not know where Gen. Caraveo is at the present time.

The main body of the federal army, under Gen. Andreu Almazan, is to arrive here tomorrow or Saturday from Chihuahua. Operations against rebels in Sonora are expected to be started from Juarez after Almazan's arrival.

New Bomb Plot Charged.

Mexico City, April 11 (A.P.).—A new plot to assassinate former President Calles, the second within recent weeks, was reported by the newspaper Universal today. The newspaper said that a man and woman involved in the conspiracy probably would be under arrest shortly.

Quoting the chief of the local military garrison, the newspaper said that the unsuccessful plot was to bomb the former president's train and assassinate him while he was passing through the State of Jalisco a few days ago en route from central Mexico to the Pa-

TORCH MURDER IS ADMITTED BY ENGINEER OF 60

Man Who Married Nurse Victim Confesses to Jersey Slaying.

FATHER OF 4 TRAPPED BY ONE CLEW OF SHOE

Woman Gave Him Savings After Their Wedding, Police Discover.

PRISONER SUSPECTED IN SECOND FIRE CRIME

Discovery of Blazing Body Occurred Almost One Year After First Tragedy.

Elizabeth, N. J., April 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.). H. Colin Campbell, a white-haired, distinguished looking civil engineer of 60, with a wife and family, was arrested tonight as he walked into his apartment in Elizabeth, N. J., and within an hour had confessed in the Union County Courthouse that he was the torch murderer who, on February 23, had first put a bullet into the brain of Mrs. Benjamin S. Mowry and then soaked her clothing in kerosene and set fire to the body.

"I'm sorry for my wife and children," he said calmly.

Campbell, who bigamously married Mrs. Mawry at Elkton, Md., last August 28, and the next day got her to cash a $1,000 check for him, had used the name of "Richard M. Campbell" and the murdered woman spoke of him as "the doctor."

Has Four Children.

He has a married daughter and three younger children, the smallest of them a baby only a year and a half old.

The arrest was made by William P. Wagner, a private detective retained by Prosecutor David to aid on the case, and Union County Detective Louis T. Lombardi, who had watched Campbell's apartment at 471 Madison avenue, Elizabeth, all day and evening, awaiting his return.

The civil engineer identified a picture of Mrs. Mowry as the woman he had killed and said that he shot her with a pistol found on him when arrested.

He is 60 years old, smooth shaven and wears glasses. He told the detectives how he had maintained offices in New York while preparing for the crime. At the present time, he said, he was employed as an advertising man for a coal company, with offices in New York. He said he had studied medicine prior to going to Mexico as a civil engineer. He said he had lived in Baltimore recently.

Evaded Arrest Three Weeks.

For nearly three weeks Campbell had lived quietly with his wife and family not ten blocks from where his victim lay, charred beyond recognition, it was believed, in Maryin's morgue.

Identification was only made today by two women from Greenville, Pa., who knew Mrs. Mowry there when she went away to marry "Dr. Campbell."

Within half an hour detectives of Union County were bringing to light the strange story of Mrs. Benjamin Mowry, the widow, who, after ten quiet years of working as a practical nurse in Greenville, had drawn out her life savings and married "Dr." Richard M. Campbell last August 28.

Margaret Brown, whose living body was found blazing almost a year to the day prior to the murder of Mrs. Mowry, near Bernardville, less than 30 miles from the scene of the second crime, had also been a nurse, and she, too, drew out her life savings of nearly $7,000 before she eloped to marry "the doctor."

Woman Sought Husband.

Mrs. Mowry, or Mrs. Campbell, had come to New York February 1 and endeavored to join her husband, who seemed to be avoiding her, it was learned today. It was learned she had left the Laura Spelman Hall, a Y. W. C. A., in Abingdon Square, February 10, ostensibly for Dover, Del., and later a letter was returned to the hall which she had despairingly addressed to Campbell and which demanded to know what Campbell was going to do about her situation, which had become desperate. The latter said if Campbell did not come back at once she would kill herself.

But Mrs. Campbell did not kill herself. Instead, her murderer put a 32 caliber bullet straight into the top of her skull, perhaps as she got out of his car to stoop over and look at a tire, or on some such pretext.

Then he lifted the body into the weeds of Willsie's Half Acre, soaking her clothing with kerosene, set the torch on fire and drove away in the early morning darkness. The job had not been so thorough with Margaret Brown, and identification followed almost immediately after she had been found blazing and still alive behind a hot-

DRY FORCES PLAN WAR ON LEVIATHAN OWNERS AS LINER IS MADE WET

No Whisky Will Be Sold on Her Present Voyage, Says Official.

NEW RULE EFFECTIVE ON RETURNING TRIP

Bar Is Not to Be Carried; Restriction Planned on Tipsy Ones.

TWELVE-MILE LIMIT WILL BE RECOGNIZED

Amount of Intoxicants on Board Is Unknown to Port Authorities.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—The liner Leviathan, queen of the American merchant marine, was plowing the waves today still a dry boat under the orders of its new owners, but soon to lose its aridity by authority of those same orders.

The Leviathan sailed yesterday on its first voyage under private ownership having been taken over by an organization headed by Paul W. Chapman along with the rest of the Shipping Board fleet.

The Shipping Board boats were dry, but shortly after the Leviathan sailed the report got about that the new United States Lines were going to follow the example of most other American shipping concerns and sell liquor on the far side of the 12-mile line.

Report Is Confirmed.

This report was confirmed by Joseph E. Sheedy, executive vice president of the line, who said he had decided the new liquor policy of the Leviathan and her smaller sisters on his own responsibility. Some hours later he amended his statement to say that his orders to the stewards directed them not to sell the medical stores of liquor on the present trip to Europe, but on the westward journey to sell liquor. While his statement covered specifically only the current round trip, it was clearly indicated that under the new orders, on subsequent trips liquor would be sold both ways outside the 12-mile limit.

There will be no bars on the United States Lines' boats, he said, because strong drink sometimes leads to strong language and he wished to protect women passengers, who, he seemed to think, would frequent the bar just as much as the men.

But liquor will be served in staterooms and at table. The only limit the passengers' ability to pay and to drink in seemly fashion. Those who show the effects of their drinking, it was said, will be served no more to drink.

No Figures on Rum Store.

Thomas W. Whittle, surveyor of the port, said that so far as he knew, no figures were available as to the actual amount of liquor or wine on board the Leviathan.

Henry C. Stuart, assistant collector of the port, said it is not the practice to check the liquor supply of liners except "every now and then," since there are often 450 vessels in this port at one time, and the collector's staff is too small. It is the practice to depend on the ethical conduct of the ship surgeons who have the liquor in charge, Mr. Stewart said. Medicinal supplies bought in foreign ports are kept under seal while the vessels are in American waters, he said.

Senator Wesley L. Jones, sponsor of the Jones act, said in his opinion the line was "making a mistake" in permitting the sale of liquor.

Sees Loss of Business.

"They oughtn't to do it," he added. "I don't know how far the law can go to stop it, but it ought to go as far as it can. An American ship is American territory. There are many people who

SEARCHERS SIGHT 4 OF SOUTHERN CROSS

Plane Radios Discovery of Crew in the Wilds of Australian Bush.

FOOD DROPPED TO FLIERS

Sydney, Australia, Friday, April 12 (A.P.—The airplane Southern Cross was reported found today with its crew of four men all well. The airplane Canberra sent a message, saying:

"Have found Southern Cross. All alive and well. Have dropped food."

The Southern Cross was said to have been located about 30 miles from the Port George Mission. Another mission in the Kimberly district of western Australia had reported that an airplane passed over it toward the southwest on March 31 and with this as the only clew the search was centered in that district for the past twelve days.

The first message from the airplane Canberra was received at Darwin, Northern Territory, at 9:45 this morning (local time). It said "after visiting the Port George Mission we shall search all bays and inlets as far as Cape Londonderry."

(Cape Londonderry is the northernmost point in the State of Western Australia and the Drysdale River flows into the sea near it.)

Then came the dramatic message at 11:31 saying that the Southern Cross had been found and that food was dropped to the crew. Two minutes later the message was repeated that there might be no doubt of the good news.

At 11:38 a. m. the Canberra radioed to the Southern Cross: "If you can hear us walk out into open ground."

Five minutes later the Canberra told the Darwin Station: "They must be hearing, but haven't seen them."

It was 36 minutes past noon when the Canberra, still flying around the Southern Cross, radioed: "The Southern Cross is approximately 30 miles from the Port George Mission. Can see whole crew now."

Later the Canberra said the Southern Cross was on a mud flat of the Port George Mission.

Relief expeditions composed of airplanes, launches and native runners have been searching for the Southern Cross since Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith sent out a radio message in the wild Australian bush, "about 100 miles east of Wyndham."

Wyndham, western Australia, was their destination on the first lap of a Sydney-to-London flight in the plane which made the first successful crossing of the Pacific Ocean from California to Australia. Besides Capt. Kingsford-Smith, the plane carried Pilot Charles T. Q. Ulm, who shared honors in the transpacific flight with him; a navigator named Litchfield, and a radio operator named McWilliam.

Congress Action Is Hinted as Liquor Policy on Vessel Is Told.

CARAWAY SEES MOVE AS VIOLATION OF LAW

Federal Officials Plan Curb Only in Rum Sales Out-Bound.

SUPREME COURT RULE MAY FAIL TO PROTECT

Group Against Prohibition Is Jubilant; Seizure of Ship Is Seen.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition officials said last night they had lost interest in the present trip of the Leviathan to Europe after the announcement from New York that no liquor would be sold but they became interested in later dispatches from the metropolis which indicated liquor might be sold hereafter on eastern voyages.

The later New York announcement said that the public relations department of the new owners of the Leviathan said that it was fair to assume the huge liner would be dry only on its present eastward voyage, and Commissioner Doran, of the Prohibition Bureau, when advised of this, declared there would be no legal way the ship could sell intoxicants on outbound trips.

Mr. Doran said that if liquor should be sold on eastward trips his department immediately would become active. There is no legal way for the Leviathan to get liquor for an eastward voyage, he added, as it can not be brought into this country even under seal, nor can it be bought in this country.

Prohibition officials explained that the medicinal liquor on board the ship was obtained under Federal permit and must be issued by prescription by a physician just as it is done on American soil.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Announced abandonment of prohibition by the Leviathan and other passenger ships of the newly organized United States Lines has stirred dry circles here and already brought sharp warning of impending punishment and assurances that Congress will immediately deal with this "flagrant challenge" of law enforcement under the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment.

The Supreme Court decision upon which the officials of the United States Lines are relying admittedly gives them the right to sell liquors on the high seas, but this same decision, it is contended, contains the means for nullifying their own efforts for the reason that Congress is given the power to regulate the conduct of American merchant ships on the high seas and may at any tim exercise such power by appropriate legislation.

Meanwhile Senator Caraway, member of the Senate judiciary committee, said yesterday that the law will be enforced against these ships or the country will know the reason.

All Subject to Arrest.

"We have all the aw we want and somebody is going to enforce it," said Senator Caraway. "Everybody connected with the ship will be subject to arrest and the ship will be subject to seizure if they bring liquor into American territory. It will be a violation of the law and those responsible will be subject to the penalties of the Jones act."

The arrangement as announced by Joseph E. Sheedy, executive vice president of the United States Lines, is for the Leviathan to bring in 700 quarts of medicinal liquor under seal and use this liquor on the outward voyage. Foreign ships are allowed to bring in liquor under seal by treaty arrangement and it is contended that it would be discrimination to bar this privilege to ships flying the Stars and Stripes. Mr. Sheedy has already obtained a Federal permit for this amount of medicinal liquor, which is to be consumed on the Coast Guard to Keep Check On Planes Along Seaboard

Plan Will Be Safeguard From Loss of Craft, Officials Say.

Repetition of aviation tragedies similar to the one recently in which a Sikorsky Amphibian carrying Raymond T. Finucane, wealthy New Yorker, and three companions disappeared on a flight from Norfolk, Va., to New York, will be less likely to occur when plans of the United States Coast Guard to establish airplane checking stations along the coast are put into operation.

These plans, according to Lieut. Comdr. Norman B. Hall, of the engineering division, call for a system of constant intercommunication between Coast Guard stations checking on the flight of airplanes over them. Men at the stations will be taught to recognize various makes and types of planes. Photographs from which such instruc-

Girl Forces Banker to Pay $5,000 as She Holds Bomb

Pretty Brunette Calmly Places Bills in Purse as Denver Teller Passes Them Through Window; Intimidates Him by Toying With Match.

Denver, Colo., April 11 (A.P.).—Threatening to blow up the bank with a package she said contained nitroglycerin, a well-dressed, pretty brunette obtained $5,000 in a lone holdup of the Colorado State Bank this afternoon.

Walking up to a cage with the package in one hand and a match in the other, the woman passed a note to Teller C. E. Kenney which read: "Give me all the bills you have in the cage or I will touch off this bottle of nitroglycerin and blow you through the window."

The note was passed so quickly that customers who thronged the bank and employes were unaware that the holdup was in progress.

Kenney told detectives that at first he hesitated and then the woman idly began to trace imaginary figures on the front of his cage with the match. He said she looked down suggestively at a brown paper parcel she carried under her arm and from which a short fuse protruded.

Kenney took a handful fo $5 bills and shoved them though the window. Then the brunette declared, Kenney said: "Not fives, if you please; they're too bundlesome. I prefer tens, twenties and larger."

Kenney quickly gathered up several bundles of $10 and $20 bills. He pushed them out of the cage and the woman gathered them up and placed them calmly in a purse which she carried in her right hand with the match.

outward maiden voyage of the Leviathan under private ownership. The ship is now en route to Europe.

Fight Planned by Drys.

The fight which the drys will wage against the procedure will be based on the bringing in of this medicinal liquor when the ships reach American territorial waters. The drys declare that the use of the Federal permit to keep medicinal supplies for beverage purposes and for sale on the high seas is a subterfuge. Senator Caraway declares that whoever issues such a permit will be held strictly accountable.

In making the United States Lines' ships wet, reliance has been placed upon the Supreme Court decision in the case of the Cunard Line vs. Mellon, rendered on April 30, 1923. The Supreme Court ruled that "the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution does not cover domestic merchant ships outside the territorial waters of the United States." It was stated by the court that the eighteenth amendment applies only to the physical areas of the United States and that the Volstead act was coextensive with the eighteenth amendment.

But the Supreme Court's decision contained by way of dicta the following:

"We do not mean to imply that Congress is without power to regulate the conduct of domestic merchant ships when on the high seas, etc."

It is conceded at the Department of Justice that the Leviathan and other American ships are within the law in selling liquor on the high seas unless or until Congress acts. But it is predicted that speedy action by Congress may be expected to cope with what is termed the "flaunting of the prohibition laws" by the American vessels.

The news came so suddenly yesterday that the drys have not yet been able to rally their forces. The wets are jubilant and Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, has already issued the following statement:

"I am glad that the biggest bootleg ship of them all is returning to the decent, open life of every other ship on all of the seven seas."

Senator Wesley L. Jones, dry leader and sponsor of the Jones act, expressed the view that law-abiding citizens would refuse to travel on wet American ships and that the new policy of the United States Lines would therefore bring its own punishment.

Departments Are Silent.

At the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice there was no statement as to how the new problem could be handled, although it was suggested that there might be interesting developments in the near future, especially as the Leviathan has already put its wet policy into practice and steamed from New York on its maiden voyage under private ownership with liquor supplies.

Developments are being closely watched at Antisaloon League headquarters, where the action of the United States Lines is described as "against the spirit of the eighteenth amendment." Indications last night were that the real test will come when the Leviathan returns to New York with her medicinal liquors under seal for consumption on the next outward voyage.

Actress Wins Divorce From Screen Comedian

Los Angeles, April 11 (A.P.).—Irene Dalton, actress, today was granted a divorce in Superior Court from Lloyd Hamilton, screen comedian, whom she charged with staging "wild drinking parties" and striking her on one occasion.

A cash property settlement of $1,250 was made. Today's hearing followed the appointment of a receiver for Hamilton yesterday on the complaint of his first wife, who alleged Hamilton was $7,500 behind in his alimony payments.

Aged Man Badly Hurt When Struck by Auto

Henry W. Moncure, 68 years old, of the Woodward Apartments, Tenth and M streets northwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital last night for injuries sustained when struck down at Eleventh street and New York avenue northwest by an automobile said by police to have been driven by George E. Hayes, of 1732 S street northwest.

Mr. Moncure had a fractured collarbone, several broken ribs and cuts and bruises.

HOOVER FARM VETO FEAR STIRS SENATE

President Noncommittal as Committee Asks Views on Debenture Plan.

M'NARY BILL IS FAVORED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate agriculture committee again failed yesterday in a carefully designed plan to draw President Hoover into the making of a farm relief bill.

It wanted to know if he would stand for the debenture plan as an alternative in the event the proposed stabilization machinery fails to give the farmer relief. With a view of finding out, it sent a subcommittee to the White House.

The President neither said "no" nor "yes," but the Republicans of the group went away with such a hint that they are not likely to show any enthusiasm for the debenture plan.

Has McNary Bill Ready.

The committee has the McNary bill before it and hardly anything more to do than to report it. This bill has been ready a long time and, inasmuch as it was ready, there was really no reason why the committee should meet in advance of the extra session at all. Nevertheless it did, and as a result time has hung quite heavily on its hands.

Yesterday while the senators were sitting around in committee formation wondering what to talk about, Senator Norris, of Nebraska, said he would like to vote for that debenture plan about which so much has been heard if he thought the President would stand for it. No need of voting for anything the President would not accept, the senator opined, because he was tired of vetoes.

Under the debenture plan, every time the farmer shipped a bushel of wheat, for example, he would be given a debenture calling for one-half the tariff rate on imports of that commodity, in the case of wheat a debenture of 21 cents. These debentures would be sold to importers, who could use them to pay import duties. The upshot of it all is that the Government would give to the farmers as an outright bounty one-half of the revenue which it receives from agricultural imports. It is estimated that it would cost the Government about $150,000,000 annually.

Backed by National Grange.

The theory is, of course, that the farmer would get a bonus for the produce that he had to sell in the world market and that this bonus would, in addition, serve to lift the domestic price. The plan has long been espoused by the National Grange. It was thought, however, to have died along with the equalization fee.

But as the discussion developed on the question of whether the President would stand for it, Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, Democratic wit that he is, proposed that the committee ask the President. Senators McNary, of Oregon, chairman; Norbeck, of South Dakota; Capper, of Kansas; Heflin, of Alabama, and Ransdell, of Louisiana, were appointed as a subcommittee to do so.

They appeared at the White House on the nose of a heavy wind that swept across the grounds, one that was so strong that Heflin could hardly keep his long, flowing coat wrapped about him.

The senators told the President what they had on their minds, while Heflin, particularly, could hardly keep a straight face.

Hoover Is Noncommittal.

But Mr. Hoover was not taken unawares. He did not seem to be embarrassed. He replied that he, of course, could not give a positive answer offhand. He had had no time to study the debenture plan, although it has been hovering around Congress for two or three years. But, he recalled significantly, it was not mentioned in the Republican platform and had not been discussed in the campaign.

Whereupon one of the senators timidly suggested that perhaps it might be a good idea to hold some hearings on the proposal to ascertain what the farm organizations thought about it. Mr. Hoover said very amiably that that, of course, was a matter for the committee, but in the event it did decide to go further into the matter he would be glad to have the Government experts give all the assistance they could. Of course, the committee will not resume its hearings. The Senate meets Monday and it is a safe prediction that it will be the McNary bill that could have been passed at the last session that will be reported out.

It is the McNary bill, in fact, with somewhat different verbiage, that the House committee has already agreed upon and a copy of which it plans to give the President today. It will bear the name of Representative Haugen, of Iowa, after all, so the new farm bill will be, in the final analysis, the McNary-Haugen bill without the equalization fee.

1 KILLED, 6 BURNED IN U. S. LINER BLAZE

Pesident Roosevelt Is Swept by Spectacular Fire at Hoboken.

SHIP WAS BEING REPAIRED

New York, April 11 (U.P.).—The United States liner President Roosevelt was swept by a spectacular fire today as it lay at its pier in Hoboken, and for two hours was in danger of destruction.

One member of the crew was killed and six other men were burned severely as they fought to escape the flames deep in the hold of the big vessel. Four of them were in a critical condition tonight.

The fire began in the bilges of the ship and spread quickly to the oil room, where it exploded the liner's large containers of fuel. There it trapped six of the crew, who were working in an adjoining storeroom.

Nicholas Burke, fireman, descended into the blazing hold and carried out three of the men. On his last trip, burned badly about the face and body, he collapsed and fell against a stanchion, suffering a skull fracture. He may die, hospital attendants said.

Burns were fatal to Robert Portland, Jersey City, a boilermaker's helper.

The President Roosevelt, lately operated by the United States Shipping Board, was undergoing repairs and being improved for its new owners. The blaze was confined to the fire room and the damage was comparatively small.

SINCLAIR JAIL JOB HANGS IN BALANCE

Attorney General to Decide Between Occoquan and District Cell.

WORKHOUSE IS DREADED

Whether Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil man, will serve a 90-day sentence for contempt of court by making bricks or indulging in other forms of hard labor at the District Workhouse at Occoquan, Va., or whether he will serve his sentence in a cell in the District Jail, is expected to be ruled upon by Attorney General Mitchell within the next few days.

Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of District penal institutions, last night announced he would call upon the Attorney General probably today to decide whether a man sentenced to jail for contempt of court can be transferred legally to Occoquan, where all prisoners are taken who have more than ten days to serve.

Capt. Barnard made the announcement following a conference with Maj. William L. Peak, superintendent of the District Jail.

If Sinclair serves his sentence in the District Jail, he will not be subjected to hard labor. Providing he is not given a job in the office or in the culinary department, he will spend most of his time in the cell block.

If Sinclair goes to Occoquan, however, he will be forced to serve his sentence at hard labor, "just like any other prisoner," Capt. Barnard said.

Occoquan is a place dreaded in the summer months. It is but a few feet above the river level and there is not a tree on the reservation. Prisoners transferred to this institution from the jail are assigned either to the brick factory, the wharves, in the fields for plowing and planting crops, or to a job in the machine factory, which turns out all District automobile tags.

Capt. Barnard said he will seek the ruling not because of the probability of Sinclair serving his sentence but to have decided once and for all whether a man sentenced in a contempt of court case can be put to hard labor at Occoquan.

LEVIATHAN ARIDITY ENDS ON TRIP BACK

will decline to travel on it, I am sure, if this goes into effect—law-abiding citizens from various parts of the country."

Orville S. Poland, New York State counsel of the Antisaloon League, also predicted the United States Lines would lose business.

He also expressed the opinion the owners were transgressing the spirit of the eighteenth amendment. He said that while to the best of his knowledge the line was within the law in the sale of liquor, he warned that in event an error was discovered in the decision pertaining to such sales the Antisaloon League would reopen the question in order to test the validity and strength of the ruling.

The other ships to be taken over by the United States Lines and on which the same liquor rule will apply are the America, George Washington, President Harding, President Roosevelt, American Farmer, American Shipper, American Merchant, American Trader and the Republic. The last of these ships will be turned over to the new owners on June 6.

Leviathan Owners Would Acquire Plane Carriers

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—The New York World tomorrow will say that Joseph E. Sheedy, operator of the United States Lines, Inc., for P. W. Chapman & Co., went to Washington this afternoon to seek to acquire ownership for the line of the naval airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga.

Although no definite action has been taken on the project, officials of the line, which recently purchased the Leviathan and several other Shipping Board liners, for several days have been considering the idea to acquire the carriers and use them as express passenger liners.

Under the terms of the sale of the passenger liners to P. W. Chapman & Co., two large, fast liners must be added within three years to operate with the Leviathan. It is to meet this requirement that the acquisition of the Lexington and Saratoga has been discussed.

Missouri House Kills Wet Referendum Plan

Jefferson City, Mo., April 11 (A.P.). The Missouri House of Representatives voted to postpone indefinitely consideration of a resolution asking for a referendum in Missouri to direct the governor to ask Congress for a national referendum on repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The vote on the motion to table the resolution was 96 to 29. It can not again be considered in the present session of the Legislature. The vote was regarded by several House leaders as an indication of the sentiment of that body on repeal of the prohibition laws.

POLICE HEAD CALLED LIQUOR RUNNERS' AID

Detroit Official Is Suspended as Investigation Alleges Smuggling Graft.

HUGE SCANDAL IS HINTED

Detroit, April 11 (A.P.).—Accused of having utilized his position as harbormaster and head of the police staff on Belle Isle to aid rum runners in transportation of liquor from Canada to the United States, Capt. Joseph A. Burkheiser was suspended today. Police Commissioner William P. Rutledge, declaring "this will prove to be the worst scandal in the history of the department," added that "the liquor affair is only a small part of what has been going on," on Belle Isle and the river.

He would not amplify the statement, but gave out the specific charges against Burkheiser, all of which refer to incidents of two to four years ago.

As head of the police staff on Belle Isle, Burkheiser occupied free living quarters there. It is alleged that he stored for his own use on the island and later transported to Detroit in department automobiles part of a seized liquor cargo. Another of the charges relates that late in 1927 Burkheiser assigned two patrolmen of the harbor master's division to convoy a load of liquor from the Canadian to the American shore, and that the officers were ordered to stand by the boatload of liquor to prevent its seizure by State or Federal officers. Six other charges were substantially the same and dated back to 1925.

Coincident with announcement of Burkheiser's suspension, the Detroit News today published a description and a picture of the landing of liquor by rum runners at a dock in the downtown district only four blocks from headquarters of the United States Customs Border Patrol. The picture was taken by a cameraman hidden in the tower of a building nearby. It showed men unloading a speedboat and placing the cargo in waiting automobiles.

The rum running speedboats, the News said, are much speedier than the border patrol craft, being capable of making a trip from the Canadian shore to the dock at the foot of Riopelle street and unloading a cargo in 2 minutes and 40 seconds.

The rummers, the paper asserted, even have gone to the extent of employing their own "traffic officer" to insure a clear right of way for their liquor laden automobiles. In several instances, the rummers' traffic director is said to have threatened to "blow up" motorists who protested at being stopped at Riopelle and Atwater streets until the liqur carrying automobiles had left the dock.

The Riopelle street "importing" dock is about 2 miles down the river from Belle Isle and about 15 miles north of Ecorse, where much of the rum running activity has centered.

Ottawa, April 11 (A.P.).—Although Canada has offered to permit the United States to station men on the Canadian side for the purpose of transmitting information with respect to the dispatch of liquor cargoes destined to the United States, the dominion government has not provided that these officers shall be placed on liquor export docks which are privately owned. No definite arrangement has been concluded between the two governments and it is understood that the Canadian offer has not yet been formally accepted by the United States.

At the recent conference between Canadian and United States representatives here, when the United States delegation urged the refusal of clearance papers to liquor cargoes going south, it was stated the system of transmitting information with respect to these liquor shipments was not working out well. The Canadian offer was designed to meet the complaint. No definite conclusion as to the request for refusal of clearances has yet been reached, it is understood.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury Department officials said yesterday that the offer by the Canadian government to permit this Government to station customs inspectors on Canadian docks would be declined, as had been an identical offer during the antismuggling conference in Canada last winter.

The offer was declined at that conference, officials said, because this Government believed it could derive no benefit from stationing inspectors on the Canadian docks.

Woman Can't Rewed For 50-Year Period

Indiana Judge Grants Plea Made by Divorcee; Two Years Rejected.

Richmond, Ind., April 11 (A.P.).—A judge here barred Mrs. Dora McClain, a divorcee, from marrying in 50 years.

Notice of the divorce petition had been given her husband, Fred McClain, by publication instead of service, which, under the Indiana law, makes it mandatory for the circuit court judge to prohibit marriage for two years.

"I will have to make an order forbidding you to marry within two years," Judge G. H. Hoelscher explained to Mrs. McClain. "It's all right with me if you make it 50 years," she answered.

"All right, I will," the Court replied.

TEXAS GUINAN FREED AS CROWD APPLAUDS

IS KISSED BY SPECTATOR

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—A Federal court jury decided today that Texas Guinan had had no part in maintaining a common nuisance at the Salon Royale by abetting the sale of liquor there and the verdict was received with hilarious acclaim by the spectators.

Everyone jumped up from his seat, clapped and cheered and shouted, and one man seized the blonde night club hostess and kissed her. She, in turn, ran to the jury box and shook hands with the twelve jurors who had decided her innocence after deliberation of one hour and four minutes.

Had she been convicted Miss Guinan would have been liable to one year imprisonment and a fine of $1,000. Just before her trial opened three days ago she and ten others from the Salon Royale were given a chance to change their pleas and all but she pleaded guilty and received deferred sentences.

Promised Bitter Fight.

"They are Greeks and don't know what guilty means," the hostess said of her codefendants at that time. "I will fight this through if it is the last thing I ever do."

The principal witnesses for the Government were three Washington prohibition agents who told of visiting the Salon Royale and buying liquor there. She herself was the only important witness for the defense, having testified that she had never had a drink in her life and never knew that liquor was sold at the night club.

After thanking the jury Miss Guinan turned to special United States Attorney General Morrison, who prosecuted the case.

"I want to congratulate you," she said. "You were a perfect gentleman."

"Texas," Morrison replied, "you were the toughest customer I ever had."

Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas, of Connecticut, threatened to expel spectators from the courtroom today as the repartee of Miss Guinan drew continued laughter from the crowded benches.

Figh for Admission.

Miss Guinan, heavily jeweled as during the first two days of her trial, resumed the witness chair for continued cross-examination while men and women fought with court attendants to gain entrance to the room.

Special Attorney General Norman Morrison asked the defendant witness if her contract with Salon Royle guaranteeing her a minimum of $1,000 a week had not been drawn to her advantage and she replied it had not.

"Did the lawyer draw this up out of the blue sky?" Morrison asked.

"No. He drew it up in his office," Miss Guinan replied, and the crowd, considering this a humorous "comeback," roared with mirth.

"This is a trial and not a show," Judge Thomas admonished the spectators. "If anyone laughts any more here I will have the attendants clear the galleries."

Assailed Dry Agent.

In his summation Miss Guinan's lawyer sought to discredit the testimony of James White, prohibition agent and the principal Government witness. He asserted White admittedly lied in telling Miss Guinan when he visited the Salon Royale to get evidence that he was a Denver business man and asked "wouldn't he lie about other things, too?"

"White testified," said the lawyer, "that he tried to make criminals out of people. Why couldn't he be constructive? Why didn't he tell Texas Guinan that he thought she was violating the law and urge her not to."

The defense lawyer said the evidence had proven Miss Guinan to be merely an employe at the night club and so not responsible for any infractions of the law that might have been done there without her knowledge.

Alderman Found Guilty Of Accepting $405 Bribe

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11 (A.P.). Edward J. Sweeney, former alderman, was found guilty of bribery today by a jury. He was convicted of accepting $405 for the purchase of a truck flusher for the street department. He will be sentenced later.

Sweeney is the second alderman to be found guilty of bribery. Two others who pleaded guilty are now serving sentences in the State prison. Two more aldermen and several business men are under indictments, returned by a county grand jury in its investigation of charges that graft permeated the city council.

Woman Pilot Killed As Airplane Crashes

Long Beach, Calif., April 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. C. C. McWhinney, society leader and a licensed pilot, was killed this morning when the airplane in which she and her husband were flying crashed at the Municipal Airport. Mr. McWhinney, a lawyer, was slightly injured.

Mrs. McWhinney had more than 250 flying hours to her credit. McWhinney was at the controls when the plane nose dived from an altitude of about 50 feet and crashed on a fence. The couple had been practicing take-offs and landings every morning for a week.

Tabor Luck Enables Widow To Redeem Matchless Mine

Mortgage on Property That Made Senator Wealthy to Be Paid by Former Society Beauty; Shaft Is Last of Riches Her Husband Left.

Denver, April 11 (A.P.).—"Tabor luck" that became a by-word in the West with the rise to fame and fortune of the late Senator H. A. W. Tabor, has come to aid his penniless widow, enabling her again to save her famous Matchless mine, the last remnant of the Tabor fortune.

From the mine site at Leadville, once famous gold camp, Mrs. Tabor, the former beautiful "Baby Doe," now withered with age and poverty-stricken, came to Denver today with a new sparkle in her eyes to announce she will be able to redeem the mortgage on the mine, due next Wednesday.

Charles A. Irwin, Mrs. Tabor's attorney, said the present mortgage held by the Shorego Mining Co., would be paid. It will be the fifth time in twenty years that Mrs. Tabor has recovered the mine from its creditors at the eleventh hour. Through the long period of her poverty she has clung tenaciously to the property which was the fountain from which millions of dollars poured into the pockets of Senator Tabor to make him perhaps the most romantic figure of the Western boom days.

In her lifetime Mrs. Tabor was the pampered society butterfly who married Tabor at the height of his career. The President of the United States was the guest of honor at the wedding.

In the years that followed, the Tabor fortune dwindled. When he died, the senator who once startled Washington by receiving high Government officials while dressed in a jeweled and gold crusted nightgown, left the Matchless mine, a played-out, decrepit property, as the only legacy to his widow.

Mrs. Tabor determined there was more wealth to be had from the Matchless. In 1908 she went to Leadville and personally superintended the work of a few miners who sought to work the old mine. Her efforts failed and several times since then she has been on the verge of losing her mine. Six months ago she was given a voluntary extension of the claim against the mine held by the Shorego company.

For a time Mrs. Tabor lived in a shack at the mine. Recently she has lived in a shabby downtown rooming house here.

Details of the latest redemption of the Matchless were unavailable today. Lately, however, there have been reports from Leadville of renewed activity, including the arrival of modern mining machinery at the old Matchless mine.

World Court Entry Compromise Seen

University Women Are Told Kellogg Should Have Gone to Geneva.

New Orleans, La., April 11 (A.P.).—Settlement of international questions arising between nations will come only through compromise and proper representation, Bessie C. Randolph, professor of political science, Florida State College for Women, told the American Association of University Women in convention here today.

In some sort of a compromise Dr. Randolph predicted settlement of the controversy over the United States entry into the World Court. America's primary objection to the court—the advisory opinion clause—is a technical question, she said, and in her opinion would not have created such a stir had former Secretary Kellogg appeared personally to explain the objection.

Among colleges awarded full membership in the association today was George Washington, Washington, D. C.

Station in Greenland Converses With Byrd

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 11 (A.P.).—Direct radio communication between the expedition of Commander Richard E. Byrd in the Antarctic and that of the University of Michigan in Greenland, was established last night and maintained for almost a half hour.

Prof. William Herbert Hobbs, director of the university weather observatory in Greenland, announced today he had received a message from W. S. Carlson at the Mount Evans station, stating Commander Byrd and he had exchanged meteorological observations for several minutes.

Boy's Headless "Body" Proves to Be Doll's

Gnadenhutten, Ohio, April 11 (A.P.). A report that a headless body of a 4-year-old boy was found in the Tuscarawas River here today was proved false when, upon investigation by Corcner J. F. Lewis and Sheriff Harry C. Smith, they found it to be only a baby doll.

Officials at first believed it might be the body of Melvin Horst, 4 years old, missing from his home in Orrville since last December.

Firm Coolidge Joins Held Him Dubious Risk

Northampton, Mass., April 11 (U.P.). Calvin Coolidge was regarded as a doubtful risk by the New York Life Insurance Co. when he applied for a policy 28 years ago because he was 19 pounds underweight, Dr. Sidney A. Clark revealed today.

The former President, who accepted nomination as a director in the company yesterday, was subjected to delay in receiving the policy because of his slight physique, the physician said.

Engineer to Seek Lost Italia Crew

Italian Plans Search of Arctic for Seven Taken Off in Balloon.

Rome, April 11 (U.P.).—Gianni Albertini, Italian engineer, who took part in the search for missing members of the wrecked polar dirigible Italia's crew last summer, announced today his plans to renew the search late this month.

Albertini already has visited Oslo in connection with plans for the expedition, which will be outfitted to follow through the slender thread of hope that the seven men lost when the balloon part of the Italia was blown away, might still be alive in the Arctic.

The engineer will use a whaling boat chartered in Norway for the search and he hopes to leave from a Norwegian port probably by April 25, he said. The search, as outlined by Albertini, would be made through a large area between the southeastern coast of Spitzbergen and Franz Joseph Land. He said he does not exclude the possibility that the balloon crew spent the winter in Franz Joseph Land.

Chicago Women Oppose Unlicensed Barber Ban

Chicago, Ill., April 11 (A.P.).—Fifty thousand Chicago women are bound they're going to get their hair cuts where they want them, and whether that place is a beauty parlor or a candy store is, they contend, nobody's business.

They have signed a petition protesting against the ruling of Attorney General Carlstrom that beauty parlors can not cut hair unless the operators are licensed as barbers.

Another 50,000 will have signed the petition within another week, predicted Columbus D. Behan, business manager of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers Association.

Suit Seeks to Remove Wisconsin's Governor

Madison, Wis., April 11 (A.P.).—Civil action seeking to remove Gov. Walter J. Kohler from office on the ground that he violated the corrupt practices act in the primary campaign is to be started within the next week or ten days, attorneys appointed by the attorney general said today.

They said they expected to serve summons and complaint in a circuit court.

BORAH FOUNDATION FUND GIVEN IDAHO U.

S. O. Levinson, Chicago Jurist, Presents $55,000 to Aid Outlawry of War.

COURSES TO BE ARRANGED

Moscow, Idaho, April 11 (A.P.).—A gift of $55,000 from Salmon O. Levinson, Chicago attorney and prominent peace advocate, for the establishment of a "William Edgar Borah Outlawry of War Foundation" at the University of Idaho was announced here today by Dr. Frederick J. Kelly, president of the university.

The endowment was offered to perpetuate "the great contribution of William Edgar Borah to the cause of the world peace and democracy." Levinson did not state what form the foundation should take.

In a resolution accepting the offer, the board of regents of the university intimated that a lectureship would be established, correlated with courses dealing with various phases of international relations, with special consideration of the possible establishment of world peace.

"Mr. Levinson," Dr. Kelly said, "is recognized internationally as the originator of the plan for the outlawry of war which the Idaho senator has championed for years. It is said to have formed the basis for the Kellogg peace pact. Since 1917, the date of America's entry into the World War, he has visited many European nations in the interest of world peace. He was the organizer of the American committee on the outlawry of war, of which he is now chairman."

Senator Borah, chairman of the committee on foreign relations in the Senate, has long advocated antiwar proposals, and lectured for the cause of peace.

Borah's plan for abolishing war was embodied in a Senate resolution introduced in 1923. It was based on the contention that international peace proposals would be helped "if war itself were declared a punishable crime in international law." His resolution advocated a universal treaty making war a public crime under the law of nations; a code of international law to foster a peace founded on equality and justice among nations, and an international court modeled upon the United States Supreme Court.

Catts Posts His Bond; Must Now Be Arrested

Pensacola, Fla., April 11 (A.P.).—Sidney J. Catts, former Governor of Florida, indicted on charges of aiding and abetting a counterfeiting ring, attempted to post $17,500 bond before United States Commissioner Milton in Marianna yesterday, it was learned today.

The bond was made, but Federal officials said it was void since there was no warrant for arrest in the hands of the Marianna commissioner. The capias for Catts' arrest arrived at the office of the United States marshal here today and will be forwarded to Marianna. The marshal said Catts would have to surrender and post bond anew.

WRITER SAYS HARDY GAVE HIM WARNING

Was Cautioned Not to Identify Woman With Ormiston as Aimee McPherson.

SURE IT WAS EVANGELIST

Sacramento, Calif., April 11 (A.P.).—Wallace Moore, newspaper man, testified today at the impeachment trial of Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy that he is convinced the woman he saw with Kenneth Ormiston, radio operator at Santa Barbara during the disappearance of Aimee Semple McPherson, was the evangelist herself.

Moore was a newspaper man at Santa Barbara when Mrs. McPherson disappeared three years ago. At the time he partly identified through newspaper articles a woman seen in an automobile there with Ormiston as Mrs. McPherson. The newspaper man testified today he had seen the evangelist before 1926 and that when he saw the woman with Ormiston he had certain features in mind through which he might ascertain whether she was Mrs. McPherson.

"Can you state now she (Mrs. McPherson) was the woman in the car?" Moore was asked.

"Yes, I think she was," the witness answered.

The newspaper man was brought into the case in an effort to prove the prosecution's allegation that when Judge Hardy visited him in Santa Barbara, after his partial identification of the evangelist, the jurist frightened Moore into retracting his statements by telling him of the dangers of establishing a wrong identification.

Moore said that Judge Hardy told him Ormiston was considered as a "man about town and something of a sport," and that Mrs. McPherson would not associate with Ormiston publicly.

Moore was warned by the judge, he said, that if he bore false witness, even though it be unintentional, that he might be sued by the party against whom he testified at any time during his life and that in all probability full judgment would be obtained against him.

16 MEN CONVICTED IN "CANDY RACKET"

Eighteen Others Are Acquitted in Chicago on Trust Act Accusations.

REVEAL BOMB-THROWING

Chicago, April 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Racketeers in the candy-making industry took it on the chin today. A sealed verdict, opened in Federal court by Judge Lindley's clerk, found sixteen members of an unlawful organization, the Chicago Association of Candy Jobbers, guilty of conspiracy to violate the antitrust laws by fixing prices and wrecking competition.

The combine was formed to control the candy business in the city. Those who did not join and pay dues were visited by "scare eggs, big eggs and bad eggs," or small and large bombs and odor bombs. Vincent Pastor, an official, who turned Government witness, testified that he paid $25 to $50 to bombers and wreckers to break windows in cigar stores that sold candy and were not members of the association. Thirty-four men were placed on trial. Eighteen were acquitted.

Among those convicted were Albert A. Hoffman, president of the association; Henry Meisterling, first vice president; Roy S. Ralston, second vice president, and John D. Hand, secretary-treasurer. They, with the others, face a maximum sentence of one year in jail and a fine of $5,000 each.

It was a signal victory for the youthful, bobbed-haired Miss Mary G. Connor, Assistant United States Attorney General, sent to Chicago from Washington to war on racketeers.

"It was an intelligent jury," she said "They showed great discretion in picking out for punishment those whom the Government considered the ringleaders in the conspiracy to fix prices and stifle competition.

"This conviction will give Chicago racketeers something to think about. They used to think the antitrust law was a joke and all they had to do was pay a small fine while their profits mounted to the thousands.

"This is good, but it's only a starter. I'm going to try my hardest to help Chicago out of its racketeer dilemma. I'd like to get them all, but I don't want to indict half your population."

8 Admit Flogging; Pay $500 to Victim

Indicted Men Who Whipped Ohio Painter Are Not to Be Prosecuted.

St. Clairsville, Ohio, April 11 (A.P.).—Eight men were indicted by the Belmont County grand jury here today for riotous conspiracy and assault and battery in connection with the attack on H. L. Van Horne, local painter, last week.

Immediately after the indictments were returned, Prosecutor George McKelvey announced that the eight men, names of whom were not revealed, had admitted the flogging and had paid $500 to Van Horne, an amount for which the county is held responsible under the mob law.

He said that inasmuch as the money had been paid and the men admitted the attack that the charges would be dropped but that the indictments would be held over their heads in case of any future violence.

Van Horne said he was satisfied with the arrangements. He was kidnaped about midnight early last week and taken to a schoolyard near the town, where he was beaten into unconsciousness.

Mother, Girl Slain; Police Seeking Son

Wife and Daughter of Consul's Adviser Are Killed in New York.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—The wife of the legal adviser to the Colombian Consul in New York was shot to death in her Upper West Side apartment today and her 19-year-old daughter was so severely wounded at the same time that she died in Knickerbocker Hospital. Police sent out a general alarm for the woman's son, who was said to have done the shooting.

The woman was Mrs. Raquel Espriella, 52 years old, whose husband, Henry Espriella, has been legal adviser to the Colombian Consul here for eight years. The daughter, Theresa, died from three bullet wounds which she told police were inflicted by her brother, 26 years old, who, she said, fired two shots at her mother.

She told police her brother had been acting "queerly" for some time and had not lived at home since 1927. The father and another daughter were not at home at the time of the shooting.

U. S. REPLY DEFENDS I'M ALONE'S SINKING

Note to Canada Cites Lack of Other Protests as Sign of Acquiescence.

CLAIMS RIGHT TO FORCE

(United Press.)

Two defenses for sinking by Coast Guard vessels of the rum runner I'm Alone are set up in a lengthy note prepared by State Department officials in answer to the protest of the Canadian government, it was learned last night.

The draft of the note waits only approval of Secretary of State Stimson. It is understood Stimson has examined the draft, but whether he made any changes is not known. The note is expected to go forward soon.

The note supports the Coast Guard in sinking of the I'm Alone in the Gulf of Mexico with an exhaustive review of previous rum treaty ship seizures.

It contends in the first place, it is understood, that three Canadian ships seized in recent years—the Vinces, Gold Harbor and Pescawha—were hailed within the treaty limit, fled and were captured on the high seas. These seizures were approved by United States courts.

The note argues that the principle involved in these seizures is the same as that in the case of the I'm Alone, and that Canada did not protest these incidents. The State Department, it is understood, interprets the failure to protest as a tacit admission that seizure on the high seas under such circumstances is a proper action.

The second defense involves interpretation of the rum treaty between the United States and Canada. The treaty reaffirms existence of the 3-mile international limit, but it expressly grants to the United States the right to stop, search and, if the search warrants, to seize liquor boats within an hour's steaming distance of the American shore. The note contends the treaty implied the right to employ necessary force in compelling liquor vessels to submit to being stopped, searched and seized by granting the right to stop, search and seize.

Miss Talley to Return To Farm; Quits Opera

New York, April 11 (U.P.).—Marion Talley, who came here as a 19-year-old girl three years ago to become the Metropolitan Opera Company's youngest star, will retire from the operatic and concert stage next month. She wants to go back West with her family, buy a farm and "be just like all the other farmers."

Announcement of the young singer's plan to retire was made today by her manager, George Engles, after a performance of "Mignon," in which she sang. He said she had declined a contract offered her by the Metropolitan for next season.

Village Is Destroyed Lacking Fire-Fighters

Manistique, Mich., April 11 (A.P.).—Without fire-fighting equipment and with outside communication shut off, residents of Gould City were forced to stand by and watch a fire destroy most of their village today.

Eleven buildings were destroyed, including the telephone exchange and the lines to Manistique, the closest town with a fire department. Damage was estimated at $75,000.

Bribery Is Charged To Gov. H. P. Long

Louisiana House Adds Formal Accusation to Case Against Executive.

Baton Rouge, La., April 11 (A.P.).—The Louisiana House of Representatives today formally impeached Gov. Huey P. Long for alleged attempts to bribe legislators, and then launched into testimony on others of the nineteen counts against the youthful executive.

The vote was 56 to 40. Specifically, the charge is that the governor offered Representative Adolph Guevmard, of Iberville Parish, and Felix Delaune, of St. Charles, remunerative employment in return for their support of administrative legislative measures.

The Senate, sitting as a high court of impeachment, reconvend at noon and heard its committee report on rules of procedure. Under the rules as presented no charges will be tried until the House has filed all charges, with the provision that if the lower body has not completed its work by April 22 the Senate would fix a date of hearing on any articles adopted.

Mate Who Beat Wife Must Kiss Her Daily

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—John McCabe, of Brooklyn, who admitted that he beat his wife, was directed by Magistrate Ellperin today to kiss her every morning for six months or serve that period in the workhouse.

And there must not be any beatings, the magistrate said, or McCabe will have to go to the workhouse anyway with no time off for the kisses. McCabe executed the first day's sentence in court and the couple returned to their home.

CAPT. JOHN PITT DENING,

Futile Love Is Seen As Suicide Motive

Coroner Finds Capt. Dening, Polo Player, Shot Self While Insane.

London, April 11 (A.P.).—A hopeless love affair is thought to have been the motive which caused Capt. John Pitt Dening, international polo player, to shoot himself in a London hotel Tuesday night.

The coroner's inquest which inquired into the mysterious death today returned a verdict of suicide while of unsound mind. Capt. Dening himself, in a note, intimated that his act might have been due to injuries which he suffered on the polo field ten years ago.

A friend, Vivian Champion de Gresigny, testified that he had seen the captain several times recently and that the latter was upset about a hopeless love affair.

Capt. Dening shot himself through the right eye with a revolver.

$50,000 Fund Left By Leopold for Son

Other Brothers of Bobby Franks' Slayer Will Share $500,000.

Chicago, April 11 (A.P.).—A trust fund of $50,000 "for the care and maintenance" of his son, Nathan F. Leopold, jr., who with Richard Loeb is serving a life sentence in Joliet Prison for the murder of Bobby Franks, is provided in the will of the late Nathan F. Leopold, filed for probate here today.

The document specifies that the fund may be dissolved at any time by Foreman N. and Samuel Leopold, elder brothers of Nathan, jr. The remainder of the $500,000 estate is divided equally between Foreman and Samuel.

The will mentions that no provision is made for Mr. Leopold's second wife, whom he married in 1927, as she was provided for in a prenuptial agreement.

COAST GUARD PLANS CHECK ON AIRPLANES

tion may be given are to be furnished by the National Aeronautic Association under the proposed plan.

In effect, the system will work as a combined observation and message relay service. As an airplane, bound along an established coastal airway, passes over a coast guard station, the man on duty at that station will telephone ahead to the next, giving a brief description of the plane, its make and type, and approximate speed. If he plane is not sighted at the next station within a reasonable period of time, a telephone call will be sent back and an immediate search started.

No routine reports to airways operators or airports will be made. The entire purpose of the checking system will be to secure immediate service in case of trouble, and the stations will work among themselves unless outside assistance is deemed necessary.

Fifteen stations from Charleston, S. C., to Rockaway, N. Y., have been tentatively named as checking points. Commander Hall pointed out that Coast Guard stations maintain a watch throughout the areas under their supervision 24 hours a day during 365 days a year. With this condition it would be impossible for an airplane to pass within sight of such a station at any time of the day or night without being noticed and reported.

Airport operators will be requested, when the plan goes into effect, to notify the nearest Coast Guard station of its time of departure, destination and proposed route. Operators will also be requested to instruct their pilots to fly past Coast Guard stations near enough and at a sufficiently low altitude to insure their planes being seen and recognized.

Commander Hall pointed out that during the search for the missing Sikorsky amphibian last month more than 160,000 square miles of land and water were searched from the air. When the present plan is put into effect, the maximum area necessary to be searched will be only 1,500 square miles.

MRS. GANN IN PLACE OF HONOR AT AMBASSADOR'S DRY DINNER

cided to accord her the status of the wife of a Vice President.

The liquor question, however, was finally decided by the Chilean Ambassador himself. There were several considerations that swayed him.

There was the incongruity of inviting Secretary of Treasury Mellon, in whose department the work of prohibition enforcement is located, members of President Hoover's Cabinet, White House officials and the Vice President to watch the legal violation of United States prohibition laws by immune diplomats.

All servants employed to serve the liquor at the dinner would be transporting and handling it in violation of the dry laws.

Strictly speaking, the Pan-American Union Building, where the dinner was held, could not exactly be considered as Chilean territory even for the evening.

Then there was President Hoover's inaugural plea for law observance by individual citizens of the United States, many of whom would be present at the dinner.

The guests included seven members of the Hoover Cabinet, Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the Supreme Court, Senators Jones (Republican), of Washington, author of the Jones law; King (Democrat), of Utah; Capper (Republican), of Kansas; Copeland (Democrat), of New York, as well as several members of the House of Representatives and officials of the State Department.

Ordinarily approximately 116 quarts of red and white wine, champagne and other liquors would have been required to quench the thirsts of guests at a gathering as large as last night's dinner.

Despite the fact that Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, who admits that he drinks, but votes dry, has let it be known that he intends to launch an attack upon diplomatic liquor at the coming session of Congress, it is understood that last night's dry dinner sets no precedent for Ambassador Davila within his own home.

Many other dinners are in prospect at the Chilean Embassy in the near future that surely will not be dry and it is understood that omission of wines from last night's table deos not commit Chile's Ambassador to personal support of prohibition, nor is it to be considered as an expression of his personal views.

The simple fact is that last night's dinner was too much of an official affair from the point of view of the United States Government to warrant the customary display of diplomatic immunity in the matter of prohibited beverages.

Whether Ambassador Davila's dry adventure last night will meet with a similar reception among the members of the foreign diplomatic corps and serve as a precedent for future diplomatic dinners was a topic of conversation in many quarters last night.

CREDITORS REDUCE DEMANDS ON BERLIN

Hope to Surprise by Moderate Terms to Be Presented; Alternatives Given.

U. S. SHARE UNREVEALED

Paris, April 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Germany will be asked tomorrow or by Saturday at the latest to agree to a plan for final liquidation of her war obligations, which is described as "well within her capacity to pay."

This new and revised reparations bill was nearly completed this evening after four days of almost continuous sittings between the French, British, Italian and Belgian experts of the Young committee Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee; J. P. Morgan and technical experts connected with the American delegation attended some of these sittings.

The bill to be presented to Dr. Schacht, head of the German delegation, is not in the form of a direct proposal, but will be put forward as a basis for discussion. The prevailing hopefulness that a definite settlement of the reparations problem will soon be reached indicates that the figures under discussion are about what Mr. Young let it be understood a fortnight ago he considered a fair settlement.

Hope to Please Berlin.

Though different annuity schedules were discussed in detail today and will not definitely be settled until tomorrow morning, the figures which the correspondent cabled last night appear still to be the basis of the annuities Germany's creditors will ask tomorrow.

There was a disposition in today's discussions, however, to increase the earlier annuities, which will be covered at least one-third by deliveries in kind, and reduce the later ones in compensation. An increase, for example, of $11,910,000 in the earlier annual payments could be compensated by a cut of $47,640,000 in the annuities of the terminal years, so that Germany's creditors, in presenting their bill, ask for initial payments of about $404,000,000 annually and cut the later annuities of the 37 years payment period well below the present "standard annuity" of $600,000,000.

The indication is that Germany's creditors would like to surprise German opinion by the moderation of their joint note as compared with their schedules presented individually to Dr. Schacht just before the Easter recess.

U. S. Share in Balance.

In the general process of reducing the claims made in those memoranda by about one-fourth there has been no indication of what may be done about the American share for damage claims and the cost of occupation. These claims represent 2¼ per cent of the amount Germany was to pay under the Spa agreement. In the scaling down process the percentages of the Spa agreement are said, however, to have been followed with some concessions, notably a slight one to Italy to bring her percentage high enough to cover her war debts.

The new bill will leave it within Germany's choice either to pay after the first 37 years sufficient to cover the war debts of the allies to America each year until the war debt agreements expire, or to compensate by bigger payments in the earlier years, on the basis of the present-day value of the remote payments otherwise due between the thirty-seventh and fifty-eighth years.

Twice Found Guilty, Doctor Gains an Appeal

Chicago, Ill., April 11 (A.P.).—Dr. Amanto Rongetti, once sentenced to die in the electric chair and later, after a new trial, sentenced to from one to fourteen years for manslaughter, was granted a writ of supersedeas by the State Supreme Court today. Under the writ, the high court will review the case.

Dr. Rongetti was tried for the death of Miss Loretta Enders, upon whom he was charged with having performed an illegal operation.

Constable Kills Lawyer Over Fish Law Charge

Terre Haute, Ind., April 11 (A.P.).—Austin Sweet, 77, Terre Haute attorney, was shot and fatally wounded this afternoon by John Van Cook, constable of a justice of the peace court, who had gone to Sweet's office to arrest him on a charge of fishing without a license.

Van Hook surrendered himself to police after the shooting. Believing the lawyer intended to draw a weapon, Van Hook said, he fired, the bullet passing through Sweet's head.

fields were leveled, an expensive operation, the site would probably have to be limited to a two-way field—that is, it would be possible to take off and land only in two directions.

Williams and Cottrell also visited the Camp Springs site, in Prince Georges County, Md. While they found more level ground here, they concluded that the site, 12 miles from the heart of the city, is too far out.

The two men made their inspection tour at the suggestion of President W. W. The board of directors of the organization will consider the airport project at a meeting at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon.

Lady Heath Ignored By Auto Engineers

Famous Woman Flier Just Overlooked, They Say, at Banquet.

Detroit, April 11 (A.P.).—Not to be outdone by Washington, political Capital of the Nation, Detroit, aspiring to be the aircraft as well as the automobile capital, today was having its social prestige squabble.

The Detroit section of the American Society of Automotive Engineers held a banquet last night at the Book Cadillac Hotel, in connection with the all-American aircraft show. The "400" of the aviation world were present but Lady May Heath, champion of the fair sex in aviation, did not attend. Amelia Earhart was there, as was Helen McGregor, who represented the Canadian government.

Explanations vary concerning why Lady Heath was slighted. Lady Heath says "I'm just a poor working girl and here to sell motors. I'm not good enough for these engineers." Officials of the society explained that no slight was intended for the famous woman pilot; that it merely was an oversight. Lady Heath has canceled all further social engagements during the rest of the week.

One Dry Agent Not Sufficient to Indict

Word Must Be Supported Under Jones Law, Is California View.

San Francisco, April 11 (A.P.).—The Federal grand jury here made it known yesterday that it would not return indictments under the Jones law on the uncorroborated testimony of a prohibition agent.

It was announced that because of the heavy penalties provided in the Jones law for liquor violations, no such indictments would be returned unless two or more prohibition agents give evidence of having bought liquor from the person accused.

In five liquor cases the jury returned only two indictments. Persons involved in the three other cases were freed because only one prohibition agent testified in each.

Commenting on the jury's position, United States District Attorney George Hatfield said: "The grand jury is simply taking the stand which I have all along advocated, that it will not indict under the Jones law on uncorroborated 'buys.'"

Sudden need for extra help can be met by an ad in the classified columns of The Washington Post.

OIL PACT OF STATES UNDER U. S. IS ASKED

Conservation Board Urges Group as Solution of Present Tangle.

CONGRESS ACTION NEEDED

(United Press.)

An interstate compact between the large oil producing Commonwealths, to which the Federal Government might be a party, was suggested by the Federal Oil Conservation Board yesterday as a tentative solution of the petroleum conservation problem.

Suggestion of such an organization was contained in a letter from Secretary of Interior Wilbur to R. C. Holmes, New York, of the American Petroleum Institute. The communication was sent last Monday but only made public yesterday.

Secretary Wilbur conferred late yesterday with Dr. George Otis Smith, of the Geological Survey, whom he will send to confer with the governors of three or four oil-producing States to enlist their cooperation. Inclusion of the Federal Government in the proposed compact, it was stated, will require congressional action.

The board's suggestion was advanced as an alternative to the American Petroleum Institute's program of holding oil production this year to the 1928 level by agreements between the large oil companies. This proposal, according to a letter from Attorney General Mitchell, read to the institute's representatives when they met with the board here last week, would possibly be a violation of the Sherman act.

At the close of the conference, Secretary Wilbur stated he regarded oil conservation as a problem to be dealt with through the States. He promised the sympathetic cooperation of the board in finding some effective and legal method of oil restriction.

Reiterating the opinion expressed by the Attorney General, Secretary Wilbur's letter stated the Federal Oil Conservation Board had no power to approve the institute's original program, as it had been asked to do.

The board's plan, as outlined by Wilbur, is to open new oil fields by sound scientific methods. They desire to eliminate the feverish drilling of offset wells, with its attendant waste of oil and gas, as has been done in the past.

"Purely negative action does not cure the prime difficulty—the rapid waste of our oil resources," Wilbur wrote. "The purpose of the board has been to find a constructive method for the prevention of the present reckless waste of oil and it naturally sympathizes with every practicable step."

Film Plot Pirated, Witwer Suit Holds

Author Asks $2,300,000 of Harold Lloyd Firm, Claiming Story.

Los Angeles, Calif., April 11 (A.P.).—Alleging that the Harold Lloyd Corporation had plagiarized his story, "The Emancipation of Rodney" in the filming of "The Freshman," H. C. Witwer, author of humorous works, today filed suit in Federal court for an accounting of profits from the movie estimated at $2,300,000. Witwer asked in addition to the accounting that the film be impounded and that attorneys' fees of $100,000 be paid. The author said his story was written in 1915, and later it was submitted to the corporation after having been published in a magazine. Witwer charged that after submitting the story to Lloyd he received no reply and that a subsequent demand for return of the story also was not answered. Instead, the suit recited, the corporation used the story in a film and later caused a book, "The Freshman," to be published.

Representatives of the corporation declared today that "there is absolutely no foundation for these charges."

Civic Group Seeks Gage School for Colored Use

At a meeting of the Bloomingdale Civic Association held last night in the Tabor Presbyterian Church, the N. P. Gage School, at the intersection of Second street and Flagler place northwest, was requested for use as a colored school. A committee was appointed to secure transfer of this school to divisions 10-13 of public schools. Small children, it was stated, are now compelled to attend Mott School, at a distance.

The Federation of Civic Associations was requested to grant to the assiciation the east side of Second street, from Florida avenue to Adams street, as its territory. Standing committee chairmen were named, including John E. Hall, education; Dr. Louis Cornish, sanitation; E. A. Bryant, public safety; John R. Pinkett, public works; Mrs. J. A. Cuney, membership; Edward F. Harris, publicity; Samuel B. Matthews, legislation.

Columbia Schoolgirls Win Folk-Song Contest

Members of the Girl Reserves Club of Columbia Junior High School last night won first place in the folk-song contest at the Young Women's Christian Association, Seventeenth and K streets northwest. Girls from 23 Girl Reserve Clubs in Washington junior high schools participated.

Girl students from the L. G. Hine Junior High School Club took second place in the contest, and members of the Girl Reserves Club of Stuart Junior High School won third place. The winners will sing during intermission at performances of the Girl Reserves Clubs' play, "Cinderella," at the Young Women's Christian Association tonight at 8:15 o'clock and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

cide Coast to take over the drive against the rebels in Sinaloa.

El Universal said that a man named Santiago Perez and an unnamed woman were sent to Mexico City recently by the northern rebels to secure explosives. These were to be sent to Jalisco to be used in the train bombing. It was stated that some of the rebel generals knew of the plot and that certain residents of Torreon also were implicated. The garrison chief said incriminating documents were found in a hotel room where Perez was living.

American consular officers on the Mexican border have been instructed by the State Department to demand the immediate release of Al Coenen, a young El Paso airplane mechanic who was reported kidnaped by the Mexican rebels on evacuating Juarez.

The whereabouts of Gen. Marcello Caraveo, with whom Coenen was said to have been taken, is unknown, but it was said at the State Department that the demand would be made as soon as the rebel could be found.

Guion Wiped Out.

Every structure in the village of Guion, Ark., was leveled by the tornadoes, a National Guard flier reported today to Gov. Parnell after a flight over the devastated region.

Lieut Joe T. Shumate, adjutant of the 154th Observation Squadron, Arkansas National Guard, said apparently there were twin tornadoes, the offspring of a greater one. He said the storm originated several miles west of Guion, struck that village with full force, and then parted.

One path was barely discernable almost due east from Guion, he said, and the other was in a northeasterly direction. The former apparently traveled in the direction of Swifton and Lorado, the other striking just east of Batesville at Morefield.

"I flew about 20 miles west of Guion and then started back east along the White River. There is a large bend in the river. This bend afforded the storm easy access to Guion, situated on a bluff. The storm apparently hit full force against this village, making a clean sweep to demolish every building."

Flying east and following the Northern Twin, Lieut. Shumate came upon the area north of Swifton, where more than a score of persons perished. He said the tornado apparently had "dipped" there.

House Is Lifted Twice.

Memphis, Tenn., April 11 (A.P.).—Claude Clark, 27, of near Wynne, Ark., told today how the tornado last evening lifted his house twice, set it on one end and then a moment later smashed it into splinters. The twelve occupants all escaped with their lives.

Clark gave an eye-witness account of the twisters' antics as he stood beside an operating table at Baptist Memorial Hospital while surgeons ministered to his father, S. N. Clark, 52, who suffered serious injuries.

"The afternoon had been sultry," Clark said, "but in the evening it began to hail. The very air seemed to warn us that something terrible was going to happen. Then we began to hear a distant roar. It grew louder and louder. Wind began to whistle in the trees and around the house.

"The roar boomed down on us. We were all sitting in a bedroom at the end of the house when the tornado struck. The house was lifted up and banged down. It was lifted up a second time and we were all thrown around inside. It was set down on end and beds, chairs, pictures and human beings were all in a mass on the wall.

Saw Trees Float in Air.

"The house began to shake. We were shuffled around on the ceiling. Then there was a terrific crash and the house flew into splinters. I was under a few pieces of timber. I stood up, but something flying through the air hit me across the face and knocked me down. It dazed me, but when my head cleared I began to dig in the wreckage for the others. By the lightning flashes I could see giant trees floating through the air.

"Parts of houses—roofs and walls—would go roaring through the air. The rain came down in such sheets that I felt as if I was drowning. And all the time the thunder was banging and the tornado was roaring. The bolts of lightning were so vivid that they seemed like they were striking in my face.

"Soon the storm began to die down. I found my brother and a nephew, who had been sitting on my knees when the storm struck, buried under a bed piled high with wreckage."

Finally, he said, all of the family were extricated, and it was determined that only the elder Clark suffered serious injuries.

"That storm was like judgment day—that's the only way I know to tell it," Clark added.

Train Races With Gale.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., April 11 (A.P.).—A thrilling story of a race between a fast Missouri Pacific train and the tornado that claimed more than two-score lives in northeastern Arkansas was related by passengers after the train reached here.

Engineer M. S. Thompson said he saw the tornado and could even see timbers and trees flying in the air. It seemed to be heading directly toward the train. Thompson opened the throttle. The train picked up speed, and within a few minutes, according to the estimates of passengers, was racing along about 70 miles an hour. The race continued for 25 to 30 minutes, then the tornado seemed to change its course. It crossed the railroad tracks and disappeared in the east.

Thompson declined to discuss the race, except to say that "it durned near caught us." Passengers gave him credit for saving the 100 or more passengers from injury or death.

Bride-to-Be, 71, Awaits Mother's Death to Wed

Philadelphia, April 11 (A.P.).—Romance was a long way on the road for Isabella C. Oliver and Frank H. Thomas, but their marriage was just around the corner today.

Mr. Thomas, who is 72, led his 71-year-old bride-to-be before the marriage license clerk in City Hall today. After they had obtained the license a bit of tragedy was unfolded. Yesterday Miss Oliver buried her mother, Mrs. Ermeline Oliver, who was 90.

"Mother forbade my marrying until after she died," said Miss Oliver. "She always maintained I would have plenty of time after that. But mother lived to a ripe old age." The date of the wedding was not disclosed.

Cruisers to Serve As Herrick Escort

Tourville Nears New York With Body of U. S. Ambassador.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy Department was advised by the commander of the French cruiser Tourville, which is bringing Ambassador Herrick's body to the United States, that the ship should arrive at Nantucket lightship, 200 miles from New York, at 6 p. m. today.

The Tourville will be escorted from the lightship to New York by the cruisers Marblehead and Cincinnati The Tourville will fly the French and United States flags at half-mast.

Newport, R. I., April 11 (A.P.).—The United States cruisers Marblehead and Cincinnati arrived here today from Cuba to act as escort for the French cruiser Tourville, aboard which is the body of Myron T. Herrick, late Ambassador to France. The two cruisers will proceed at midnight to a point due east of Nantucket Shoals to intercept the Tourville and accompany her to New York.

Legation Here Denies Any Unrest in Persia

Denial of reports of unrest in Persia was contained in a statement issued yesterday by the Persian Legation. The statement says:

"The Persian Legation is in position to deny news recently published by the United Press of an unrest in Persia on account of reforms recently instituted by his imperial majesty, the shah.

"Such a report is absolutely unfounded; telegraphic communications are open, while peace and tranquillity reign throughout the Persian Empire."

Sutherland to Retain Alien Property Office

Howard Sutherland, alien property custodian since 1925, announced yesterday that President Hoover had requested him to continue in that office. The announcement was made following a conference at the White House.

Sutherland tendered his resignation at the end of the Coolidge term. He succeeded Fred C. Hicks, who died suddenly.

WOMAN GETS $5,000 BY THREATENING BANK

"Now the rest of them," she demanded, fingering the match again.

Kenney gathered up the remaining bills and passed them over. The woman placed them quickly in her purse. "Don't say anything until I get outside," she cautioned, "I'd hate to have to mess things up in here."

She then walked out of the bank and Kenney dashed into an adjoining cage to tell E. H. Dahl, assistant cashier. Dahl had been less than 10 feet away during the robbery.

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Patricia Barrett, an 18-year-old telephone operator, was convicted today of first degree robbery. She was the first woman to be convicted of such an offense here since the passage of the Baumes laws, under which she may receive as much as fifteen years in prison.

Russell Shaw was convicted with her and the jury disagreed as to Shaw's brother-in-law, John Golden, who will be tried again.

The charge was that Miss Barrett pointed a pistol at an apartment house superintendent while her two companions took $7 and a watch from him. The district attorney referred to the defendants as "angel faced robbers with murder written in their hearts."

LISTING RUM STOCKS DENOUNCED BY DYER

Illegal, Says Missourian, Who Gives Little Concern to Speculative Loss.

PLANS FURTHER INQUIRY

Representative L. C. Dyer (Republican), of St. Louis, who, on Wednesday, flatly denied that he knew anything about the matter, yesterday admitted that he had protested to the New York Curb Market Association concerning his speculation losses in Hiram Walker Distillery stock. He stated that he also had protested to the broker who sold him the securities.

When asked Wednesday whether he had demanded reimbursement from the curb exchange management for his losses, the St. Louis representative said: "I know nothing about the matter. I have made no demand. You can say there is nothing in it."

Later on Wednesday when shown the report from New York that the curb exchange officers had said they had received a protest from him, Dyer asserted that if the curb management wanted to give out anything all details must come from that source.

Given Prominence in Papers.

The newspapers yesterday morning devoted almost as much space to the story as they had given to the alleged liquor smuggling by Representatives William M. Morgan and M. Alfred Michaelson. They made much of the fact that Dyer had been a consistent wet and that he was ranking Republican member of the House judiciary committee which passes on all prohibition legislation.

Commenting more freely yesterday on the protest, Dyer said he was not so much concerned with his losses through the Hiram Walker "flyer" as he was in the propriety of the curb exchange listing a security of a company manufacturing liquor, now contraband in the United States.

"I want to raise the question of the legality of listing distillery stocks on the American exchanges, which I intend to investigate further," Dyer said.

He would not indicate whether he expected to ask for a congressional investigation of the matter, which he could easily get through his influence on the judiciary committee.

"Tipped" by Friend, He Says.

"I bought Hiram Walker as a legitimate investment just as I have bought other securities in the past," Dyer continued. "A friend of mine in a broker's office telephoned me one day, and recommended that I buy Hiram Walker. I had confidence in his financial judgment and told him to buy some for me. I had no idea at the time that it was a distillery security and when I subsequently learned that it was a Canadian company manufacturing liquor I was astounded.

"The stock was not listed as Hiram Walker Distillery, merely as Hiram Walker D. My loss was small, not enough to worry about."

Newspapers yesterday pointed out that Hiram Walker was a favorite speculative stock on the Curb and that it had skyrocketed in January to 93 but at present was around 70. The tip was current in Washington and New York that the company was due for a rise because large quantities of its two popular brands, "Canadian Club" and "Imperial," were being shipped illicitly into the United States to satisfy demands of American consumers. When the tip was circulated, the fact that the company made these two popular brands of whisky was considered a good reason for buying the securities.

Bought 200 Shares, Is Report.

Dyer would not say how many shares of stock he had bought nor the exact amount he had lost. One report here was to the effect that he bought 200 shares through two brokerage houses.

"My letters to the exchange and to the brokerage house were more to call attention to what I regarded as a violation of the law than to my losses," Dyer said.

"The spirit of the prohibition law is violated by the listing of these securities. In my opinion the curb exchange contributes to this violation as do the newspapers which advertise this security. The prohibition law specifically provides against advertising of liquor."

Dyer evidently was distressed at the publicity his letters had received. He would not consent to making them public, and added that if the brokerage house wanted to make known the letter he had written to it, that would be its own affair.

Maryland Grants Tag Exemption to Employes

A resident of Maryland who uses a car furnished him by the District company which employs him only to go back and forth to business is not compelled to purchase Maryland license tags, it was decided yesterday in Prince Georges County Circuit Court at Upper Marlboro.

The decision was announced by Circuit Court Judges Joseph C. Mattingly and William M. Loker in upholding the contention of George Merrick, Marlboro attorney, acting for J. Edward Binger, of Mitchellsville. The decision reverses a decision of the County Police Court, where it was held that Binger should purchase Maryland tags.

Woman, 71, Hurt by Car.

Mrs. Catherine D. Steele, 71 years old, of 206 A street southeast, was injured last night when struck down on B street between Second and Third streets southeast by an automobile, said by police to have been operated by Herbert Wilbur, 24, of 4315 New Hampshire avenue northwest. She was taken to Casualty Hospital.

NEW BRITISH NAVAL PROPOSAL RUMORED

Two Classes of Cruisers, to Meet U. S. Needs, Talked Of at Geneva.

SOCIALISTS TO URGE CUT

Geneva, April 11 (A.P.).—Two announcements today warned Geneva that a new battle to cut the armaments of the world was about to open here.

One was that an important delegation of the International Socialist Party will arrive on Monday to present a manifesto to the press urging world disarmament. The other was that the Soviet delegation has engaged an entire floor of a hotel near the conference meeting place. Maxim Litvinoff, acting commissar for foreign affairs, who heads the delegation, last year invited the nations to disarm.

Newspaper correspondents are waiting with interest to see if the American delegate, Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, has any suggestion, and they also are attempting to discover if there is any foundation for the report that the British government may submit helpful suggestions.

U. S. Delegates Silent.

Those of the American delegation now attending the international conference for suppression of counterfeiting have been besieged for statements on the American program, but without result. It was reported today that Dr. J. Loudon, of the Netherlands, president of the preparatory commission for the disarmament conference, had abandoned the idea of offering a detailed agenda and will let the conference itself determine what matters it will attempt to settle.

The Russians are expected to insist on early discussion of their project of partial disarmament which was presented at the last meeting as their total disarmament scheme was rejected.

As delegates began converging on Geneva today, there were unconfirmed reports in league circles that Great Britain contemplates advancing some suggestion on the naval question before the British general elections calculated to hasten an arrangement with the other naval powers, especially the United States.

Two Categories Possible.

One suggestion discussed in league circles is that the powers might agree to have two categories of cruisers with the privilege of transferring tonnage from one category to another in accordance with the specific needs of the particular power, for instance Great Britain would have the right to transfer her allotted total tonnage of cruisers into small cruisers needed for her extensive patrolling work.

London, April 11 (A.P.).—The British foreign office today declined to comment on reports from Geneva that new British proposals on the naval question were being rumored there.

It was emphasized that the Geneva agenda had not been fixed and that the air was full of reports of what the delegates to the preparatory disarmament conference have in mind.

It was felt on Downing street that it would be likely to be more helpful to the cause of disarmament not to make any comment which might prejudice the commission's work. It was learned authoritatively that there was no reason why new suggestions should not be made prior to the British general elections.

Comment Here Withheld.

(Associated Press.)

Lacking detailed information, administration officials withheld comment yesterday on suggestions at Geneva that Great Britain might propose two categories of cruisers at the forthcoming preliminary arms conference with each power given the privilege of interchanging ships between the two classes.

Whether such a British proposal would alter the situation materially would depend upon the types of ships proposed for the two categories. The United States has held out for the right to build all 10,000-ton cruisers within the maximum allowed for that class of fighting craft on the ground that such ships alone will meet its peculiar needs

On the other hand, Great Britain has proposed sharp limitation upon this size of cruisers, with the bulk of the maximum tonnage to be made up of smaller ships, of the 6,500 or 6,000 tons class, as the ones needed for the extensive patrol work.

Behind the British proposal, however, American Government officials recognize the possibility that Great Britain could make effective as war agencies the vast number of merchant liners under the British flag which have been equipped with mounts for 6-inch guns.

Ships carrying such guns manifestly would be at a great disadvantage against the 10,000-ton cruisers equipped with 8-inch rifles, as will be those built or building in the United States.

Should Great Britain propose that one nation could devote all its maximum cruiser tonnage to 10,000-ton vessels while another might have the privilege of constructing 6,000-ton ships exclusively, a long step would have been taken toward a limitation agreement in the view held in naval circles here.

Trotzky Is Denied Haven in Germany

Former Soviet War Chief Is Held an Undesirable by Reichstag.

Berlin, April 11 (A.P.).—The German cabinet, after considering the matter since the middle of February, decided today that Leon Trotzky, former Soviet war commissar, would not be a desirable resident within the republic, even in the status of an invalid, as he had described himself. It therefore decided to refuse his request for a visa, which would permit him to seek the advice of German physicians.

Soon after Trotzky emerged from his isolation in Turkestan and became an exile in Constantinople he sought admission to Germany. President Paul Loebe of the Reichstag earlier had told that body that "perhaps" Germany some day might grant asylum to Mr. Trotzky. The matter dragged on with frequent pleadings from the exile and protests from those who foresaw trouble from his presence.

Meanwhile, France, Belgium and Czechoslovakia let it be known rather informally that they were not eager to receive the former Soviet leader. A more liberal attitude was said to await him in Switzerland, traditional haven for political refugees, but no formal move has been made for his admission. Trotzky has been relieved of confinement in the Soviet Legation in Constantinople and now is living in a private house.

Four Men Die in Italy As Seaplanes Collide

Rome, April 11 (A.P.).—Four men were killed today in a crash of two seaplanes maneuvering near the Augusta Seaplanedrome.

The planes were at a height of 300 feet when they collided and were hurtled to the water in a tangled mass. The occupants of both planes, namely, one lieutenant and three enlisted men, were killed.

BRITONS SELECTED FOR NAVAL PARLEY

Hull Member of Parliament Will Soon Name Men to Britten Meeting.

TO ASSEMBLE AT GENEVA

London, April 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The probable composition of the British delegation to the "unofficial interparliamentary naval conference" invited by Representative Fred Britten (Republican), of Illinois, to meet at Geneva, Switzerland, in August, was given to the New York World News Service today by Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy, Laborite member of parliament for Hull. Final selection of the delegates, Commander Kenworthy explained, would depend upon the composition of the next British government and of the new House of Commons membership.

He added, however, that he anticipates inviting Sir Arthur Shirley Benn, Conservative; Sir Ellis Hume-Williams, Conservative; Right Hon. Walter Runciman, Liberal; Right Hon. Noel Buxton, Laborite, and three peers to join the British delegation.

Benn has represented Plymouth in parliament since 1910. He lived for some time in Canada, was formerly British vice consul at Mobile, and married Alys Marie, daughter of F. A. Lueling, of Springhill, Ala. He was until 1927 a director of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Hume-Williams, a barrister by profession, served during the war with the Munro Ambulance Corps and was a member of the central prisoners of war committee.

Right Hon. Runciman belongs to a well-known shipping family of that name, a branch of which has been London agents of the American Merchant Line. He was a member of Asquith's Liberal government and served as president of the board of trade from 1914 to 1916.

Right Hon. Buston, a former Liberal who joined the Labor party in 1922, was a member of Ramsay MacDonald's Labor government in 1924.

Hindenburg Approves Centrists in Cabinet

Berlin, April 11 (A.P.).—President Von Hindenburg today approved the proposal of Chancellor Mueller to include three members of the Centrist party in the cabinet. Those selected were former Chancellor Joseph Wirth, Theodore von Guerard and Adam Stegerwald. Official announcement was expected tomorrow of the posts that they will hold.

Chancellor Mueller has been particularly anxious to strengthen his government before the conclusion of the work of the experts at Paris on revision of reparations. For some weeks the government position has been uncertain, which caused doubts to be held as to treatment likely to be accorded whatever recommendations Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German reparations experts, might make.

CONLEY TO CROWN QUEEN SHENANDOAH

West Virginia Governor Also to Participate in Big Blossom Parade.

PROGRAM IS COMPLETED

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 11.—Two full days of festivities in celebration of the blossoming of 12,000,000 commercial apple orchard trees in the "Blue Ridge country" of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and southern Pennsylvania, are provided in the program of the sixth annual Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival here April 18 and 19, which was virtually completed today.

Of outstanding importance on the first day will be the coronation of Miss Mary Jo Matthews, of Mannington, W. Va., as "Queen Shenandoah VI," by Gov. William G. Conley, of West Virginia, which will be a colorful ceremony partaking of the induction of a European monarch, scheduled for 5 p. m. at the Handley School Stadium.

The feature of the morning is to be the "parade of blossoms," in which thousands of school children of northern Virginia and nearby States will participate, each of twelve divisions headed by a band, followed by the pageant of "The Builders," in which more than 500 school children will have part.

The chief parade of the festival is scheduled for 2 p. m., April 19, and has been called "The Trail of the Pink Petals," in which the queen and her 70 princesses and court functionaries will ride at the head of a triumphal procession.

The program for the two days as announced by the director-general, J. Victor Arthur, follows:

THURSDAY, APRIL 18.

All day—Visitors invited to take free tours to apple orchards in vicinity of Winchester; automobiles and buses furnished by festival organization.

9 a. m.—Arrival of special trains from points in the Shenandoah-Cumberland-Potomac apple district.

10 a. m.—"Parade of the Blossoms" by school children of Virginia and neighboring States led by the United States Navy Band, Lieut. Charles Benter, director.

11:30 a. m.—"The Builders," a pageant of growth, in four divisions, 500 school children and 100 adults participating, the score being played by the United States Navy Band, at Handley High School Stadium.

2:30 p. m.—Contest for bands of military academies and high schools, at Handley Stadium.

4 p. m.—Concert by United States Navy Band, Handley Stadium.

4:30 p. m.—Airplane races and parachute leaps, at Winchester Airport.

5 p. m.—Coronation of Miss Mary Jo Matthews, Mannington, W. Va., as "Queen Shenandoah VI," by Gov. William G. Conley of West Virginia, with music by United States Navy Band and Harrisonburg (Va.) State Teachers College Glee Club, at Handley Stadium.

7:30 p. m.—Apple Blossom Minstrels, Vincent Costello Post, American Legion, Washington D. C., at Colonial Theater. Repeated at 9:15 p. m.

8 p. m.—Torchlight parade of entire Winchester Volunteer Fire Department and visiting firemen of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

8:45 p. m.—Concert by Harrisonburg State Teachers College Glee Club, Handley School Auditorium.

9 p. m.—Reception by her majesty, "Queen Shenandoah VI," for princesses of her court, at Hawthorne, residence of Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Stuart, Northwestern pike.

9:30 p. m.—Festival ball, gold room of George Washington Hotel; festival ball at Jordan White Sulphur Springs.

FRIDAY, APRIL 19.

9 a. m.—Arrival of special trains and delegations and bands representing the Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Norfolk & Western and Chesapeake & Ohio Railroads.

9:30 a. m.—Salute of thirteen aerial bombs in honor of the Governor of Virginia and visiting governors.

10 a. m.—Salute of aerial bombs for "Queen Shenandoah VI" and her royal party.

10:15 a. m.—Display of daylight fireworks and aerial bomb salutes to the apple blossoms.

11 a. m.—"The Builders," a pageant of growth, Handley Stadium.

12 m.—Reception and luncheon for visiting princesses, at residence of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Steck, Fairmont avenue.

3 p. m.—"Trail of the Pink Petals," parade, headed by "Queen Shenandoah VII" and entourage, followed by a three-mile procession of pageantry, including artistic and industrial floats and decorated motor cars, military academy corps; historical pageant by the University of West Virginia; military companies, American Legion posts, firemen's organizations; railroad steamship and express company delegations and displays, with 30 bands scattered throughout, terminating at Winchester Fair Grounds, where parade is reviewed by festival queen and her court.

4 p. m.—Judging of floats, decorated cars and organizations entitled to compete for prizes, and awarding same, Winchester Fair Grounds.

4:30 p. m.—Airplane races and parachute leaps, Winchester Airport.

9:30 p. m.—Her majesty's ball, Shenandoah Valley Academy.

9:45 p. m.—Festival ball, gold room of George Washington Hotel, festival ball, Jordan White Sulphur Springs.

5 p. m. until midnight and after—Street carnivals, frolics, fireworks and dances.

Two Laurel Girls Injured by Auto

Driver, Held on Bond, Says That Rain Obscured His Vision.

Dorothy Jones, 16 years old, was seriously injured and Helen Jones, 14 years old, was slightly hurt at 8 o'clock last night when they were knocked down by an automobile while walking on Montgomery avenue near the Washington-Baltimore boulevard in Laurel, Md. The girls are daughters of Dr. G. W. Jones, of Laurel.

The driver of the Car, Elmer Scott, 38 years old, of Laurel, was arrested by Maryland State Policeman B. McKenny on a charge of assault and was held on $500 bond by Magistrate E. E. Hatch, of Laurel, pending outcome of the older Jones girl's injuries.

Scott told police that his vision was obscured by the rain and that he did not see the girls before the accident.

The father of the girls gave them first aid at their home. Dorothy's leg was fractured and she possibly may have internal injuries. Helen was cut and bruised on the face and head.

Strikers at One of Affected Plants Win Point; 6,000 Others Still Out.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS SWORN

Charlotte, N. C., April 11 (A.P.).—Employes of one textile mill, the Florence, at Forest City, N. C., today dropped from the strikers' ranks, but apparently the day brought 6,000 other striking workers and their employers in seven textile centers of the Carolinas no closer to reconciliation.

Minus its efficiency expert, J. C. McGarahan, and with the work returned to the basis in use before he was employed, the Florence mill began operations today after being closed since Monday, when its employes walked out. McGarahan's dismissal and abolition of his "efficiency system," which, they claimed, worked an undue hardship upon them, were granted the workers by the mill management. It refused, however, a 20 per cent increase in wages asked. Florence mill strikers were not unionized.

Troops Patrol Gastonia Mill.

Troops of the North Carolina National Guard continued to patrol the Loray mill of the Manville-Jenckes Co at Gastonia, N. C., where striking workers are affiliated with the National Textile Workers Union. Meanwhile, city and Gaston County officials went ahead with plans for organizing a company of special deputy sheriffs to take over the patrol when troops are withdrawn, in accordance with an agreement reached with military authorities.

After operating with a partial force since union members in its mill walked out last week, the Chadwick-Hoskins Mill No. 5 at Pineville, N. C., closed today. E. B. Gossett, president, said the action was taken to prevent clashes between strikers and employes remaining at work. William S. Roka, of New York, member of the executive committee of the National Textile Workers Union, is in charge of the strike. With local strike leaders he has begun organization of relief committees to care for needy strikers.

U. S. Official in Conference.

At Lexington, N. C., where strikers from the Wennonah Mill are backed by the National Textile Workers Union Charles G. Wood, conciliator of the United States Department of Labor, held conferences with strikers and mill officers last night, but left the city today without making any announcement of its results. Strike leaders said they were waiting for the mill to act on their demands, which include a 50 per cent increase in wages, abolishment of an efficiency system and recognition of the union.

Mills in Greenville, Union, Anderson and Woodruff, S. C., where nonunionized strikers are protesting against introduction of efficiency systems, continued idle. A group of business men in Greenville has offered to act as a mediation board between strikers and mill officials there, but no action toward securing its services was taken today.

Fraternity Heads To Hear Rum Case

Delta Tau Delta Group in Virginia Faces an Investigation.

Charlottesville, Va., April 11 (A.P.).—Curtis E. Cuddy, of Roanoke, Va., president of the local chapter of the Delta Tau Delta National Fraternity, announced here today that the Arch Chapter, or national organization, will meet here tomorrow night to hear the defense of the local chapter against charges of liquor violation preferred by the National Chapter.

Mr. Cuddy, who went to New York City Wednesday night with another member of the Beta Iota Chapter here to confer with national officials over the charges made by Frank S. Hemmick, traveling representative of the Arch Chapter, said no agreement was reached after an all-day discussion yesterday.

All alumni of Beta Iota have been invited to the meeting tomorrow night, Mr. Cuddy said.

GOV. RITCHIE SIGNS 520 NEW STATUTES

Vetoes 58 Bills Passed by the Maryland Assembly at Recent Session.

REJECTS AUTO-TAG PLAN

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 11.—Gov. Ritchie was joined at Annapolis today by State Senator David J. McIntosh, of Baltimore County, and E. Brooke Lee, of Montgomery County, when all affixed their signatures to the last group of bills passed at the last session of the General Assembly. A total of 520 new laws will be placed upon the statute books. Fifty-eight bills were vetoed.

Two local bills affecting Prince Georges County were vetoed. One related to police justices. The governor explained that it was invalid, under decisions of the court of appeals because it contained no enacting clause. The bill would have increased the salary of the clerk of the police court from $1,500 to $1,800 per year. The other bill vetoed extended the corporate limits of Mount Rainier. This measure was defectively drawn and those interested in it requested its veto. Another bill with similar provisions was subsequently passed and approved.

The governor vetoed the bill known as the county auto license measure, designed to empower clerks of courts in the counties to issue automobile tags and negotiate other transactions, for which they would receive a fee of 25 cents each. The governor considered this plan impracticable. A commission appointed by him to investigate the situation unanimously reached the same conclusion.

Another bill vetoed was a senate measure designed to exclude other than native-born citizens from employment at the race tracks in the State. This bill was directed chiefly at Canadians, employed in various capacities. The governor pointed out that such a law would be in violation of the Federal Constitution.

City Club Names Slate For Officers' Election

Officers were nominated by the City Club at their building last night for the election to be held April 25. Seven governors are to be elected from thirteen candidates. Other officers were renominated without opposition.

The nominations follow: Rudolph Jose, president; Edward Brashears, first vice president; Paul E. Lesh, second vice president; Harry R. Carroll, treasurer; O. U. Singer, secretary; governors, George D. McGinty, Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, Wayne Kendrick, Harry Allen, Charles Roberts, James H. Baden, Charles Hilligeist, George W. Offutt, jr., Oscar A. Phorup, Col. John Bardoff, Henry D. Davis and W. Seaton Kent.

SPECULATIVE CRASH FEARED BY CAPPER

Kansan Says Farmers Face New Crisis by Diversion of Credits to Wall Street.

GAMBLING "ORGY" SEEN

(United Press.)

A demand that the extra session of Congress which convenes Monday give immediate attention to the "orgy of speculation" on the New York Stock Exchange was made here last night by Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, leader of the Senate farm bloc, who warned it may end in "a sudden crash unless checked."

Capper declared that the "Wall street gambling mania" is drawing money needed by agriculture from Western banks into the call loan money market, because of attractive high rates, and that this is threatening general prosperity. He called the speculation "a gigantic poker game."

Simultaneously with Capper's statement, figures released yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board showed a decline of $134,000,000 in loans to brokers in the week ended April 10, an indication that the Reserve Board's warning has been effective in checking the speculative movement somewhat. The total for the week was $5,428,000,000.

"Money Drawn from Farm Credits."

"Money needed at home is being drawn from Western banks to continue this orgy of speculation at the expense of Western agriculture and Western business interests," Capper said. "The rise in the country's credit level threatens legitimate business.

"It is estimated that about $15,000,000,000 in credit funds is now tied up, or soon will be, in Wall street's speculation-drunk stock market, which continues to absorb hundreds of millions daily.

"It may be said that Western banks have the money, but interest rates are necessarily affected when Wall street draws off enormous supplies of bank funds and the home borrower pays more for his loans. It has not yet reached a point where money for legitimate business use, including farm use, can not be had, but the gambling fever is tending toward that point. In every way it is a growing menace to business.

"Speculation Fever Widespread."

"Under the circumstances, for Western bankers to throw their millions into New York's call-money market that the stock gamblers may bet the entire country's available resources on their gigantic poker game, as they have been doing the last few weeks, seems almost criminal.

"I recall no time in my generation, not even in the days of the bucket shops, when so many people were 'playing' the market.

"The bull pen of the stock exchange has attracted so many who formerly risked their money in the bear pit of the Chicago Board of Trade that that grain market has recently voted in favor of adding speculation in stocks to its trading in crop futures.

"Just now the farmer needs all the credit advantages he can get. The credit situation in the West has reached the point, in my opinion, where bankers will be consulting their own interests by keeping their money at home. Otherwise there can be only one end to the orgy of speculation which seems to have lost the power to cure itself—a sudden crash that may involve the country."

TORCH VICTIM

MRS. RICHARD M. CAMPBELL.

MAN ADMITS TORCH SLAYING IN JERSEY

dog stand in Woodland Grove, 30 miles away.

In the case of Miss Brown, when Eno Campbell, a New Jersey silver fox farmer, came upon the blazing body he and his chauffeur doused the flames with snow. When John Boyle, driver of a bread wagon, saw the blazing body of Mrs. Campbell last February 23 about 5:30 in the morning, he rushed back into Cranford and brought out the police chief, and in the interval the features were blackened and burned away.

This time the torch murderer appeared to have done a thorough job and the body lay in Martin's Morgue for days, with people coming from far and near, people who had lost wives or mothers or relatives, and going away shaking their heads doubtfully.

However, the dead woman had on a pair of cracked patent leather shoes, and the heel of one shoe had been cracked loose and roughly patched on again by means of a bent piece of metal. David Walsh and the detectives pinned their hope on these shoes.

In the end it was the shoes which tracked down the trail to the criminal. It was found that in Greenville, Pa., a number of such shoes had been sold, and police there asked the dealers if they could remember the various buyers. It was learned Mrs. Campbell had bought such a pair of shoes.

In his confession Campbell said he met Mrs. Mowry through a matrimonial bureau. They exchanged several letters, beginning in February, 1928, and then arranged a meeting in Washington, D. C., in May, 1928. Their next meeting, he said, was in August in Philadelphia, whence they drove to Elkton to be married.

DRIVE A CHRYSLER

DURING

"Learn-the-Difference" MONTH

Beginning Today in Every Chrysler Dealer's Showroom

Chrysler is eager for you to learn the d-i-f-f-e-r-e-n-c-e!

Starting today, and lasting four weeks, all Chrysler dealers are holding a "Learn-the-Difference" Month—a rare opportunity to become automotively up-to-the-minute—Chrysler-wise, Chrysler-enlightened!

We want you to drive a Chrysler and learn the difference between Chrysler performance and any other with which you are familiar.

For there is a difference—an overwhelming difference in the things Chrysler does, and how it does them.

But there is only one sure way in which you will know how decisive this difference actually is: That is to see, and feel and experience—to ride in and drive a Chrysler car, whether a "65," or "75," or Imperial—you doing the driving.

Any Chrysler Dealer in the Group Listed Below

Will gladly give you a thorough demonstration—you at the wheel, if you wish—to prove to you that there is an amazing difference in Chrysler performance and all other performance.

Then only will you know how wide a margin separates Chrysler from other cars!

Take advantage of Chrysler "Learn-the-Difference" Month—at once. Go to your nearest Chrysler salesroom—see the unmatched features—experience the unprecedented Chrysler performance.

Do Not Miss This Opportunity

Remember—every Chrysler dealer is participating in this great event—everyone is eager and anxious to have you put all Chrysler claims to the test, to learn for yourself what a vast difference there actually is in performance, appearance and value between Chrysler and other cars.

Once you drive a Chrysler and learn the difference, you will never be content with any other car. Your judgment will insist you own a Chrysler.

SHAMEFUL SCHOOL CONDITIONS.

The Board of Education has decided to include a request for $3,000,000 to be used for school buildings and grounds in its estimate of funds for next year. This will be in addition to the fund requested for current expenses.

The Board of Education has the support of a large portion of the Washington civic organizations. It should likewise have the support of public sentiment and the cooperation of the District Commissioners in securing this extra fund for the schools, which are in a deplorable condition. Construction of new schools and extension of playgrounds have been postponed from year to year. Further neglect is intolerable.

One phase of the situation was brought to public attention early in March when a high wind damaged three portable buildings and the pupils narrowly escaped injury. It was then revealed that the Board of Education is forced to make use of 75 portable buildings, housing 2,500 children, because it can not secure adequate funds to provide suitable schoolhouses. Children attending a number of the schools must risk their lives by playing in the streets, because funds are not available for purchase of playgrounds. Complaints come from one school that its furniture has been in use continuously for 50 years and is in a dangerous condition.

The District government is in need of funds for various projects besides education, but it is evident that the schools are not getting their share of the revenue received. Last year the total revenue of the District was $42,000,000, of which the schools received approximately $11,000,000. This is only a little more than one-fourth of the total. The average expenditures of other municipalities and States for educational purposes amount to almost one-third of their combined revenue. If Washington children are to have equal opportunity in education with those of other parts of the country it is imperative that a greater sum be allowed for new schools and facilities. Washington is growing rapidly. Unless immediate steps are taken to catch up in school construction the District will face heavy extra taxation to meet this need.

MONOPOLY, OR COMPETITION?

The long-awaited terms for the formation of a holding company in which will be merged British wireless and cable companies were announced early in the week. The terms involve a complicated exchange of stock in which the new company, namely, Cables & Wireless, Ltd., will absorb the Eastern, Eastern Extension and Western Telegraph companies and the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co., Ltd.

In the meantime, it has been stated authoritatively that President Hoover will leave to Congress the question of amending the radio law which prohibits mergers of radio and cable systems. Senator Dill, an authority on the radio law, in a public statement asserts that he is utterly opposed to repeal of the "antimonopoly" clause of the statute.

The radio act of 1927 provides that it shall be unlawful for any person or firm "receiving for hire energy, communications or signals by radio" to "lease" or "directly or indirectly acquire, own, control or operate any cable or wire, telegraph or telephone line or system if the effect thereof may be to substantially lessen competition or restrain commerce, or unlawfully to create monopoly in any line of commerce." A similar clause prohibits a cable company from absorbing a radio system. Senator Dill asserts that the fact that two companies now seek to form a merger that would violate the statute "proves that Congress showed fine foresight in establishing the prohibition. Instead of creating a greater monopoly, Congress should prevent that which already exists from becoming more powerful." It may be that Senator Dill voices the general sentiment of Congress.

In this connection the statement made by Mr. Hoover in 1924 before the House committee in charge of radio legislation is of interest. He said:

> The question of monopoly in radio communication must be squarely met. It is not conceivable that the American people will allow this new-born system of communication to fall exclusively into the power of any individual, group or combination.

The proposed merger of the Radio Corporation Communications and the International Telephone & Telegraph Co. can not be consummated unless the Government advises that it is not in violation of law, or unless the law itself is amended. It may be assumed that this merger plan will be carefully scrutinized by the Department of Justice. The disposition of great corporations to bring about consolidations brings them constantly to the edge of the sharp antitrust law, and in this case the radio law also apparently is an insuperable barrier. Mergers often promote better service and eliminate "destructive competition," but the temptation to creat monopolies is always present. The arrangement between the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the Radio Corporation, whereby patents are so allotted as to give the telephone company the power to suppress wireless telephony, while the Radio Corporation can keep the telephone company out of the radio field, has already been criticized as a combination that is not entirely in the public interest.

The entire field of communications is undergoing an evolution as a result of new inventions. Whether radio ought to be a regulated monopoly, or whether competition should be maintained by law, is a knotty problem for Congress to decide.

AMERICAN SHIPS GO WET.

The Leviathan, flagship of the United States Lines, which recently was sold to the Chapman interests, sailed on her maiden voyage under the new management as a wet ship. Under an order issued by Joseph E. Sheedy, executive vice president of the new operating organization, her medicinal liquor stores were released for individual consumption after she had passed out of territorial waters. When she reaches France a supply of liquor will be placed aboard. When she reaches the 12-mile limit inbound, the store of medicinal liquor will be sealed, not to be reopened except in emergency until she again passes out of territorial waters, and whatever is left over above the legal medicinal allotment will be destroyed. As the other ships comprising the United States Lines pass to Chapman control a similar policy will be introduced.

The sale of liquor aboard the Chapman vessels probably will provoke a dispute. Officials of the Shipping Board, the Customs Service and the Treasury Department insist that they have no interest in the matter, and there seems to be little doubt that the sale of liquor on American-owned boats on the high seas is lawful. Once before, however, prohibitionists succeeded in preventing the sale of liquor aboard ships of the United States Lines, and although control of these ships has passed from the Government to private interests, it is probable that attempts will be made to bring them under the prohibition laws.

The decision to sell liquor aboard the Leviathan was made to meet competition. It is generally admitted that many travelers have preferred foreign vessels to those of the United States Lines because the latter were dry. In view of the fact that the new American merchant marine must be built around the United States Lines, which must face extremely active competition, the right to sell liquor to passengers becomes an important question.

FRENCH EMBARGO ON FILMS.

For many months the American motion picture industry has been fighting to retain its French market. A year or so ago France decided that it would be necessary to afford protection to the French movie industry, and with this in mind there were adopted a series of restrictions governing the importation of films. The American industry opposed the restrictions, and through the personal effort of Will Hays succeeded in lessening their severity.

The Hays compromise agreement is about to expire, and France has worked out a new set of regulations governing the importation of films. Briefly, they provide that importers are to be allowed a limited number of permits under which films may be brought into France. Additional permits may be obtained only by purchase from French producers, who are granted three importation permits for each film they produce. Such an arrangement, says the American producer, would force him either to subsidize the French producer or to become a French producer himself. The arrangement is not acceptable, and it has just been announced that when the present agreement expires the American companies supplying films to France will close their offices and withdraw from the country.

French films, with the exception of the so-called superproductions, are inferior to the American, and the French public has learned the difference between an interesting and a poor picture. It does not seem likely that the people of that country will be willing to forego American pictures.

CHINESE POLITICAL MOVES.

An interesting situation has arisen in China. A few days ago the Nationalist government clinched its victory over the rebellious Wuhan army by capturing Hankow, the chief city in the industrial district. Now a dispatch, which was delayed by the strict censorship of the press, diminishes the importance of the victory, and expresses fear of new hostilities from another source. To further complicate matters, President Chiang Kai-shek has issued a proclamation from Hankow, declaring his intention to return to the capital at Nanking and resign.

Interpreted from Western standards, the resignation of the president at this time would mean certain chaos for China. But it is quite likely that Chiang Kai-shek, in spite of his self-condemnation for neglecting "to take effective precautionary measures against the recent incident," is merely making a clever political move. The incident referred to is the recent revolt. President Chiang blames himself for it publicly, and writes that he "is ashamed to return to his post." This sounds puerile in America, but it is quite customary in China for a political leader to resort to such tactics.

Twice before during the last two years, Chiang Kai-shek has resigned from leadership in the Nationalist party, but each time he has been recalled because of his ability as a mediator between the different factions. Observers are of the opinion that if his resignation should be formally tendered he will be asked to reconsider it. This would, of course, have a tendency to strengthen his position and that of the central government. Chiang has secured the allegiance of many factions to the Nanking government by conflicting promises which mean embarrassment for him. If he can retire long enough for those promises to be canceled the strength of the Nationalist cause would be greatly enhanced.

If President Chiang should insist on retiring, it is considered likely that Marshal Feng Yuhsiang would be his successor. Marshal Feng has been the mystery man in the recent revolt. For some time he was expected to join with the opposing Wuhan army, but he remained loyal to the Nationalists. It is generally believed, however, that he is merely awaiting a better opportunity to strike against the existing regime. In case of Chiang's resignation that opportunity would be at hand.

A CENSUS OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

One of the problems which have been promised attention by the Hoover administration is that of unemployment. There has been much talk in recent years of relief for the unemployed, but little of a substantial nature has been done. The facts are that little is known about unemployment in this country. When the number out of work is increased unduly the matter provokes much discussion, but the United States has never had any accurate figures on the number unemployed at any one time. Under present circumstances all that can be accomplished must be based on uncertain estimates.

The American Statistical Association has petitioned President Hoover to use his influence to secure authentic data on unemployment in the 1930 census. Inasmuch as census legislation will probably occupy the attention of Congress at its special session it is suggested that the matter be considered at that time.

Census information would furnish a basis on which future programs for relief of unemployment could be based. A year ago when the country was much concerned over the number of men idle Congress directed the Secretary of Labor to report on the extent of unemployment. The report was based on the shrinkage of pay rolls between 1925 and 1928, and since there were no statistics on men out of work in 1925, it was impossible to tell whether the report was accurate or not. Other statisticians made estimates differing by several million men from the Department of Labor figures. It is obvious that such a question can not be answered except through a census enumeration. When once a count has been made the Labor Department will be able to make much more accurate estimates through the shrinkage or growth of pay rolls in the various industries. The starting point for any systematic study of unemployment and its solution must be accurate statistics, which can only be obtained through the census enumeration.

THE ARMY HOUSING PROGRAM

By EUNICE FULLER BARNARD,

In the New York Times.

Uncle Sam is waving a magic wand, and from ocean to ocean the Cinderella army posts of the country are shedding their shabbiness and appearing in new and magnificent guise. Where yesterday from California to Governors Island the Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady were stopping up the leaks in war-time shanties, today they are planning the disposition of the grand piano and the electric range in villas of sprightly colonial and Spanish mission architecture.

Congress has already authorized $53,000,000 to rehouse the Army in the style to which it is to be accustomed, and the quartermaster general has estimated that it will take in all $148,000,000 before the work is done. For this is no mere replacement program, no simple exchange of decaying, inadequate quarters for weather-tight ones. It involves the laying out and landscaping of the Army posts like model towns on a scale more harmonious and spectacular probably than that of any other system of posts on the globe.

It means, for instance, the transformation of five square miles of sage-brush desert near San Antonio into the largest flying field in the world, where 250 planes can be sent into the air at once and where a pleasant central village of 500 stucco buildings will house the pilots. It means, moreover, a more ingratiating approach to New York Harbor, in the rebuilding of Governors Island—taking away the corrugated iron warehouses and putting up a brick quadrangle about the old fort. On the wide new parade ground that is planned regiments can be drawn up to the admiration of whatever foreign guest the Army may honor with a parade.

It means, too, that for the first time anywhere Army posts are being designed with a view to their appearance not only from land or water, but also from the air. Looking down on one of the redesigned posts when all the plans are carried through, one will see a kind of geometric mosaic formed of the red tile of the roofs, the green of the trees, the blue of the water and the gray of the carefully spaced roads. At March Field in California, for example, the gayly tinted pueblo-type officers' houses are to be arranged in groups around patios so as to form a kind of Greek border for the whole settlement. At the new Randolph Field in Texas they are to radiate much like the spokes of a gigantic wheel.

The Army has asked help of the American Institute of Architects in its program, and has called in town-planning experts and designers of international repute. And the doughboy, who two years ago was living under conditions which the Secretary of War termed "a national disgrace," is now to be housed in villages as comfortable and beautiful as national talent can provide. Swimming pools, tennis courts, baseball fields, radio stations, modern hospitals and new school buildings for the children are regular parts of the plan at all the larger posts.

Up in the Air.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Toads Are Innocent.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Biological Survey expert, Mr. Bailey, handles toads, horned and hornless, and he tells me that toads do not cause warts. A. W. K.

Why Mucilage, if They Stick?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Mail Order" is right—postage stamps do not stick, in spite of all the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the Bureau of Standards can say about it. There is no better proof than the fact that there is a bottle of mucilage on all the public desks in the postoffices. If the stickum stuck, there would not be any use for it. There was not any mucilage in the good old days when stamps had stickum on them. L. R. D.

Referred to the World Court.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just been reading Old-Timer's inquiry about toads causing warts on the hands. He states a case of a boy who played with toads and had numerous warts.

Here are two cases I know of personally: One of a boy who at one time had 58 warts on the backs of his two hands and had never handled toads, and the other of myself, a girl, who, as a small child, used to play with toads by the hour and recite the nursery rhyme about "Toad, toad, get out of the road," &c., and I never had a wart.

NOT SO OLD.

Rebellious Stamps.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Mail Order" has the facts—"Stamps Don't Stick." If the Postoffice Department found that they did stick and did not have to hold letters for payment of lost postage, why was the Bureau of Standards asked to find out whether they did stick? The most that the test proved, as I recall it, was that once you got a stamp stuck to an envelope, it would stay there—which is doubtless the case. But what we are in want of is a stamp that will not curl up at the edges when we are trying to stick it on, that does not require prolonged repressive measures before it permanently subsides and adheres. EWART HOBBS.

They Don't Stick.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter from "Mail Order" in your April 10 issue is correct. The postage stamps won't stick and have not for a year past.

I used Carter's or some similar glue to hold them down; tried wetting paper first, then stamp put on dry; also stamp put on in usual manner, then the stuck-on stamp wetted on top and held down with blotter for 10 to 20 minutes. Result, the gosh-darned stamp curled up more or less.

I now use one cent stamps for all mail—put them on as two's. One tends to support the other. If one is partly ripped off it then shows as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the mailer. Up to date I have not been arrested for monkeying with the U. S. mails. My time has no value and I am delighted to work for Uncle Sam free. I trust the recording angel is alert and taking notice.

GEORGE R. TOLMAN.

Inventors of the Submarine Lung.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There has been a noticeable tendency of the press in general to refer to the individual submarine escape apparatus gotten up in the equipment section of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, Navy Department, which has proved so successful, as the "Momsen" lung and otherwise to give the impression that Lieut. Momsen, U. S. N., is the sole inventor of the apparatus. This was done in your editorial appearing in today's paper, entitled "Submarine Devices."

It is realized that the more spectacular and courageous work of trying out the apparatus by Lieut. Momsen lends itself much more to "playing up" than the work of conceiving and devising the apparatus, which belongs largely to Frank M. Hobson, civilian engineer and expert on respiratory apparatus, and Chief Gunner Clarence L. Tibbals, U. S. N., expert in charge of diving experiments, both of the equipment section.

As the writer is the officer in charge of the equipment section and has closely followed the development of the so-called "lung," he is well cognizant of the contributions of each of the three coinventors. Among themselves they agree that each has contributed equally in the development.

Give a Boy an Idea and You May Affect the Destiny of Mankind.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IGNORANCE is bliss, and to multiply knowledge is to multiply sorrow.

Even to the most casual observer it must be evident that the happiest peoples are those burdened with the least intelligence.

When a man begins to think, he grows restless. He tries to unravel the mystery of life, and the effort serves only to impress him with the fact of life's brevity.

He resents the fact of death; he covets immortality. And thus he is prompted to build a pyramid, to write a book, to give a son his own name, to entail his estate.

His desire is to live after death—to be remembered by posterity—to do or say something that will continue to affect the destiny of mankind after he is gone.

Few, perhaps, are aware of the motive that prompts them; but every proper man yearns to "build a house, have a son and write a book"—or to do some other thing that will perpetuate his personality.

The common man thinks he is denied the privilege of living again in his work. "I can not build a bridge," says he, "nor can I write a book. None will remember me a year after I am gone, and there will be no trace of my passing."

But he is mistaken. The most humble may immortalize himself, and the great may be forgotten in a generation.

Monuments of stone or steel may stand for a century or a millennium; but if a man must be forgotten in a thousand years, wherein is he more fortunate than one forgotten in a day?

Where are the great books of yesteryear? A few live on dusty shelves, but the many that won fame for a day are wholly forgotten. The writing men who rank high today will sleep with the street cleaners and their books will become dust.

How, then, shall a man live again?

A few weeks ago a politician died and men asked: "What did he accomplish?" Well, he gave the world a League of Nations. That is, he effected the nomination of Woodrow Wilson.

Who made the Civil War? Some abolitionist or some fire-eating defender of slavery? No; Eli Whitney made it when he invented the cotton gin. The gin made the South a one-crop region; made it rich; filled it with slaves. Whitney still lives.

So every inventor lives. And so every man who gives the world an idea lives generation after generation.

A good deed, a kind word, a wholesome influence—any one of them may affect one man's life and through him affect others, as ripples widen when a stone is thrown into a pool, and thus an humble man may live through all eternity.

SODAS AND CIGARS.

The plan announced by David A. Schulte for combining soda fountains and cigar stores, or, as we find them labeled, smokeshops, may mean the passing of one of man's last refuges, says the New York Evening Post. It is true that the cigar store has already been invaded by female smokers, but the new combination would remove the last vestiges of its masculine atmosphere. It would no more be a cigar store than our modern hair-cutting establishments are barber shops.

Before it is too late something should be done about preserving these relics of a civilization in which women knew that whatever their place might be, it was not in a barber shop or a cigar store. For these institutions and all their appurtenances are fast passing. But if a collection of old-fashioned shaving mugs, Police Gazettes and wooded Indians was made, something might be done to keep alive their memory at least.

In explanation of his creation of the luncheonette-smokeshop Mr. Schulte decares that it is the inevitable result of woman's growing taste for cigarettes and man's growing taste for ice cream sodas. If this is the state of affairs, the passing of the cigar store is all that men deserve.

AMERICANS ABROAD.

For two years the State Department has been taking a census of Americans living abroad. It was bound to be a more or less rough count, resting largely on estimates by consular officers. At first blush the total, 392,668, seems rather low for a country with over a hundred million inhabitants, active in pushing foreign trade, zealous in missionary enterprise. The figure is all the more striking when it is realized that nearly half of these dwellers in foreign lands reside in Canada.

However, it should be noted that the persons listed are exclusively American citizens residing permanently outside the United States. That excludes tourists, temporary residents, naturalized citizens who have gone home to stay, and those comparatively few Americans who have exercised the "natural and inherent right of expatriation."

Some of the figures are rather striking. Mexico has 14,670 American residents—more than all South America combined. France with 25,860 Americans has twice as many as Great Britain and Northern Ireland with 11,717. The American colony in Paris, by no means entirely devoted to business pursuits, must account for most of the French contingent. Germany has 3,027, Italy, 10,000. Unless this figure includes naturalized American citizens who have returned to Italy but have not yet resumed their former allegiance, it is difficult to see why it should be so large.

An indication of the unsettled state of Russia is seen in the fact that only 150 American citizens are now residing there. China has a large number of permanently domiciled Americans, 12,233 in all, no doubt including hundreds of missionaries who have stuck to their posts through the recent turmoil or intend to return to them.

PRESS COMMENT.

Ho, Hum.

Dallas News: Don't worry. After they get us Democrats all buried there'll be another crop along.

Dat Debil Ribber.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The old Mississippi is cutting up just as if it didn't know that Mr. Hoover had been elected.

That's the Trouble.

Florida Times-Union: Put a little sugar in a gallon of grape juice, let it alone, and it is bound to violate something or other.

Man and Moth.

Boston Herald: Men wonder why the fool moth insists on flying into the flame and then they go out and try to beat the engine to the crossing.

The Real Cause.

Florida Times-Union: The real cause of that Mexican revolution is the desire of several generals to achieve sufficient prominence to land in the cigarette advertisements.

Natural.

San Diego Union: Former Gov. Smith complains that the Democracy goes to sleep between elections. That's likely to be done by anybody who takes a stiff sock on the chin.

Such an Idea.

Boston Transcript: Among the latest recruits in the ranks of the optimists is the man who thinks that if all the alien bootleggers were deported the country would be dry.

The Lard Helps.

New Orleans Times-Picayune: A Southern postmaster bought his job by a check and two fat hogs. Plainly the lard helps those who help themselves and the G. O. P.

He Knows.

New York World: Attendance at college may not increase the student's income, but the father of the two boys, one at Harvard and the other at Princeton, says he knows what it does to his.

And There You Are.

New York Sun: Representative Morgan's father-in-law is positive that he did not get the beverages Representative Morgan declares emphatically he did not bring into the United States illegally.

Such Impudence.

New York Evening World: Republican Representative Tinkham demands of the President that enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth as well as the eighteenth amendment be investigated. What impudence!

Killing Two Birds.

Louisville Times: The engineers of a large electric corporation having announced that a series of tests proves that white is more easily seen by motorists on a dark road, how would it do for pedestrians to wear shrouds?

How, Indeed?

Portland Oregonian: That Portland Ad Club airplane caravan will be all right, novel and everything, but how are the orators on board going to set off their fireworks as they pass over the various cities and towns en route to San Francisco?

Speed Limits.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Iowa has followed the example of Michigan in repealing the speed limit on public highways; but speeders may learn at their own cost that it is not a privilege. Occasionally proof that the accused was driving within the limit has been used as a defense. The burden of proving that one was driving carefully may be more onerous where the law doesn't specify what constitutes carefulness.

Veteran Virginia truckman gives personal testimony

G. Mark Davidson Tests Motor Oils

Cites need of good high-quality oil

G. Mark Davidson of Lexington, Va., is something more than a veteran truckman and a substantial citizen of his community. He uses his truck as a road testing laboratory for various kinds of lubricating oils.

Profits in Good Oil

Trucking is a keenly competitive business and the profits from a single trip may be the difference between using cheap oil or a good oil. The difference between no repairs and a day to a week of overhauling the motor.

Mr. Davidson, realizing this fact, proceeded to find out for himself, in the most intelligent fashion, just which oils do stand up on the long, hard pulls in the Virginia hills, and which oils cannot stand the gaff of hill-climbing, long distance heavy hauling. Mr. Davidson wanted only the best.

After trying a wide variety of different motor oils, Mr. Davidson finally narrowed his choice down to three brands: "Standard," and two others made by well-known companies. There seemed to be little or no choice as far as the specifications of the oils went. A road test alone would show up the difference, and this Mr. Davidson proceeded to make.

Read his own story: "On a recent 600-mile trip I used five quarts of a competitor's oil. Later with another oil I used three quarts. Then I decided to drain my oil and fill up with 'Standard' Motor Oil Heavy, and 'Standard' Gasoline. On the same trip under the same running conditions, I used only one quart of oil. That proved to me the superior quality of 'Standard' Motor Oil. I do not hesitate to tell my friends that it is the best oil I have ever used."

Convinced by Oilier Oil

Like millions of other motorists, Mr. Davidson discovered that "Standard" Motor Oil is that o-i-l-i-e-r oil. Especially processed from choice crudes, and guaranteed to stand up and everlastingly fight friction. Seals in compression too. Allows the motor to utilize more combustion power and show greater mileage per gasoline gallon. It's the original quality oil at no higher price. Insist upon "Standard." On sale everywhere you see the "Standard" Motor Oil sign.

Blood Pressure Should Be Watched

A leading health authority says: "Most people begin to work on their blood pressure about twenty years too late." High Blood Pressure is one of the most common disorders of middle life and old age—it takes a heavy toll. Don't let your blood pressure creep up—prevent the conditions which lead to High Blood Pressure by keeping your body free from poisons and your digestive and eliminative organs, particularly your kidneys, functioning properly. Physicians recommend Mountain Valley Mineral Water from Hot Springs, Ark., as an aid to Nature in maintaining normal conditions. Be wise and take this precaution. Phone us for a case today. WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.

Washington, Thursday, April 11—8 P. M.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Partly cloudy Friday; preceded by showers in morning; Saturday fair; slowly rising temperature; moderate variable winds.

For Maryland and Virginia—Partly cloudy Friday, with showers in morning, followed by fair Friday night and Saturday; slowly rising temperature; moderate to fresh northeast and east winds, becoming variable.

The disturbance that was central over Missouri Wednesday evening has moved slowly northeastward to Lake Michigan, Green Bay, Wis., 29.52 inches, while pressure remains low over the South Atlantic States. The disturbance that was off the North Pacific Coast has moved to Alberta, Calgary, 29.70 inches, with a secondary over the plateau region, Tonopah, Nev., 29.74 inches. Pressure is high from Hudson Straits southeastward over the Canadian Maritime Provinces, Nottingham Island, 30.52 inches, and Chatham, N. B., 30.40 inches. It is also relatively high over the West Gulf States, Palestine, Tex., 30.00 inches, and off the North Pacific Coast, Eureka, Calif., 30.10 inches. During the last 24 hours there has been precipitation, mostly in the form of rain, from the lake region and New York southward to the Gulf, and rains in the North Pacific States. The temperature has risen over the middle Rocky Mountain region and over the southern portion of the plateau region, while it has fallen over portions of the West Gulf States and the lower Mississippi Valley. Elsewhere changes have been unimportant.

The indications are for fair weather Friday and probably Saturday in the Ohio Valley and the greater part of the South Atlantic States, while showery weather will continue during Friday in portions of the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States and in portions of New England Saturday. The temperature will rise slowly in the North Atlantic and Middle Atlantic States, while elsewhere changes will be unimportant.

SESSION MAY BRING DRY FORCE CHANGE

HOOVER SUPPORTING PLAN

(Associated Press.)

Legislation transferring the prohibition enforcement unit from the Treasury to the Justice Department may be added to the constantly growing agenda of the special session of the Seventy-first Congress which begins next Monday.

President Hoover has discussed this matter with some congressional leaders, including Representative Cramton (Republican), Michigan, an outstanding spokesman for the drys, and Attorney General Mitchell expressed the hope yesterday that the transfer will be authorized in the near future.

The position of the Attorney General is that since his department is to take over this huge new function the sooner it is done the better. The department now is in the process of more or less reorganization incident to the change of administrations and the prohibition unit could be more readily absorbed in the midst of this process than at some later time.

Hoover Proposed Change.

President Hoover proposed the transfer in his inaugural address as the first step in the general move for better law enforcement. Antisaloon League and other dry organization leaders at first were inclined to oppose this step, but the understanding now is that they are content to give the plan a trial, especially since they desire that the Chief Executive have a free hand for carrying forward his plan for enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

Several difficult problems are involved in the proposed transfer and the working out of the necessary legislation is expected to require some time. Even with the dry unit placed in the Justice Department there must be close cooperation between that department and the Treasury, under which must be left control of the Coast Guard and the Customs Service which are cooperating in enforcement.

While full plans for the absorbing of the prohibition unit by the Justice Department have not yet been formulated, the present expectation is that at the outset there will be no need for adding a new Assistant Attorney General to take over the work of which the official who takes full charge of enforcement must be relieved.

New Assistant Seen.

Later, however, after the machinery gets into smooth working order, a new assistant probably will be added, as the direction of the unit and the prosecution of cases growing out of violations of the law would require the full time of one of Mr. Mitchell's assistants.

Although no statement has been made, the general expectation is that the unit will be absorbed by the division of the Justice Department now concerned with prohibition enforcement and which is presided over by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt. In addition to prohibition, she now has direction of enforcement of the internal revenue and narcotic laws.

Mrs. Willebrandt is looked upon as a warm friend of prohibition and leaders of the dry organizations are said to be more than satisfied to have administration of the prohibition laws placed in her hands. Whether Prohibition Commissioner Doran will be transferred to the Justice Department with the unit does not for the time appear to be quite clear. There have been suggestions that he would remain in the Treasury in his old position of chief chemist.

FUNERAL TODAY

JOHN FINN.

RITES FOR JOHN FINN WILL BE HELD TODAY

Civil War Veteran and Expert on Battle Records to Be Buried This Morning.

Funeral services for John Finn, 84 years old, president of the Mutual Serial Building Association, who died Wednesday at the Naval Hospital here, will be held this morning at 9 o'clock in the chapel of Gawler's Sons, undertakers. At 9:30 o'clock mass will be solemnized in St. Matthew's Church. Burial will be in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Finn was a veteran of the Civil and Indian Wars, Congress awarding him two medals for valor in battles with Indians. He was regarded as an authority on Civil War records. He served under Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock in the Army of the Potomac, participated in many major battles and was wounded three times.

Mr. Finn was a pioneer in Washington's early business life. He was a past commander of John Rawlings Post, G. A. R., and a member of Washington Council, Knights of Columbus, Catholic Knights of America, Oldest Inhabitants Association and West End Citizens Association. He took an active part in the work of the National Association of Retired Federal Employes and assisted in securing favorable legislation from Congress in their behalf.

Mr. Finn was born in Troy, N. Y., coming to this city to live in 1889 to take a position with the War Department, record and pension division. He married Miss Annie O'Neill, of this city, in 1877. He is survived by a son, William T. Finn, of 528 Twenty-third street northwest.

TORSO CASE 'VICTIM' FOUND ALIVE IN HOME

Positive Identification Fails as Police Find Woman Believed Slain.

LOCATE HER AFTER THEFT

Los Angeles, April 11 (A.P.).—Hopes that the mystery shrouding the finding seven days ago of a young woman's torso in the Los Angeles River had been solved were blasted this afternoon when Laura Belle Davis, believed to have been slain and thrown into the stream, was found at her Venice boulevard address.

The torso was identified as that of Miss Davis today after she was reported missing. Capt. William Bright, chief of the homicide detail, established the identity after hair on the torso and strands found on a sweater belonging to Miss Davis were said by a hair expert to be identical.

The woman was located after she reported the theft of her radio. The report of the radio theft sent two officers to the address, where the woman admitted she was Miss Davis.

She named Robert Bernard, suspected this morning of being implicated in the disappearance, as the radio thief. She said she had been with Bernard at the Venice address since leaving her former landlady, Mrs. Mae Holsman.

Mrs. Holsman previously had told officers that the woman disappeared with Bernard carrying a radio with her.

Bernard still was sought as an escaped prisoner.

$1,000,000 Check and Job Found by Romance Seeker

Indianapolis Young Man Walks Out of Bowery Mission to Pick Up Bit of Wall Street Riches; Will Get Work on Ship.

New York, April 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Charles J. Schlunsen, an adjuster employed by the National Surety Co., of this city, told the following story to a reporter today. Pynchon & Co., brokers, of No. 111 Broadway, corroborated Mr. Schlunsen.

James Duckett, 22, started out from his home in Indianapolis, and bummed his way to New York where he hoped to get a job on a ship sailing to foreign ports. New York looked formidable and cold Wednesday night, and the Bowery Mission was no home sweet home. So it was a fairly cheerless young man who buttoned his ancient raincoat about him, pulled his veteran felt hat down over a peaked face and set out this morning to see New York and get a job.

But luck was lying on the corner of Broadway and Cedar street in the form of a $1,000,000 check Mr Schlunsen says.

The check was made payable by Pynchon & Co. to the Hanover National Bank. A messenger had dropped it. Young Duckett picked it up and held it in trembling hands stunned by the figures he read on it. Then he decided to take it where the messenger was supposed to carry it.

At the Hanover National Bank a guard was detailed to accompany him to Pynchon & Co. Mr. Schlunsen was called in. And soon the young man who had passed the night at the Bowery Mission was meeting executives receiving congratulations, pocketing a $20 reward, and setting off with Mr. Schlunsen in quest of a job.

Down to the United Fruit Lines piers they went. And soon Duckett was talking to John Haskins of the United Fruit Lines about that job of sailing for foreign ports. Tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock, young Duckett will appear to complete arrangements with the United Fruit Lines. The Calamaras of that company, is sailing for South American ports Saturday. And, if the luck Duckett discovered today is still riding, the Calamares may have a man from Indianapolis aboard.

Thieves Loot Tailor Shop.

Samuel B. Vigner, of 811 Thirteenth street northwest, told police yesterday that his tailor shop there had been entered and robbed of clothing valued at $420. Entrance was gained through a basement window, he said.

DRINKS HALF QUART DAILY, SAYS INMAN

Was Willing to Take Wife Out, but She Thought 2 A. M. Too Early to Go Home.

DIVORCE SUIT NEARS JURY

Reno, Nev., April 11 (A.P.).—Walker P. Inman, wealthy New Yorker, who is suing his wife for divorce on the ground that she drank too much and "ran wild" with other men, testified in divorce court here today that he drinks about half a quart of liquor a day."

Under cross-examination Inman said he didn't believe his daily consumption of liquor exceeded that amount and he declared that it had not impaired his health.

Inman said he had not objected to taking Mrs. Inman to places of amusement, but that she had refused to leave at a "decent hour," by which he said he meant 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning.

Testimony was completed with the calling of two Reno physicians, who said that Mrs. Inman's nose had been broken some years ago and that it had never properly healed. Mrs. Inman contends that her nose was broken when her husband struck her in 1922. A New York physician who attended her at the time testified in a deposition read yesterday that Mrs. Inman suffered no serious injury.

The case is expected to go to the jury late tomorrow after arguments are heard.

PARLEYS ARE FUTILE IN CRISIS AT VIENNA

Two Socialist Factions War Over Legislative Group in Nation.

14 FASCISTS HURT IN RIOT

Vienna, April 11 (A.P.).—Eight days of parleys by leaders of the rival Christian Socialists or Clerical party and the Democratic Socialist or Workmen's party have not relieved the governmental crisis in Austria. The leaders seemed as far apart today as they were when Mgr. Ignaz Seipel resigned the chancellorship.

On one side is threatened the establishment of a dictatorship and the suppression of parliament unless the Socialists abandon their opposition to legislative measures while on the other is equal determination to guard the republic against encroachments by landlords, business men and former army officers.

Meanwhile sporadic clashes between irregular military organizations maintained by the respective parties are keeping the republic in a state of perpetual turmoil and anxiety. Socialist parliamentary leaders insisted today that they were not responsible for last night's clash in Leising in which fourteen Fascists were injured and fifteen arrests made.

The Socialists, who control the Vienna municipal government, declare that Communists embarrass them by inciting Socialist workmen to make common cause against the Clerical party. The Socialists also charge that the Fascists organization sponsored by the Clericals is financed by industrialists and deliberately seeks to provoke fights in which the Socialists are invariably the heaviest losers.

THE RETURN OF OLD KING BRADY

Revived by MERLE W. HERSEY.

THE TRAIL OF A WOODEN IDOL.

CHAPTER SIX.

The Old Smuggler Meets His Master.

The Bradys call on Jonathan Jenkins and inform him that Alice has been kidnapped. He promises to aid them in rescuing her. He is attacked by a Chinaman and mortally wounded. The Bradys hire a tug and start in pursuit of Ah Sam.

WHEN Old King Brady and Harry rang the bell of Jonathan Jenkins' house they hardly knew what sort of welcome they would receive. They felt that the sly old rascal would not brook any interference in his smuggling affairs.

Mr. Jenkins received them with an anxious face.

"Well, what's the news?" he demanded.

"Several things," replied the old detective. "In the first place we have managed to lose Miss Montgomery in Chinatown. We learn that she was kidnapped and carried aboard a tug by order of Ah Sam, he and your daughter having sailed on the tug, also."

"You don't mean it," gasped Mr. Jenkins. "Was that Rosa May?"

"I don't know what the name was." "I'll bet it was. Well, well! See what it is to be old and not able to look after my own affairs. But wait." He rushed to the telephone and called up a man by the name of Gorman.

"I say, run across and see if the Rosa May is in the slip, will you?" After a minute he said, "She sailed last night. Was Ah Sam on board? Great heavens. Capt. Wimple has betrayed me. Don't go out for a while, Gorman. I may want to call you up again." He turned to the Bradys.

"I don't know what to do. Oh, if there was only some one I could trust."

"What is the matter with trusting me?" asked the old detective.

He shook his head gloomily.

"Come, come, Mr. Jenkins," said Old King Brady. "What's the use of beating around the bush? You are in the smuggling business with both feet and every one knows it. Ah Sam has taken your daughter and my partner to some holdout of yours along the coast. I'm ready to follow. All I'm out for is to find the wooden idol and rescue Miss Montgomery if she needs it."

"Well, all right, then. I'll get a tug and we will chase them up. I won't tell you where we are going. Time enough to go into details when we get there. Is that all right?"

"Yes. How far?"

"About a hundred miles, perhaps a little more. Excuse me now, I'll go and see about another tug, also get ready for a start."

"What? You mean to start tonight?"

"Yes, the sooner the better, if you and the young man can go."

"We are ready, but I fear the undertaking will be too much for an old man like you."

"I don't know that I'm any older than you are, Brady! I'm good for many a year yet." How little he knew what was in store for him!

The old pawnbroker went up the stairs and the Bradys heard the telephone ring. There was a lapse of a few moments and then a startled cry rang out through the house.

"Murder! Help! Brady! Brady! Quick!"

The Bradys dashed up two flights of stairs with all speed. They could hear a scuffling going on in the back chamber on the second floor. They burst into the room to discover old Jenkins grappling with a Chinaman.

There was blood on his coat and blood on the floor, where lay a knife.

"Help, Brady! I'm almost gone!" gasped Jenkins as the detectives entered. Probably he was, but the old man's strength must have been enormous at the start.

He had the Chinaman by the throat with his right hand, his arm pinioned the fellow's left, while with his own left he sought to wrench away the revolver.

The Chinaman was black in the face, but was still struggling for all he was worth. Harry instantly covered him.

Old King Brady gave him a smart rap over the head with the butt of his revolver, ordering an immediate surrender.

"Let go! We've got him, Mr. Jenkins. If he makes a move he is a dead one" cried the old detective.

"Which I am, as it is, I'm afraid!" gasped the old sinner and letting go, sank unconscious to the floor.

The Chinaman was about done for, too. He dropped the revolver and tumbled into a chair, panting and gasping.

Harry, taking no chance, promptly handcuffed him.

A Doctor Is Summoned.

Meanwhile, Old King Brady was giving first aid to the injured man. He ripped Mr. Jenkins' coat, vest and shirt down the back, exposing the wound, which was directly under the left lung. It looked as though the knife might have penetrated the lung. The wound was bleeding and the old detective bound it up with an improvised bandage. He and Harry then lifted the sufferer on to the bed and administered whisky from Old King Brady's flask.

This seemed to revive him and he lay groaning while the old detective removed his shoes and further loosened his clothes. "Who is your doctor?" he demanded.

Mr. Jenkins murmured a name and Harry quickly found it in the book and got the doctor on the phone.

Thus far the Chinaman had not spoken. Old King Brady tried to question him, but all the answer he could get was, "Me no sabee Engliss."

"Brady!" gasped the wounded man, and the old detective turned to his bedside. "He stabbed me in the back while I was talking over the phone," he murmured. "He must have been hiding under the bed. Treachery! This is Sophy's work."

"Ah Sam's more likely," said Old King Brady.

"The knife penetrated the lung," the doctor reported, on examining the wound. "He is liable to go off with a hemorrhage any moment." This was said to the old detective and the doctor asked if he thought he should tell Jenkins.

"I think you had better," said Old King Brady. It was done. But the old pawnbroker would not agree to it. "I shall get well," he declared. "I don't care what you do or say, I shall pull through. I want all of you to leave the room but Mr. Brady."

They humored him in this, the old detective directing Harry to call up the police station and have the patrol wagon sent after the prisoner. The wagon was just arriving and Harry explaining things to the police when Old King Brady entered the room.

"He is gone!" exclaimed the doctor after one glance at the old detective.

"Yes. He went off with a hemorrhage, just as you said he would."

The police went upstairs and looked around. Not a word could be gotten out of the Chinaman.

The doctor called in a man to act as caretaker and after an hour or so left the house in company with the Bradys.

"Well," he remarked, as they walked up Sixty-sixth street, "so that's the end of old Jenkins. They say one must not speak against the dead, but all the same, I am going to say he was one of the meanest men in New York, and his daughter is even meaner than he was. He must have left a lot of money behind him, which will astonish every one when it comes to light. There'll be a great scramble among his creditors now."

"Does he owe much?" asked the old detective.

"He owes every one who would trust him, myself included," was his reply.

After he had gone Harry questioned his chief.

"Yes," replied the old detective. "He told me where his smuggling hangout is." And he named a certain point on the Jersey coast.

"Why, the old man owns three tugs outright, if you will believe it," the old detective went on to say. "I've got the address of this man Gorman who has them in charge. It's Rutgers slip."

"Going to use one of his?"

"No. The captains are not all in the deal, of course, but this one might make us trouble. We'll get a tug of our own with a few extra men in the crew, and make as quick a start as possible."

They proceeded to Coenties Slip, where many tugs tie up. The one the Bradys engaged was the Sprite, Capt. Van Voorhis, who got four men from a lodging house nearby. It was after 1 when they got under way. With the long run ahead there was nothing better than to go to bed and rest.

The old detective had learned nothing of the wooden idol, for the dying pawnbroker had insisted up to his last moment that he would recover. Thus the Bradys were still in the dark.

Another chapter of this thrilling serial is in tomorrow's issue. Don't miss it. Old King Brady is on the trail of a hideous wooden idol.

Closing of Chicago Schools Threatens

Legislature Must Aid Board of Education, President of Group Says.

Chicago, April 11 (A.P.).—H. Wallace Caldwell, president, has advised the board of education that without legislative relief Chicago public schools will be unable to reopen next September.

Announcement was made at a meeting yesterday that all Chicago public school playgrounds must be closed May 15 because of lack of funds. Within a few months, board members said, the free textbook fund of the board also will have been depleted.

Revenues for the playgrounds and textbook funds are available only from taxes, President Caldwell pointed out and revaluation of Cook County real estate now under way is delaying receipt of money for these purposes. Legislative measures are being drafted in an effort to lift the schools from the financial dilemma.

Giant Radio Set Planned On Dirigible

Apparatus Will Give U. S. Airships Communication Range of 8,000 Miles. Will Experiment With Los Angeles on Design.

The Navy super-dirigibles ZR-4 and ZR-5 now being built at Akron, Ohio, each of which will be approximately three times the size of the Los Angeles, will be equipped with apparatus which will have a communication range equal to their cruising radius, which will exceed 8,000 miles.

The radio set installed on the U. S. S. Shenandoah, which crashed in Ohio on September 3, 1925, had a possible range of 1,000 miles, but actually did not operate dependably on a longer range than 800 miles on the high-frequency set.

The equipment now on the Los Angeles includes an intermediate transmitting set capable of sending a call 600 miles, and a short wave transmitter which has sent clearly 1,200 miles. The official specifications, however, for the radio equipment on these new airships set forth that a radio room on each approximately ten feet by ten by ten feet, a space 1,000 cubic feet, will be required to house the transmitting and receiving machines.

It has been decided to use the Los Angeles for an experimental ship from a radio standpoint in determining the proper design for the radio equipment for the new dirigibles.

With this in view, steps are being taken to develop equipment which will replace that now installed on the Los Angeles. Both the intermediate frequency and high frequency sets will be replaced and the present wind-driven power source will be removed and engine-driven power units substituted therefor. The present radio compass will be allowed to remain intact as it has given very satisfactory service, though it is possible that the receiving equipment for same may be replaced by some of more modern design.

Experimental equipment will be built and installed on the Los Angeles for service tests before starting construction on the sets to be installed on the ZR-4 and ZR-5.

The ships are to be powered with eight engines instead of five as in the case of the Los Angeles, and the ignition systems of the engines will be shielded to improve radio reception on board.

The contract for these airships calls for delivery about 1931. The ships are to be of 6,500,000 cubic feet capacity, and will cost approximately $5,000,000 apiece.

C. W. Horn, formerly chief engineer of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., of Pittsburgh, has been added to the engineering staff of the National Broadcasting Co. Mr. Horn will have the title of general engineer. His duty will include mechanical development and experiments in radio features. He sailed Wednesday on the Leviathan for Europe, where he will make a study of the radio conditions and systems in the British Isles and on the Continent.

On Wednesday, May 1, Secretary Arthur M. Hyde, of the United States Department of Agriculture, will address the radio audience of the National Broadcasting Co. and associated radio stations for the second time since he took office on March 4. His talk on that date will mark the opening of the department's observance of Child Health Week, proclaimed by President Hoover to start May 1. Secretary Hyde will speak on "The Country Child—the Farm's Best Crop."

A television apparatus which, it is claimed, can be attached to the ordinary radio set as easily as a loud speaker, was demonstrated recently by the inventor in a laboratory in Berlin. The apparatus appears to be concerned only with the long-distance transmission of motion pictures. The inventor has been perfecting television inventions for some time, and this is his latest.

The tests were described as indicating that the machinery was capable of projecting ordinary motion pictures by wire or wireless to several receivers in different places simultaneously.

In the demonstration the attendant turned a button and immediately a picture appeared in an aperture of a square frame similar to a mirror holder. Pictures of animal scenes, of persons smoking and drinking and of a woman trying on a hat were flashed, it is claimed, with remarkable clearness. Not only were light and depth reproduced but intermediate tones stood out almost perfectly, reports state.

What Today Means to You

April 12.

By MARY BLAKE.

"ARIES."

If April 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you today are from 7 a. m. to 8:45 a. m., from 11:15 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. and from 5:15 p. m. to 6:35 p. m. The danger period is from 2:10 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Today's planetary aspects promise to engender an atmosphere of suspicion and distrust, and there will be distracting influences at work which will tend to entice you away from that which you should do. It would be wise to defer any definite decisions until a more propitious occasion.

The child born today will have a vivid imagination and will dwell in Fancy's halls, the hero or heroine of its own fairy tales. It will not be practical and it will hate to assume the worries and responsibilities of adulthood. It will never take life seriously nor clothe it in drab attire.

You possess one of the greatest blessings, a cheerful disposition, which contributes greatly to both your mental and physical efficiency. No matter what your role on life's great stage may be, that of a busy wife and mother or that of a wage earner, your cheerfulness will make you like your work and will contribute to both your business and social success.

You are not a "singing fool," however; you are not blind to misfortunes, failures, rebuffs or sorrows, but you meet them with a whistle and not a whine. You do not sidestep the enemies of life, but meet them with an invincible armor of courage and faith.

Although a pacifist at heart, you have a regiment of combative forces ready to fight for right and justice. You are firm in your convictions and are ready to stand by them. You never swerve an inch where your principles are involved.

You are not subject to moods, and are victor and not victim of your circumstances. You are thankful for the blessings bestowed upon you and make the most of them.

You are able to do big things in a quiet and serene way, and you never brag about your accomplishments. You are a good companion, a sincere friend and an enemy to none.

Successful people born April 12:

Henry Clay, statesman and orator.

Donald Grant Mitchell (Ik Marvel), author.

Charles Foster, statesman.

John S. Billings, physician and author.

Frank K. M. Rehn, artist.

Walter A. Wycoff, author and sociologist.

Dunlap Gives Farm Talk Over WRC

Assistant Secretary Will Tell of Work of Department of Agriculture. "Kiki," New Musical Composition, Given at 8.

How the United States Department of Agriculture serves not only the farmer but millions of others as well will be explained by R. W. Dunlap, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, in an address through a coast-to-coast network of the National Broadcasting Co. stations, at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

Mr. Dunlap's speech will feature the "Half Hours with the Senate" program. Senator Lynn J. Frazier, Republican of North Dakota, also will be heard on the program. He will discuss the farm situation. Senator Frazier is chairman of the Senate committee on Indian affairs and a member of several other important senatorial committee. Both talks will be broadcast from the Washington studios of the N. B. C.

Secretary of the Interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur, will speak from WRC for fifteen minutes at 6:45 o'clock. His subject is "Planning For Health."

"Kiki," a new musical composition by Savino, dedicated to Leonore Ulric, will be played during the broadcast of the Cities Service Hour at 8 o'clock. Another interesting feature is the violin solo, "Zieguenerweisen," by Sascha Fidelman. With the accompaniment of the orchestra, the Cavaliers will be heard in "Roses for Remembrance" and their usual group of typical songs. This program also includes Debussy's "Arabesque in A," Saint-Saens' "Le Rouet d'Omphale" and gems from "The Dollar Princess," by Fall.

Classic French composers are drawn upon for the hour of Slumber Music which will be heard at 11 o'clock. The complete program for this broadcast follows:

"Marche Militaire," Saint-Saens; overture to "Jean de Paris," Boieldieu; selection from "Faust," Gounod; "Pavane," Ravel; "Eternelle Ivresse," Ganne; "Adagio Pathetique," Godard, and "Judex," Gounod.

Liszt's "Les Preludes" will occupy the second half-hour of the RCA Educational Hour, broadcast through WRC. Dr. Walter Damrosch will direct the symphony.

The Pacific Little Symphony Orchestra, directed by Max Dolin, will play Wagner's "Vorspiel" to "The Meistersingers of Nuremberg," "Thousand and One Nights," a waltz by Strauss; "Improvisations," an orchestral arrangement of violin sonata opus 18, Strauss; "Tambourin Chinois," Kreisler; first movement from "Symphony No. 5," Beethoven; Festival at Sorrento, from suite, "Land of the Blue Sky," Holmes; ballet music from "Faust," Gounod, and overture to "Mignon," Thomas.

Lambert Murphy, tenor, will appear as the guest soloist of the Kodak Hour at 10 o'clock tonight from WMAL. Mr. Murphy has chosen "Rose Marie," "Little Log Cabin of Dreams," the serenade from "Blossom Time" and Olcott's "My Wild Irish Rose."

"Breezes" will be an offering of WMAL at 8 o'clock. "Breezing Along With the Breeze" will serve as the theme melody for the novel program, which will contain "South Wind," "Watching the Clouds Roll By" and "Drifting and Dreaming."

WMAL'S program will close with an hour's grand review of "The Jazz Regiment," musical show featuring a band and 29 specialty entertainers.

A feature of the program from WJSV is an address by Maj. Gen. Ruggles, who has chosen as his subject "Henry Clay, an American Statesman," April 12 being the anniversary of his birth.

The Gondoliers and Bill Thompson's Fiddlers are among the closing attractions from the station.

The early evening program from WOL will be only about an hour and a half in length, including Andy Claus, dinner music and Amos 'n' Andy. The J. L. Jerman company will present two hours of dance music at 10 o'clock.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN.

April 12.

The outstanding French musical historian, Marie Bobillier, commonly known as Michel Brenet, was born this day, 1858, in Luneville.

Her writings are hailed by critics as valuable for their original, independent and erudite research.

Miss Bobillier's chief works are "History of the Symphony Orchestra Up to Beethoven," "The Life and Works of Gretry," "Jean d'Okeghem," "Claude Gondimel," "Notes on the History of the Lute in France," "The Youth of Rameau" and "The Old French Method of Music."

Besides writing her books, Miss Bobillier has been a frequent contributor to the French musical journals.

Art INTERPRETS the MODE

A typical jeune fille frock of beige lace and tulle, with a double skirt effect and bolero top, and a flower of tulle and lace at the shoulder. (Courtesy of Drecoll-Beer, Paris.)

ONE can go abroad in a suitcase! Now, I don't say that you can take a tour of Europe with just one suitcase, but I bet I could, t that. Touring means encountering extremes in weather, you see—summer, very much so, in Italy, for instance, and winter, likewise V. M. S., in Switzerland.

Be that as it may, women usually carry too much clothing. Here is the suitcase wardrobe of a famous New York buyer, who goes to Paris and Berlin four times a year—on a business trip which calls for perfect dressing, yet the elimination of unnecessary details.

Contents of Suitcase.

In the suitcase: A four-piece sports dress with two skirts, really two dresses in one, with scarf and a soft, collapsible hat. A sleeveless chiffon dinner dress, with a matching chiffon coat which makes it an afternoon dress. One lace evening gown. One pair sports shoes, one pair evening slippers, one pair afternoon slippers. Fox fur in place of evening wrap. Lingerie, nightgowns, one serviceable kimona, one transparent raincoat.

For the tour, one would have simply to add to this three or four very light summer dresses, and one white summer coat, shoes and hat. And carry a steamer rug—that's all. There wouldn't be an occasion that would find you without a proper and complete outfit, and you wouldn't have to bother with innumerable pieces of luggage, nor more important, a trunk.

L'le At-pom-speer.

Speaking of traveling light, one look around this none too ample cabin: One typewriter, one portable phonograph, two large leather hat-boxes (not filled with hats). Then one small suitcase, one huge suitcase, one "dicky" bag, and one guitar—merely handluggage. One wardrobe trunk, and one small shoe trunk, likewise here—and three more trunks in the hold. Did you say traveling light? But then, two weeks on a small boat has to have its diversions—it has!

Letters come asking for evening hat ideas. The simplest and most effective evening hats are made of silver or black, or gold paillettes, in a wee bonnet shape. You know, you use the spangles with perforated edges, through which you simply thread silk threads and make the hat in a mesh effect. Make it on a round form the size of your head, you know.

Wee hats the same shape of expensive lace, of tulle edged in strass, or of simple silver or gold cord woven in a fish-net effect, are good. And all easily made, once you find the round form the size of your head, or have it made.

Who asks for girlish frocks? Here is one illustrated for you today, in beige lace and tulle. The materials, color and especially the silhouette are extremely girlish, in fact would be appropriate for little sister of 10 as well as young sister of 19.

The flower is of lace and tulle, the bolero effect of lace, and the tiered skirt of lace edged in tulle. The sash is lace, tied. How would you like that for a graduation frock?

Breathes there a soul so dead that it never has wanted to do something with its fingers? We all do, and when we find that some one who really knows how is willing to show us, then we have the double joy of knowing that we can satiafy our urge to create and be, at the same time, sure of pleasing results.

Now you know you would like to potter around with paints and things—if you were sure you could obtain some nice results!

And you can, if you just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, which tells you how to make some beautiful book-covers, and some lovely boxes. The directions are so clear—even to telling you what kind of paints and varnishes to buy, and where to buy them—and then, step by step, how to cover your books so that the result will be pleasing and artistic. Hurry!

Next Sunday's Fashion Letter contains much to interest many. Look for it.

Au Revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD.

Infidelity.

SEVERAL stern ladies have written me strong letters this week about infidelity. They are very much surprised to see me badly "defend it in the public press." They could be more surprised than I would be to see myself defend it in the public press or elsewhere. So I hunted back to see where, when, how, &c., and found that I had told a young wife whose husband had been flirting with a young teacher, that in her place I would not consider our love over. The stern ladies say I am a most improper person, and should be censored and suppressed.

Is it wicked to ... a young wife the truth about marriage? After all we, every one of us, know that a man can love his wife, and still be an idiot on impulse, or temporarily. And we all know that you can't kill love so easily, that a wife could never forgive a silly episode, no matter how exasperating.

The two people whose conduct was under discussion had not gone further than a sort of simpering interest in each other, and the husband, very foolishly I think, had confided the whole matter to his wife, asking her to remove temptation by letting the fair boarder in their home move to the hotel.

Personally, I think his "confession" is harder to forgive than his two-penny adventure. A husband should be able to find his way about alone, meet his problems and his wife's too, instead of tugging at her apron strings to have his burnt fingers kissed, and his love life analyzed.

There is no sense in defending infidelity, or rain or sun stroke or any of those things. They are beyond argument. They just are. But when some one very young seems to believe that infidelity or sun stroke places the victim beyond the pale of human acceptance, seems to me that some one ought to come forward with a little sanity.

Why should two persons who have been happily married for years, suddenly wrench themselves apart, tear themselves up by the roots, suffer and agonize, simply because one or the other has momentarily loitered by the way to gaze upon some passing stranger? Is it sound reasoning? Does it help?

About everybody I know has been divorced more than once. I can not see that second choices are any better than first, or that divorce does much or anything except invite nervous breakdowns. If people love each other they suffer in punishing each other, especially unjustly. And I believe it unjust to punish a husband by leaving him, because he has acted like an idiot. Perhaps that is because in my opinion acting like an idiot is second nature to man. In any case I do not defend infidelity when I advise a wife to ignore a man's childish attempt to be a Barrymore, especially when the attempt lands him at her feet in tears.

What is this marriage business anyway that we expect such miracles in its name? Human beings have a most distressing way of doing the things nature seems to expect them to do, and I, for one, am through expecting them to walk over nature's dead body, to prove something or other.

I apologize for shocking stern ladies, but I hope I'm censored and suppressed both, if I ever tell a wife to leave a man she loves, just because he cries on her shoulder and tells her he's been making eyes at the school teacher. If that be treason, it's at least sense.

Robinson Crusoe's Island.

HAVE you ever wondered whether such a man as Robinson Crusoe really lived? The book bearing his name has been printed in many languages and has been read by millions of persons. It is an interesting book, and every one ought to know the story.

But was there a Robinson Crusoe?

An artist's idea of Robinson Crusoe "at home."

Yes, in a way, there was. He was born in Scotland 253 years ago. Growing to young manhood, he became a sailor. In the course of time he was sailing off the coast of Chile, and was left on an island all by himself.

That man was named Alexander Selkirk, but when his adventures were put into a book he was given the name of "Robinson Crusoe."

Selkirk spent four years on the island, and part of his food was made up of herbs and roots. He also had the flesh of wild goats for his dinner table.

Rescued by a passing ship, Selkirk was taken back to Great Britain and told his adventures. One man who heard them was a writer named Daniel DeFoe. This gave DeFoe the idea of writing the story he called "Robinson Crusoe."

DeFoe put into his book things which had not really happened to Selkirk. For instance, there was no "Man Friday," who came to keep Selkirk company.

If you would like to see the island where Selkirk lived, you may find it off the coast of Chile. It is one of the Juan Fernandez islands.

How would you like to be alone on an island for four years? If I had to stay in such a place I should want to have plenty of books to read, a good set of tools and some canned goods. I should also like to have a broadcasting station so that I could send out a story every day for corner readers.

WORK ON BRIDGE

"The Auction Player, unfamiliar with Contract is apt to be troubled by the big difference between Auction and Contract values for tricks, under-tricks, premiums, slams and rubbers, &c. The vulnerability feature of Contract is also apt to be confusing.

As a special service to our readers Mr. Work will be glad to send you upon request, complimentary, a complete statement explaining all these new features, provided you inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply. Mr. Work also answers all Auction and Contract questions without charge."

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

LAST week, in considering what was required to justify a jump of partner's suit-bid, we found that there were four elements of strength which the assisting hand might have, viz., high cards, ability to ruff, more than normal length in partner's suit (i. e. more than three cards), and a strong five-card side suit. The counts allowed for high cards were fully explained. In determining the value of a hand for jumping purposes, these four elements must all be considered; but they are being described separately so they can be easily understood.

Under the head of "ability to ruff," a blank suit is rated as 8, a singleton as 4, a doubleton as 1, and two doubletons as 3.

Now we will see how hands should be counted that combine the two elements—high-card values and ability to ruff—but which do not contain either of the others. North hands; in a case in which South has bid either one or two Spades, and West has passed.

The value of Nos. 1 and 2 for jumping purposes would be reckoned as follows:

No. 1. Spades, Queen of suit named by partner, 3; Hearts, Ace 5, King with a higher honor 5; Diamonds, King 3, doubleton in Diamonds 1; total 17.

No. 2. Spades, Jack-Ten-x of partner's suit, 1; Hearts, Ace 5, Queen with higher honor 3, Jack with higher honor 1; singleton in Diamonds 4; total 14.

The value of Nos. 3 and 4 for jumping purposes would be reckoned as follows:

No. 3. Spades, King of suit named by partner, 4; Hearts, K... at head of suit 3; Jack with higher honor 1; Diamonds, blank suit 8; Clubs, Queen at head of suit 1; total 17.

No. 4. The two doubletons would be reckoned as 3, which would be the entire count of the hand. The Jack of partner's suit does not count unless accompanied by another honor, and the Jack of Diamonds at the head of the suit is not rated as of value.

Tomorrow the counts for the other two kinds of asset will be given.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

BABIES AND WHEAT SUGAR.

DR. ROGER DENNETT advocates giving babies sugar made from wheat germ daily throughout the first year of life. This replaces malt sugar, milk sugar and other forms of sugar more commonly used. The quanity he advises is one level tablespoonful daily. Since this is the most laxative of all the sugars, the quanity should be decreased if the bowels are loose.

Other children can use cereal made from wheat or breads of the same sort, provided the cereal or bread contains the germ of the grain. Yeast serves the same purpose, but as a rule, is less palatable. He advises wheat germ sugar for many breast fed babies as well as for those reared on the bottle. This advice is based on the following:

A great many babies lose their appetites when they are about nine or ten months old. In addition, these babies stop growing and become flabby and listless. His explanation of this combination of symptoms is a deficiency of the diet in vitamin B. The ordinary baby diet is apt to be deficient in this vitamin even when the baby is at the breast or when he is getting a proper milk mixture supplemented by a little fruit juice and cod liver oil.

The deficiency is not great and, in consequence, the baby runs along on a fairly normal schedule until he begins to get below the proper vitamin B level. The ordinary baby food is somewhat deficient in this protective agent. For instance, 10 ounces of good milk contains only as much of it as is found in a tablespoon of wheat germ sugar, or even less yeast. This vitamin is probably a combination of two or three substances, one of which promotes growth and appetite. Another protects against constipation and various neuralgic pains and the other prevents and cures pellagra.

Others who have recognized the importance of vitamin B deficiencies in the baby diets have added yeast to bring them up to par. Dr. Dennett found it difficult to give yeast to babies. He, therefore, selected wheat germ. In order to get away from the tendency of wheat germ to become rancid or otherwise spoil, he made use of sugar made from the germ. He gave this as a matter of routine to a group of 150 babies. The experiment was kept up for months. The babies grew faster than the average, did not develop poor appetites and thrived generally.

THE CHANGES OF TIME.

There is no age without its charm,
No season wholly drear,
Who looks on winter with alarm
Sees not with vision clear.

For winter hath its splendors, too,
As hath the gentle spring.
Though youth is fair, youth wants to view
The changes Time will bring.

Let young hearts share the battle thrill,
Old heads are done with strife,
But Time has compensations still
For those last years of life.

What matters it that strength is past?
Life still has joys to give!
One can go smiling to the last
And count it good to live.

The charms we knew as girls and boys
Have vanished long ago,
But Time still has a stock of joys

Good Earnings Statements Help Buoy the Stock Market Further.

CALL FUNDS 9 PER CENT

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—The stock market made the most substantial headway today since the upturn a week ago, as an assortment of pleasing earnings statements and expectation of a sizeable reduction in brokers' loans sent shorts to cover and promoted ambitious operations for the advance throughout the list. The day's developments, however, were not sufficiently promising to attract much public participation, and the day's turnover exceeded the 3,000,000-share level by a narrow margin.

Bears uncovered a few weak spots in the forenoon, but when the call money renewal rate of 9 per cent was shaded to 8 in the "outside market," activity generally shifted to the upside. Money held at 9 per cent all day, however, as the outside supply at 8 per cent was quickly exhausted. If the market proceeds at the reduced pace of the last ten days moderate improvement in the credit situation is expected, as commercial demands are rapidly reaching their peak and will begin to slacken shortly.

A drop of $135,000,000 in brokers' loans, announced by the Federal Reserve Bank after the close, equaled the most optimistic expectations, although Wall street generally had looked for a reduction of at least $100,000,000, in view of the falling off of new financing and the taking up of margin accounts during the sagging market of the past week. Fears over the rediscount rate had been quelled by the announcement of the Federal Reserve Board that it was satisfied for the time being with its present policy of controlling credit.

Reduction in Earmarkings.

In addition to the brokerage loan compilation, the Federal Reserve Bank offered good news in its weekly gold statement, showing that the reduction in earmarkings, attributed to the surplus of gold from Germany to France, has amounted to $27,293,000 and that imports from Argentina during the week totaled $4,239,000. While the bank is not expected to permit this broadening of the credit base to relieve the tension in speculative credit, it is regarded as a further removing the possibility of a higher rediscount rate.

The reduction in brokers' loans brought the total down to $5,427,000,000, a drop of $366,000,000 from the record high level reported March 20, but more than $1,400,000,000 above the level of a year ago, when fears were widely expressed that loans were too high. The compilation showed that the New York banks called more than $100,000,000 in loans during the week, reducing the total of their funds in the market to $915,000,000.

The day's business news included increases of 1 cent a gallon in gasoline prices in the East by a number of refiners. Sinclair reported 1928 earnings equal to $2.70 a share, against $9 cents in 1927. Utah Copper reported $15.31 a share against $8.97. North American Co. reported that electrical output of subsidiaries for the first quarter gained about 14 per cent over the like period of last year. It was said in copper trade circles that red metal prices had been stabilized after the recent cuts by custom smelters.

Conspicuous on the Upturn.

Conspicuous in the upturn in stocks were such leading issues as American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, Consolidated Gas and United States Steel, which sold up about 2 to 5 points. United States Steel rose above 190 for the first time since the Reserve Board issued its credit warning on February 6, and independents were strong. Ludlum mounting nearly 6 points. Utilities displayed group strength. American & Foreign Power making an extreme gain of nearly 9 points.

Rails were again accumulated, with further discussion of the prospect of an early decision on the O'Fallon case. Southern mounted 4 points, despite the citation by the Interstate Commerce Commission under the Clayton antitrust law. Chesapeake & Ohio made a like gain. In the New York tractions, Interborough rallied more than 2 points on reports of the organization of a stockholders' protective association to negotiate with the city. Manhattan Elevated and Third Avenue were again heavy.

Yellow Truck at New High.

In the motors, Yellow Truck jumped to a new high at 48⅛ on heavy buying based on reports that the company had definitely turned the corner after several years of vicissitude, and would shortly publish an excellent earnings report. Coppers made moderate gains. Anaconda and Kennecott selling up about 8 points. Oils were generally firm with the exception of Houston, which dropped 2 points.

American Radiator mounted more than 11 points, while American Sugar Refining, Childs Co., Columbian Carbon, Commercial Solvents, National Biscuit and Stromberg Carburetor were among issues gaining 4 or 5 points. Film issues, after selling off on news of an investigation of an alleged combine on the Pacific Coast, rebounded, Warner Bros., gaining more than 5 points.

Among the few weak spots at the close were Chicago and Eastern Illinois and Otis Elevator, off 3 and 4 points.

Commodities were generally steady. Grains improved slightly, and cotton rallied after easing during much of the session and bearish private March consumption figures, more favorable weather and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

Foreign exchanges were firm on the good showings of the Bank of England and Bank of France's weekly statements. The sterling demand rate jumped nearly ¼ of a cent to just under $4.85.

Lee Replaces Rea On Railway Board

Is Elected as a Director of Norfolk & Western at Meeting.

Roanoke, Va., April 11 (A.P.).—Elisha Lee, of Philadelphia, was elected to the board of directors of the Norfolk & Western Railway Co. at the annual and special meeting of the stockholders here today.

Mr. Lee replaces Samuel Rea, who died last May, as a member of the board. The remaining directors, W. W. Atterbury, M. C. Kennedy, David W. Flickwir, N. D. Maher, E. H. Alden, A. C. Needles, S. P. Bush, A. J. County, Isaac T. Mann and S. L. Slover were elected.

The stockholders authorized the board to acquire the railroad property and franchises of the Big Sandy & Cumberland Railroad Co., the entire capital stock of which was purchased by the Norfolk & Western on October 12, 1923. The organization meeting of the board of directors will be held in Philadelphia on Monday, April 22.

Capital Woman Gets $3,000.

A bequest of $3,000 will go to Anna P. McElwee, 1818 Ontario place, from the estate of Oscar J. Brand, filed for appraisal in the State tax transfer department of New York yesterday. The estate is valued at $221,036.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, APRIL 12, 1929. 13

ROOKIES HOLD GIANTS TO 2 HITS IN NATS' 2-1 VICTORY

School Series Nines Play Today

Western and Eastern to Open Race in Latter's Stadium.

Both Teams Prepared for Game; Eastern Defends Title.

HIGH school series baseball for the season of 1929 begins today, weather permitting, with Eastern engaging Western in the opener at the Eastern Stadium at 3:15 o'clock. The Eastern Stadium is the new site for the games this year, the scene having been shifted from the Central Stadium where the games were always played before.

Both teams are ready for their respective debuts, having completed their practice work yesterday in final preparations for the game. Eastern's line-up is practically decided with the possible exception of its starting pitcher, while Western's is still somewhat doubtful because of the uncertainty of occupancy of one or two positions.

The probable battery for Eastern will be Phillips and Snyder, although "Cac" Curtin might get the call on the mound. Coach Guyon also has Hanna and Miles available and will decide definitely before game time. George Fletcher is the one certainty for Western in that team's staring line-up, and he will pitch, with Quincy Owens the most probable catcher. Fletcher in a workout yesterday looked fit and ready.

Eastern Outfielders Appear To Be Best of Lot.

Eastern will be defending the championship it won last year. Western will be endeavoring to start the series with an upset in an effort to get in the win column. On paper Eastern looms as the strongest of the two chiefly because of the many veteran players in its line-up. The team has one of the strongest, if not the best, outfields in the series, including Shapiro, Ware and Wood. This trio, in addition to being a hard-hitting group, is strong defensively, which will go a long ways in cutting down many a hit labeled for extra bases.

Shapiro, Ware and Wood rate better than the collection of H. Thompson, Worthington, Parks, McAlwee and Albert, of Western, because of their experience. The same goes for the infield. McCullough, Cappelli, Edwards and Fisher, all experienced men with the exception of Cappelli, appear to be a stronger combination than Freeman, Schneider, Hunt and Eby, of Western. Hunt is the only experienced man in the Western group, he having been an all-high selection at shortstop last year.

Four Pitchers Ready to Start For Defending Champs.

Eastern appears to have the edge in catching also. Experience again makes this so in that Snyder, although only a reserve last year, has developed quickly in winning the first-string backstopping berth this year. Owens, a first baseman, is down to handle the catching for Western. If he can fill the bill in any manner of form as Bob Wilson did last year, then the catching will be well handled.

Considering the fact that pitching always has to be considered in baseball, Eastern appears to be the better fixed for pitchers, despite the fact that none on the present staff were regulars last year. Where Western has only George Fletcher to rely on, Eastern has four in Phillips, Curtin, Hanna and Miles, mentioned before. All four of the latter group has shown marked ability this year in the early-season workouts, which gives Eastern the edge. Should one fail, there will be three others to call upon. Western does have a youngster named Albert, in addition to Fletcher, but he can not be rated

Voigt, Wilson In Pinehurst Semifinals

G. U. Golfer to Meet Fownes, Dawson's Conqueror, Today.

Voigt, Defending His Title, Beats Eaton; Plays Finlay Next.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 11 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—The second round of match play in the men's North and South championship played here today was featured by the most astonishing upset in a tournament of upsets, when Johnny Dawson, medalist and favored to oppose George Voigt, the defending champion in the final, was eliminated by W. C. Fownes, jr., 3 and 2, in a great battle during which Dawson was on the defensive all the way.

George Voigt, former District of Columbia champion, scored rather easily today and will come together tomorrow with the long-driving Phillips Finlay in the lower bracket of the semifinals. The Harvard star also came in under wraps today.

Richard Wilson, the 18-year-old Georgetown University boy, who created one of the biggest upsets of the tournament when he defeated Eugene Homans, metropolitan champion, in the first round, continued his winning ways in the second round by eliminating R. P. Merriman, 5 and 4. Merriman was the man who upset the betting by ushering Eddie Held to the sidelines in the first round.

Wilson Makes Nine Pars, Two Birdies on 14 Holes.

Wilson had no difficulty in ending his match with Merriman on the fourteenth green. Of the fourteen holes played, he had nine pars and two birdies, going over par only on three holes.

He faces a tough assignment in the third round today when he meets W. C. Fownes.

Phillips Finlay played one under 4s for fifteen holes to win his match from J. D. Chapman on the fifteenth green, 5 and 3, by sinking a 15-foot putt for a birdie 2.

Voigt had an easy match today when he encountered Charles S. Eaton, Harvard freshman and junior champion of Massachusetts, to win, 7 and 6.

Eaton started out by winning the first hole in 4, when George missed his second shot. They halved the second hole when Eaton sent his drive out of bounds and George again missed an iron shot. Starting with the third, Voigt won five holes in a row to become 5 up at the turn. It seemed as if Eaton just couldn't keep his ball out of the traps, for he was in a trap on every hole. Several missed putts also cost him holes.

Starting on the tenth, they halved it in par 4, but Eaton lost the next two when he missed a putt on the eleventh and Voigt sank a 10-foot putt on the twelfth.

Voigt and Held to Play Exhibition Here Sunday

George Voigt and Eddie Held will appear in an exhibition match on Sunday at the Bannockburn golf course, it was announced last night by E. C. Alvord, of the Bannockburn Club. Alvord received a telegram from Voigt stating that the latter would stop in Washington Sunday, accompanied by Held, as a stop-over on his trip from Pinehurst.

It is expected that Harry G. Pitt, middle Atlantic champion, and John C. Shorey, District junior champion, will play to make up the quartet. The golf committee of the Bannockburn Country Club announces that all golfers will be welcome to witness the exhibition.

GIFT MENACE —To Tranquility— OF NATIONS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, April 11.—International athletic competition, which some idealists continue to regard as a fine thing for international amity and a preventive of war, has been causing some unrest between Czechoslovakia and Italy. The Czech Football Association has refused to accept a 300-pound statue of Benito Mussolini, the gift of the Italian Football Association. The Italian Football Association sent the statue f. o. b. Bologna, which meant that the freight and import duty were to be paid by the recipients in Prague. The statue now lies in a freight house in Prague, accumulating storage charges, and there is apprehension among the Czechs lest the refusal become the basis of an international incident.

There seems to have been a deliberately unfriendly act somewhere in this affair, but whether the Italians or the Czechs were the aggressors is a question that might better be submitted to the World Court, if there is a World Court.

I can see some justification for the attitude of the Czech Football Association, for, obviously, if the athletic group of all nations should take the action of the Italians as a precedent and send 300-pound statues to Prague, collect, then international amity might become a serious financial burden to the Czechs, to say nothing of the artistic disaster to the city of Prague.

War Before Freight Charges, Would Be Less Expensive.

The United States, looking for a symbolic football figure of heroic size, might send a statue of Mr. Big Bill Edwards, formerly of Princeton and more recently president of Mr. C. C. Pyle's defunct football league. The freight on this token of international amity alone would be a serious item, and the cost of planting shrubbery to hide it would make American amity a luxury in which the Czechs might not feel able to indulge.

As for the freight on a life-size statue of a Japanese wrestler, the Czechs might prefer war with Japan as the lesser economic burden on the people, and no more painful than the necessity of looking at the statue.

The justice of the Czechs' refusal grows upon one. Mr. Mussolini has shown himself to be out of sympathy with athletics in his writings. I recall reading that he had no respect for persons who spent their energy in the fury of games, so the very subject of the statue seems to have been irrelevant. Thus the Italian Football Association strikes me as having shown the most ingenious lack of tact in the entire proceeding.

Czechs Could Melt and Return It—Out of a Gun.

However, the Italians are the stronger nation, so in the end the Czechs might be well advised to accept the gift and pay the charges. They could then boil down the metal and have it recast into a statue of a stout Czech statesman which they could send to the Italian Football Association with their compliments, f. o. b. Prague. Another way of returning the compliment in the spirit in which it seems to have been intended would be to make it into shells, load it in a gun and shoot it back.

The kind of football played by these two sensitive associations of athletes is a dubious aid to international amity on its record. It is soccer football and there is something in the very nature of soccer football which almost invariably leads to bloodshed and calls for police intervention.

This game has developed a large patronage along the Eastern Seaboard in the last few years, the majority of the players being immigrants from the British Isles and the Continent. It is a kicking game in which the participants are permitted to kick one another with metallic toe cleats under certain conditions, and the customers

Dire Possibilities Fade As Yanks Once More Loom Winners of A. L. Flag Race

Herewith is the twelfth of a series of articles dealing with the pennant prospects of all major league teams by sixteen baseball experts of the staffs of sixteen leading newspapers.

By RUD RENNIE
(Baseball Expert, New York Herald-Tribune).

ATLANTA, Ga., April 11.—The New York Yankees, winners of three consecutive American League pennants and champions of the world since 1927, look stronger than ever. Barring accidents, they should win again this year.

When they foregathered in St. Petersburg, Fla., for spring training, a cluster of dire possibilities hung over the camp. Suppose Tony Lazzeri's arm was no better than it was in the closing months of last year's season? Suppose Herb Pennock's neuritis lingered in his pitching arm and Wilcy Moore was unable to pitch his sinker ball? What if Earl Combs were troubled as a result of having his right wrist broken toward the close of the season? What if Mark Koenig could not play third base and Lyn Lary, the $60,000 recruit from the Oakland Club, turned out to be an overrated infielder?

All these possibilities threatened the dominance that the Yankees have held over the American League for the past three years. But one by one they were dissipated in the sun-soaked atmosphere. Lazzeri proceeded by easy stages to prove that he was just as good a second baseman as he ever was. Moore's arm seems to have developed its former power. Combs has forgotten there ever was anything the matter with his wrist. Pennock's arm has not hurt him yet. Mark Koenig took to third base like a duck to water. And Lyn Lary, while showing several faults in the technique of shortstopping, is a good-looking young ball player and will be retained.

So the Yankee Ball Club, its invalids apparently restored to health and vigor, will be almost the same as it was last year. Babe Ruth, brown as a nut and with his efficiency on the ball field unimpaired by his misfortune last winter, will play right field or left field, according to which one is not sunny. Earl Combs will play center and Bob Meusel left or right. That is the outfield. Its ability is well known.

Reserve Fly Chasers Fleetest Huggins Has Ever Seen.

As reserve material for this trio of fancy gardeners, Miller Huggins, manager has Ben Paschal, Cedric Durst, Elias Funk and Sam Byrd. He can close his eyes, select any two or three and not go wrong. Byrd is Huggins' favorite. He has rated Funk, Byrd and Durst as the fleetest defensive outfielders he ever has seen.

The infield situation may turn out to be complicated. It all depends on how well Koenig plays third once the season starts. He always has played short for the Yankees, but he will start at third, and Huggins thinks he will fill capably the place left vacant by the departure of Joe Dugan. In case of necessity he has Gene Robertson.

It is a question whether Lary or Leo Durocher will play shortstop. Durocher is far and away the better fielder,

Judge Fuchs to Disappoint Friends And Continue to Manage Braves

BOSTON, April 11 (A.P.).—Though many wise baseball men have warned Emil Fuchs, president-manager of the Boston Braves, he has made up his mind to give himself a fair trial in that dual role. In other words, he is not going to be discouraged from attempting what the experts describe as "the most amazing experiment in the National League."

"Nothing to those stories that I am going to turn the managership of the Braves over to Johnny Evers," Fuch said today. "Many of my friends have advised me to retire, but I will have to disappoint them for the present. I intend to be bench manager as well as president of the Braves when we open against Brooklyn next Tuesday."

It is no secret that some of those who profess to be friends of Fuchs have expended considerable time and effort trying to convince him that he has not had enough practical baseball experience to run a major league club, but to all he has returned the following answer:

"If Manager Fuchs fails, he will be the first to notify President Fuchs that a change is needed."

Fuchs returned to Boston enthusiastic over the showing his club made during the spring training season. He admitted that several of the Braves' victories were due almost entirely to his "master-minding."

AWARDED VARSITY LETTER.

Blairtown, N. J., April 11.—Edward Wildrich, prepping for West Point at the Blairstown Academy, here, has been awarded his varsity B for wrestling. Wildrich, a Washington boy, is the son of Maj. E. W. Wildrich, of Georgetown, D. C.

EXHIBITION GAMES

Atlanta, April 11 (A.P.).—The Crackers outhit the Yankees, 21 to 17, in a wild game here today, but the Hugmen romped off with the decision in runs, 15 to 12. Fred Heimach, who started the game, Waite Hoyt and Miller Huggins escaped from the park before the end of the contest to board a train direct for New York. Hoyt is to pitch the opener against the Red Sox. Lou Gehrig got his sixth homer in the first with two on base. Ruth hit a double and two singles.

ALMOST THE —Nothing But— NAKED TRUTH

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, April 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.). In more ways than one is Babe Ruth a man in a million. The average human being has an extraordinary capacity for adulation, but it gets to be an old story in time, and the most trying concomitant of celebrity. Gene Tunney, for instance, soon got to the point where the stares of the "rabble," as he called his public, annoyed him extremely. The chances are that Col. Lindbergh would rather spend the rest of his life on a desert island than go through again the experience that began when he landed at Le Bourget. Twenty years or 20 months from now both Lindbergh and Tunney may feel differently about it, but just now these young men are sated with attention and probably envy the ballroom boys, whose comings and goings are of no concern to anybody as long as they pay their rent.

Mr. Ruth, however, is of different temperamental composition. He was famous in his field years before Tunney or Lindbergh ever saw his name in print. The roar of the crowd has been ringing in his ears for more than a decade. The manhandling he has been receiving on the swing of the Yanks through the Southwest is no new experience to this batting behemoth. Placed end to end, the black and blue spots he has received from thumpingly demonstrative admirers would form a ribbon reaching from Rahway, N. J., to a point 13 miles west of the water tower at Juneau, Alaska. The caps he has lost and the uniforms rendered unserviceable in his struggles to escape the embraces of the fans would clothe every player in all the St. Louis Cardinal farm herds. Yet Ruth, far from resenting such painful expressions of admiration, actually enjoys them. He still gets a big kick out of talking baseball with a presidential candidate—always provided the candidate is a Democrat—a couple of baggage handlers on a flag station platform, or a gang of grimy kids in a sandlot.

Babe, Big Boy, Shows No Signs of Growing Up.

The answer may be that Ruth is vain to an unprecedented degree, but that explanation wouldn't satisfy his fellow players, who are pretty generally agreed that Babe is the best-liked man in the game. A more usual explanation of his unflagging enthusiasm is a more likely one. It is that he is a Peter Pan who will never grow up and who will never lose his absorbing love for the game in which he has achieved greatness. More power to that elephantine swing!

The Boston Braves are in danger of losing much of what little prestige they have left when they play the crack Holy Cross Team in Worcester Friday. That is one preseason game that Mr. Fuchs and Master Evers need to win if they are to march into Braves Field with their heads up. "Bots" Nekola, former Evander Childs pitching mainstay, is the star of Jack Barry's team, which twice humbled the Reading Team of the International League last week.

A. A. U. Head on Right Track; Organization Shake-Up Needed.

Avery Brundage, of Chicago, president of the A. A. U., has come to the conlusion that his organization needs a shaking up, thereby making it virtually unanimous. Mr. Brundage who will try to effect a working agreement between the A. A. U. and organizations controling intercollegiate athletics, proposes formation of a commission of five or more men to pass on all questions of eligibility, with powers as wide as those invested in K. M. Landis, commissioner of organized baseball. He also advocates a revision of the A. A. U. constitution and rules to meet present conditions, thereby tacitly admitting that the constitution and rules now in force do not meet them.

Mr. Brundage is on the right track. If the A. A. U. exercises strict supervision of promotion, including careful investigation of disbursements of gate receipts, the abuses which Ray Barbuti and Joie Ray have described will be re-

Rice Crowding West for Post In the Outfield

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WHILE no word to this effect has come from official sources, Washington fans need not be surprised if Outfielder Sam Rice is seen playing regularly when the season starts. This veteran appears to be just as fast as he has been in recent years, has retained his batting eye, and appears to be too good a man to be kept on the bench. Manager Walter Johnson insists that he is satisfied with the work of Sam West and Red Barnes, although admitting that the hitting of the former has been disappointing so far this spring.

Some of the "experts" on the club believe that they see a defect in West's batting stance and are working with him in an effort to improve it in the hope of his regaining his form of the waning days of 1928, when he set the league on fire and pulled his seasonal average from around .240 to over the .300 mark. If the experiment proves successful, West likely will continue as center fielder; but if the progress made is not fast, it would be no surprise if Johnson were to suddenly decide to shift Barnes to center and use Rice in right.

Barnes is out temporarily with a slight attack of water on the knee, but he claims he is ready right now and is only kept idle because Trainer Mike Martin wants to play safe and take no chances on the injury getting worse. So far this season Barnes has been fielding exceptionally well and getting his share of hits, so that if Rice pulls a "Joe Judge" and plays regularly after the season starts, after having sat on the bench for practically all of the exhibition series, as was the case with the first-sacker last spring, it probably will be at West's expense.

McGraw Wants Nats to Share San Antonio Camp.

John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, is expected to submit a proposition to President Clark Griffith today calling for the Nationals to train at San Antonio next spring. The New Yorkers have just completed a most successful conditioning period in the Texas city and are so pleased both with weather conditions and the financial returns from exhibition games that they have signed to return there for three more years. McGraw believes that with an American League team also training there a mint of money could be made in contests played throughout the Lone Star State, and he also has a ten-day tour through Mexico in mind.

Secretary Jim Tierney broached the subject to the Nat owner yesterday, more or less feeling out Griffith, and he found the latter in quite a receptive mood. He stated that McGraw was considering inviting the Nats to join him, and an outright proposition probably Nats Show Fine Form in Errorless Debut on Home Field.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

MANAGER WALTER JOHNSON introduced his new Washington ball team to the home folk yesterday and presented as his piece de resistance young Adolph Liska, late of Minneapolis and now a valued and respected member of the Nats' pitching staff, who met with the approval of the people and disgust of the New York Giants.

On the strength of Liska's pitching and that of Lloyd Brown, who followed him, and a heroic single by Benny Tate with two out in the ninth, the Nats contrived to win their third game of the spring series with the Giants, 2 to 1, in an inspiring pitchers' battle that was quite out of place on the cold, raw day that held the attendance down to a mere 2000.

Their style cramped under the influence of the mere two hits that Liska and Brown permitted, the Giants themselves made defeat complete in the ninth with a mental blunder by Pitcher Joe Genewich that smacked of the sandlots. Genewich calmly cut off Outfielder Welsh's rifle throw to the plate to head off Judge with the winning run, an uncalled-for act that might have caused the emotional breakdown of John McGraw had the Giants' manager been on the grounds and seen the "boner" with his own eyes. There was an even chance that Judge would have been out at the plate on his attempt to score from second.

Andy Reese Batting Hero of Day; Makes All Giants' Hits.

By contrast with his mates, Andy Reese was a batting hero yesterday. He made the only hit that Liska allowed in six innings and the only hit that Lloyd Brown permitted in the last three. The remainder of the New York cast, who are the favorites to win the National League flag, were barren at bat against the two Washington rookies, needless to say.

Liska engaged the veteran Carl Mays in a unique underhanded pitching duel and, with the exception of Reese, the Giants well might believe that there was something underhanded in the way that Liska pitched.

Andy Reese hit his triple with one out in the first inning and later scored, and then the Giants found themselves consigned to a monotonous one-two-three routine at the bat as young Liska unwound himself and flipped the ball plateward from a point adjacent his heels, all the while holding the McGraw men to no hits and walking nary a man for the next five innings when he was benched by Johnson for meritorious service.

Has Motion of Carl Mays, With Variations.

Liska yesterday looked like an improvement on Carl Mays in the halycon days of that under-hand veteran. He threw the ball at the batters like Mays, but with variations. e didn't deign to lean over and chuck the ball at the plate like Mays, but he slowly settled himself into a half reclining position an' flipped, not flung, the thing much like a small boy flips a marble. Fast balls and lazy curves floated over the plate from up out of the dirt.

The Nats presented a pleasing sight yesterday with the remodeled infield disporting with deadly effectiveness, with Bluege a bulwark at shortstop, Myer a reassuring figure at third base, Judge as ever at first and young Jack Hayes playing a steady game at second. First Ruel, then Tate, was behind the bat and with Goslin, West and Rice in the outfield an errorless performance was turned in.

The hand of Walter Johnson, now manager, was not distinct in the play of the Nats yesterday, but there was a spirit abound that implied that the Nats have confidence and there was a steadiness in their play born of skill. They made nine hits thought only two runs and the consensus was that they are a good team.

Judge Drives in Tying Run With Single in Fourth.

The Giants made their bid to win the game in the first inning when Reese tripled and scored while Lindstrom was being thrown out by Hayes, but then

SAND FIDDLER WINS IN BOWIE KINDERGARTEN STAKES

Unbeaten Colt Scores Over Juveniles

Public Choice Leads Portsur to Wire by Half Length.

Essare Beats Donnay by Nose in Secondary Feature.

By CHARLES A. WATSON
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

BOWIE RACE TRACK, April 11.—Racing in superb form under leaden skies, I. B. Bradfield's unbeaten gelding, Sand Fiddler, scored his fourth straight victory today in the Bowie Kindergarten Stakes, a $2,500 test for 2-year-olds over the half-mile distance. Displaying uncanny early foot, the juvenile saddled by W. J. Hughes covered the distance over a good track in 0:48 3-5 to send down to defeat the eight other worthy starters.

The son of Dunlin—Etowah was hard pressed, but he was equal to the occasion and led L. Bennet's Portsur, a McLean castoff, to the wire by a half length. R. W. Carter's Wild Apple finished third, just ahead of his stablemate, Kal-lo.

Sand Fiddler was ridden by Jockey E. Legere and the boy made no mistakes. The gelding got away on his toes and led the entire distance. Portsur, with Jockey M. Fisher in the saddle, offered what contention there was offered and ran second just behind the winner for the short distance. Wild Apple might have been closer but for the coasting ride Jockey E. Ambrose displayed in the stretch run. Sand Fiddler was much the best and easily drew away when challenged. The balance of the field showed nothing. The purse was worth $1,900 to the winner.

Adverse conditions again prevailed at Prince Georges Park and the racing conditions were anything but ideal. Topcoats were much in evidence as the temperature took a decided tumble overnight. It was a drab, rain-soaked setting that greeted the rather small crowd which gathered to witness the sport.

Essare Scores Another Victory In Great Finish.

The Jacques Mable's game-running Essare, under a rousing ride by Jockey E. Legere, won the White Marsh Purse, the secondary attraction on the program, defeating the odds-on favorite, Donnay, racing for the Rancocas Stable, by a nose decision in what proved to be one of the best finishes of the day. G. F. Jenkins' Don Bon was third, two lengths in the rear, with J. E. Davis' Stupendous finishing fourth.

The race, which was run over the six-furlong distance, marked the second defeat for the Sinclair racer in the last week by a close decision. Essare delayed the start when he continually broke through the barrier while awaiting Starter Milton's signal to "come on." He threw Jockey Legere several times before being carried to the outside post position.

Essare, swift son of Light Brigade, was the first to show when the field of six starters got under way, but soon relinquished the lead to the fleet Donnay. Stupendous and A. J. Well followed in the order named until the stretch was reached. Donnay was running easily, but the speed and gameness of the winner proved too much for him and he went down to defeat in the closing strides of the race.

The winner ran the gamest race of his career. He appeared beaten at the turn for home, but Legere roused him with the whip and he triumphed in a furious drive. Jockey F. Catrone on Donnay continually looked back in the stretch run, confident of victory, and might have been more alert with his mount.

G. C. Winfrey scored a double when Crow's Nest, with "Sonny" Workman in the saddle, won in a drive from Rock Hawk, the favorite, and Foundation Stone. Crow's Nest won by a half length, with Foundation Stone, another three lengths behind. The winner paid the liberal price of 6 to 1.

Field Players Cash When Linen King Takes Opener.

Field players started the day off right in the first race when Linen King and Crasher, grouped in the field, ran one-two. The winner, racing in the colors of E. P. Summerfield, gained the decision by a nose over the G. S. Harrison, jr.'s, entry. Runanelf, a hot tip in the padock, ran third, four lengths away.

Jockey E. Barnes got Runanelf off running with the rise of the barrier and held a slight advantage over Master Sweep to the quarter pole. Here Crasher and Linen King moved up and raced on even terms with the leader. Runanelf gained a slight advantage rounding the turn but gave way in the stretch run to the winner, which was ridden by Jockey C. Ponce in clever fashion. The gelding came from behind to earn the victory in the closing strides. Runanelf had all she could do to beat Margate to the wire for third place, as the filly tired badly in the final strides.

Workman Rides Tester to Victory in Second Race.

The second race, held under claiming conditions over the sprint route of 6 furlongs, provided a winner in G. C. Winfrey's Tester, the great Zev's training mate and star of former days. The Peter Pan gelding defeated Mrs. Robert I. Miller's Paulina L. to the wire by 3 lengths. H. G. Bedwell's Cudgeller was another length and a half behind, to finish third.

Twelve platers faced the starter and were sent away in good alignment Clock Golf shot to the front soon after the break, followed by Reign Shot. Moving into the stretch lane Tester, who had been running fourth under the careful guidance of Jockey R. Workman, moved up to second place and assumed command in the run for home, when Clock Golf began to shorten his strides and stop to a walk. Paulina L. and Cudgeller finished full of run to gain the second and third positions.

Fair Rowena Shows Gameness In Beating Red Spider.

Coming through the stretch with a powerful rush, Fair Rowena with Jockey A. Robertson astride, drove to a head decision over the favorite Red Spider, the early pacemaker in the mile and a furlong of the third number. Yachtman finished third just ahead of Merida, a field choice. Both finished far behind the leaders.

There was much jamming soon after the break and as the horses flashed past the judges' stand for the first time Red Spider, with C. Quattlebaum in the saddle, went to the head of the pack, followed by Merida. On the back stretch the two leaders opened up a wide gap, with Red Spider running easily, a length in advance of the second horse.

Coming into the stretch, Red Spider seemed to have the race well in hand, but the rush of the G. Gross 3-year-old mare proved too much and she won after a rousing finish. The balance of the field was badly outrun.

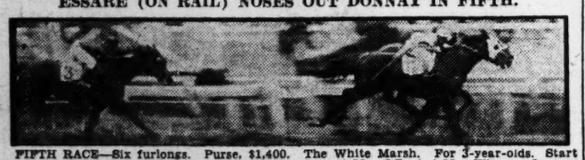
† R. W. Carter and Mrs. E. Trueman entry.

Overweight—PEACE BOY, 3½.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SAND FIDDLER, $3.50, $3.20, $2.50; PORTSUR, $10.80, $5.70; WILD APPLE, $2.90.

SAND FIDDLER is a good colt. He broke fast, displayed good speed all the way and held on gamely in final drive. PORTSUR showed improvement over his recent race, saved ground and held on well. WILD APPLE was taken wide around turn and weakly ridden at end. KAI LO ran a good race and is sure to improve over this effort. PLAY BALL saved ground on turn and finished fast. PEACE BOY had no mishaps.

ESSARE (ON RAIL) NOSES OUT DONNAY IN FIFTH.



FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400. The White Marsh. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:55. Winner, Jacques Stable's b. c. (3), by Light Brigade—Wistaria. Trained by N. Johnson. Value to winner, $950; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48 4-5, 1:14 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ESSARE, $6.50, $2.60, $2.40; DONNAY, $2.30, $2.20; DONN BON, $4.20.

ESSARE handled his weight well. He broke fast, was rated off the early pace to stretch, where he came with a rush under a hard drive and was up to win in last stride. DONNAY ran into an early lead, came out to the good going, but hung badly right at end. DONN BON closed a big gap. STUPENDOUS made a determined bid around the turn, but weakened badly. J. A. Well had no mishaps.

ROCK HAWK FAILS TO REACH CROW'S NEST IN SIXTH.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:23. Off at 5:27. Winner, G. C. Winfrey's ch. g. (4), by Man o' War—Jeanne Bowdre. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:49 3-5, 1:15 3-5, 1:43, 1:49 4-5.

Overweight—POLVO, 1.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CROW'S NEST, $14.40, $6.80, $4.50; ROCK HAWK, $4.30, $3.60; FOUNDATION STONE, $9.10.

CROW'S NEST, showing startling improvement over recent races, ran into lead on stretch turn, but tired suddenly and just lasted to win. ROCK HAWK finished with a rush. FOUNDATION STONE showed good speed and held on well. EPHESIAN broke slow and in a tangle and closed a big gap. DRAWING BOARD quit.

WAFFLES LOOKS LIKE AN EXTRA TO FIRST EDITION.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:56. Off at 5:57½. Winner, M. Shea's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WAFFLES, $5.80, $4.30, $3.20; FIRST EDITION, $31.20, $28.90; RAVING LADY, $11.10.

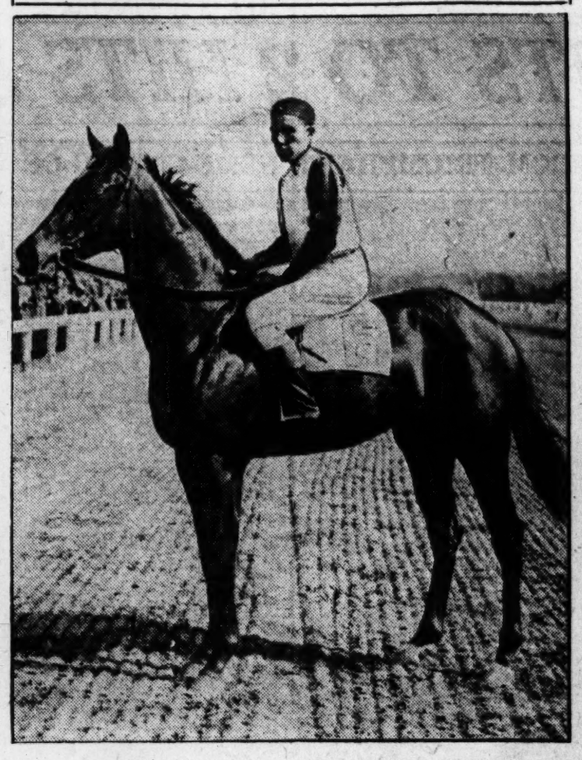
WAFFLES took the lead early and won nicely in hand. FIRST EDITION had plenty of speed and held on gamely. RAVING LADY finished fast. KING CARTER closed a big gap.

WINNER OF BOWIE JUVENILE STAKE



Hugh Miller, Post Staff Photographer.

SAND FIDDLER,

Bradfield's 2-year-old gelding, an odds-on favorite, which led from flag fall to finish in the Kindergarten Stakes, $2,500 feature for 2-year-olds yesterday. Legere has the mount.

but he can not hit. Evan so, it is argued that the Yankees can stand having a weak-hitting shortstop of Durocher's fielding ability. Lazzeri, of course, will play second, and Lou Gehrig, the powerful young slugger, will be at first.

Catching Staff to Be Good, Contingent on Bengough.

With John Grabowski and Bill Dickey in good shape, the Yankees will have a fair catching staff. With Benny Bengough's arm in condition as a result of a recent tonsil operation, they will have a good catching staff.

As for pitching, the Yankees will have Waite Hoyt, George Pipgras, Herb Pennock, Henry Johnson, Wilcy Moore, Tom Zachahy, Fred Hiemach, Ed Wells and Myles Thomas.

It is a good, strong team. Its biggest problem, according to Huggins, will be to keep from the let-down which is natural to a team which has been so long a winner.

BOWIE NOTES

THE Benning Handicap, a dash of 6 furlongs for 3-year-olds and upward, tops the excellent Friday card at Bowie. Twelve flashy speedsters have been nominated to face the starter, including Son of John, winner of last year's inaugural; War Eagle, Prickly Heat and Lady Marie. Lady Marie has been burning up the track and may gallop down in front of the classy field.

As a companion piece, the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association is offering the Junior Purse at 5½ furlongs for 3-year-olds. The McLean Stable's Preakness candidates, Nymph King and Mayor Walker, will be among the starters. Leucite, racing for the Rancocas Stable, is also a Preakness nominee, and may show to better advantage than he did the other day, when, coupled with Donnay, he suffered defeat at the hands of Pagan Laddie. The race itself is a very open affair.

Jockeys Louis Schaffer and R. Leishman canceled their mounts yesterday. R. Leonard, who took a bad header off Roodles yesterday when nearing the finish, was much better today, but canceled his mounts.

Elmer Trueman will ship 25 head to Havre de Grace on Sunday. John J. Farrell, jr., is already at the "Graw." Sergt. Swenke will ship Sunday, together with P. E. Fitzgerald and H. Scott.

Voltear and Our Sally Ann have been added to the list of starters in the Prince Georges (spring) Handicap tomorrow, making the total entries now numbering seventeen.

Tommy McTaggart, once premier riding ace, attempted a comeback today when he had the mount on Sir Leonid in the third race. McTaggart has been training at the old Pimlico oval all winter and looked in the best of condition as the horses paraded to the post for the third number.

Matt Brady, who started the J. E. Davis Stupendous in the secondary feature yesterday will race his string only during the running of the Pimlico meeting. Brady will ship about fifteen head from Benning on the 20th.

John F. Schorr, master trainer of the McLean Stable, sent the first shipment of thoroughbreds to the "Graw" today. The remainder of the McLean outfit will leave Sunday for the Harford course.

Claims are still numerous at this track. George Alexander took Grey of Dawn out of the first race today, while C. E. Merritt claimed North American out of the same heat for $2,000. In the third race, Sir Leonid went to Rex Cooper, Genial to C. R. Fleishman and Red Spider to H. C. Rummage, who deposited $2,000 in the secretary's office for each of the thoroughbreds.

Jockey A. Robertson is away out in front as the track's leading rider.

Mrs. L. G. Kaufman's Twink is at the "Graw" working steadily for the $10,000 Chesapeake Stakes. The race is considered a warmup for the Preakness, in which many of the candidates are entered.

duced to a minimum if not eradicated. The commission should have as sweeping control over promoters and athletes as the stewards of the Jockey Club have over racing.

Metropolitan Golf Fans Find Smith Veritable Machine.

The racing stewards do not have to wait until they have caught a crook with the goods on him to rule him off the track. Their moral certainty that the sport would be better off without him is all they require to ease out a doubtful character. As long as amateur athletic promotion is a big money proposition there will be temptation to professionalism, but the A. A. U. can make it very much harder to get away with than it is now.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11 (A.P.).—Five hits and an error in the fourth inning gave the Indianapolis American Association Club a commanding lead over the Cincinnati Nationals here today, and the Hoosiers coasted to a 10-to-4 victory. The Reds filled the bases with none out in the sixth, but scored only one run on an infield out. In the ninth, Sukeforth doubled to open the inning, and Crabtree followed with a single, but Indianapolis escaped with only one run scored. Burwell allowed the Reds nine hits, but was strong in the pinches.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

By BERT A. COLLYER

LEUCITE.

Well, boys, here's another fancy stepper from the Rancocas Statble. Goes in the Junior Purse out at Bowie this afternoon and will lunge on the gas and roll home. The only thing to worry about is what odds will prevail when the mob stops bombarding the iron men. Those mutts sure pay some peculiar and short prices at times.

MURKY CLOUD, an H. P. Whitney youngster, drew a rail position in the opening spasm and its going to be a case of Katie bar the door. Just a question of how easily he will win. This one can pick them up and lay them down and is ready to travel to the Rocky Mountains.

CASTIL

JEWISH CENTER BOXERS BEAT K. OF C., 3 BOUTS TO 2

Miller Saves Record of J. C. C.

Enters Ring to Beat Coveleskie Despite 11th Hour Arrival.

Final Match Decides; Barber Is Winner Over Tardugno.

JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER'S long winning streak in team matches sagged noticeably in the middle last night in the clash with the Knights of Columbus mittmen at the Center Auditorium. But its elasticity was good and it regained its old, smooth shape just as the program came to a close. The score was 3 bouts to 2, it being the second time within a month that J. C. C. defeated the Caseys by that margin.

Had it not been for the eleventh-hour appearance of Jocko Miller, the Center's South Atlantic lightweight champion, the home team would have had to be content with a 2-to-2 draw. The Caseys presented a stronger front than had been expected, and at one stage were leading by 2 to 1. A bout won on a foul placed J. C. C. on even terms just as Miller arrived.

Miller Arrives From Boston In Time to Decide Issue.

Miller, who had ridden a train from Boston all day, showed up an hour and a half late, but that didn't matter to J. C. C. fans after he had clinched the decision for his team.

The South Atlantic champion evidenced no effects of the long ride as he disposed of his opponent, Leo Coveleskie, with eclat.

Coveleskie held an advantage of 8½ pounds over Miller, but he lacked the punching power that was Miller's. The J. C. C. star belted him mercilessly in the first round and sewed up the decision then and there, although in the second and third sessions the Casey battler put up a better defense.

The defeat of Mike Tardugno of the Center by Nevin Barber of the visiting team provided an early sensation in the proceedings. The decision against the J. C. C. featherweight was the first that he has dropped in a local ring. The audience greeted the decision with mingled boos and cheers.

Many Ringside Fans Thought Extra Round Necessary.

Tardugno appeared the better in the first round, while Barber looked to have evened things at the end of the second. The third was a torrid round in which both boys tried vainly for a knockout. Many ringsiders were of the opinion that an extra round should have been ordered.

Mickey Harris, flyweight, started the Caseys off with a decision over Joe Lazarus in the opening bout. Joe Lesser made the score even by outpointing Ray Fisher, K. of C. bantamweight, in the second clash. It was Lesser's first fight in J. C. C. silks after a six months' term of service with the City Club team.

Barber's victory brought the lead back to the Caseys, but again J. C. C. caught up when Gus Mirman, welterweight, won on a foul in the third round from Donald Berry.

The summaries:

Ray Coleaves (unattached), 108 pounds, outpointed Danny Dabona (K. of C.), three rounds.

Freddy McLean (unattached), 118 pounds, outpointed Humphrey Decola (unattached), 118 pounds, three rounds.

Mickey Harris (K. of C.), 117 pounds, outpointed Joe Lazarus (J. C. C.), 111 pounds, three rounds.

Joe Lesser (J. C. C.), 117½ pounds, outpointed Ray Fisher (K. of C.), three rounds.

Nevin Barber (K. of C.), 129 pounds, outpointed Mike Tardugno (J. C. C.), 124½ pounds, three rounds.

Gus Mirman (J. C. C.), 151 pounds, won by foul from Donald Berry (K. of C.), 149½ pounds, in third round.

Jocko Miller (J. C. C.), 141 pounds, outpointed Leo Coveleskie (K. of C.), 149½ pounds, three rounds.

Glenna Collett to Sail For British Open Play

New York, April 11 (U.P.).—Glenna Collett, three times American women's golf champion, has definitely decided to go abroad to play in the British women's championship at St. Andrews, Scotland, beginning May 13, and will sail next Wednesday on the steamship Aquitania.

Miss Bernice Wall, holder of the Wisconsin State women's title, may accompany Miss Collett.

Slicers, Have Courage; Hole in One Is Possible

Amarillo Tex., April 11 (U.P.).—S. L. Bither, Amarillo, golfing on the Twin Hills course at tee five today, gave the ball a terrific wallop and sliced.

The ball was lost.

After a long search he found the pellet nestled in the cup on No. 6, 180 yards from tee five. It was a hole in one.

Crooke Benefit Game Committee in Meeting

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements for the baseball game to be played at American League Park on April 27 between the Quantico Marines and an all-star team composed of Georgetown, Catholic University and University of Maryland players for the benefit of the family of Tom Crooke, veteran umpire, who died of injuries received last week in an automobile accident, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the Soldiers and Sailors Home, 921 Pennsylvania avenue southeast. All others interested in the affair are requested to be present.

James Y. Hughes, chairman of the arrangement committee, announced last night that plans are being made to have either the Quantico Marine or Army Band on hand for the game. President Clark C. Griffith of the Washington Baseball Club, has offered the use of the Georgia Avenue Stadium. He also plans to have Nick Altrock and Al Schacht assist in the program.

AZTECS IN TWO GAMES.

Going on the belief that only games will get his team into condition to win the unlimited crown of the Capital City League series this year, Manager Joe Much has scheduled two tilts for the Aztecs over the week-end. Tomorrow the Army Headquarters are listed, while on Sunday the Capital A. C. will be met.

The Aztecs will have the services of Joe Freschi and Pepco Barry in the event that they do not play semipro ball this year. For games phone Lincoln 8624.

INFIELD PLAYERS NEEDED.

A good shortstop and second baseman are wanted by a team now being organized to play senior and unlimited ball this season. Those interested phone Leo Gubisch, Lincoln 2611-J, between 6 and 7 o'clock.

WEST NINE MEETS.

The Sam West Insect and Peewee teams will hold a combined meeting tonight at the St. Gabriel's School, Seventh and Webster streets northwest, at 7:30 o'clock. Players are needed for both teams. Those interested are asked to attend the meeting.

ST. JOES IN PRACTICE.

The St. Joseph A. C. will work out tomorrow at 5 o'clock on the plaza. The following players are requested to report: Cinotti, Smith, Phipps, Farrington, Tripp, Fox, Moran, Haas, Smithson, Dean, Long, Naples, Sweeny, Caspar, Mitchell, Dunn, Tucci, Hamby and Barry. Any unlimited teams desiring games write 407 Fourth street northeast.

$10,000 Raised to Send California Crew East

Berkeley, Calif., April 11 (A.P.).—California's intercollegiate and world champion crew will defend its intercollegiate rowing title in the Big Ten regatta at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., next June. The executive committee of the university's student body decided today to send both the varsity and freshman crews. An appropriation of $10,000 will be made for the trip.

The committee also approved plans to send a six-man track and field team to compete in the I. C. A. A. meet in the East.

College Sports Program Here Hindered by Rain

Wet grounds forced cancellation of both college sports contests scheduled yesterday, the Georgetown-Harvard baseball game and the Georgetown-Villanova tennis match, and today the condition of the ground and the weather will have to take a turn for the better before the boys can resume activity.

Catholic University's baseball and tennis teams are listed to appear in the two contests on today's schedule. The Cardinal Nine will entertain Harvard while the racqueters will act as hosts to Villanova, both set-tos to be fought out at Brookland starting at 3 o'clock.

The tennis match will be the first on the Brookland spring sports program.

Tomorrow will see three local teams in action but only one will appear at home. The Catholic netmen will come back for a match with the University of Richmond. Maryland's lacrosse Taem will be at Ithaca, N. Y., meeting Cornell while its track and field athletes will be competing against Virginia and Virginia Poly in a triangular meet at Charlottesville.

Tech Senior Girls Win Court Title on Points

The girls' interclass basket ball season ended at Tech High School yesterday with the Seniors and Juniors tied for first place. Instead of holding a play-off for the title, the championship was decided by the team having the highest number of points. The Seniors had the greatest number, 90, against the Juniors' 72.

The outstanding players of the Senior team were Joyce Connors and Catherine Wassman, guards, and Dot Lane, forward. Bessie Buchanan and Margaret Smith, forwards, were the two best players for the Juniors. Hattie Stryker, forward, was an outstanding performer for the Sophomores.

Dorothy Lane, of the Seniors, was high scorer of the series, with 69 points, while Hattie Stryker, of the Sophomores, was runner-up, with 62 points.

CENTRAL NINE BEATEN BY FRESHMEN

Maryland Yearlings in 15 to 3 Victory; Score 6 in 4th.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND FRESHMEN swamped Central High of Washington, 15 to 3, in a baseball game at College Park halted in the seventh inning by rain yesterday. It was the second win in as many starts for the Old Line yearlings against a Washington high school team.

Maryland gathered fourteen hits while Central was able to glean only four. Both teams used two pitchers.

Schleigh with three hits, including a double and two singles, led Maryland's attack, while Chalmers, Berger and Wilson also wielded big bats for the winners. Kraut, Maryland pitcher, clouted a homer in the sixth, scoring Wilson ahead of him.

Berger Hits Double Over Wall, Giving Freshmen Lead.

Maryland took the lead in the first inning on doubles by Schleigh and Chalmers and a single by Cronin, which netted two runs. Central tied the score in the second on Fisher's single, passes to Stan and Cumberland and Schloss' one-baser.

In the third, Maryland went ahead to stay. Berger doubled over the left field wall, went to third on a passed ball and scored on Stan's error. In the fourth inning the Old Liners added six more runs to put the game in the bag.

$500,000 Suit Notice Served on Dempsey

Chicago, April 11 (A.P.).—Memories, pleasant or otherwise, of a fight he once had with one Gene Tunney were aroused today in William Harrison Dempsey when Chicago's largest and huskiest deputy sheriff served him with papers in a $500,000 damage suit.

Dempsey was found in a bungalow atop a downtown hotel and notified of the suit, brought on behalf of the Chicago Coliseum Club and B. E. Clements, president.

Unsuccessful in stopping the Dempsey-Tunney scrap by last-minute injunctions, the $500,000 suit was filed shortly afterward. Clements and the club seek the damages because Dempsey refused to fight Harry Wills, their claim being that he signed a contract in Indiana.

PRESS CARDS PRACTICE.

The National Press Building Cardinals will practice tomorrow on the South Ellipse diamond at 2:30 o'clock in preparation for Sunday's game with the Indian Head Cardinals at Waldorf, Md. Press Card players will meet at the home of Coach Charles Harrington at 12 o'clock Sunday to make the trip.

Coach Harrington has signed Owen, former pitcher of the Bonds Clothiers, and Keenes, a young sandlotter, to bolster the team. The Cards have several open dates for May and June and games can be arranged by phoning Harrington at Cleveland 4831.

will be made today. As there are three good diamonds in San Antonio, the two clubs could train independently of each other, but a lengthy schedule of games would be arranged.

Braxton and Jones to Oppose Giants Here Today.

The Nationals and Giants will meet again at the Clark Griffith Stadium this afternoon and another real battle may be looked for. The National Leaguers have mauled the Capital Cityans so badly the past three springs that Manager Johnson hopes to return and compliment this year. With the Nats 3 up and only 3 to go, the worst they can hope for is an even break, but this is not enough, and in the hope of clinching the series this afternoon, Johnson plans to start Garland Braxton and to finish with "Sad Sam" Jones. McGraw intimated last night that he would call on Larry Benton, his best bet of last season. Play will start at 3:30, the time set for all but the opening game to get under way.

An example of how hopelessly lost an experienced player may get in the center of a baseball diamond was given by Pitcher Joe Genewich on the final play of yesterday's game. All he apparently knew was that a game was being played and that the weather was cold, for he cut off the return peg on Tate's hit which scored Judge with the winning run in the last half of the ninth and then, to make matters worse, showed how well he had kept up with the progress of the game by returning to the rubber and preparing to pitch. Some of his mates finally advised him that the game was over.

Griffith Orders Pitcher McCullough To Report by Tuesday.

President Clark Griffith yesterday received a letter from Pitcher Paul McCullough, who has been expected to join the Nats ever since February 24. The "lost sheep" stated that he has almost recovered, has been working out some, and that he desired to remain at his home at Newcastle, Pa., to continue receiving treatments from his family physician.

McCullough was advised that Trainer Mike Martin and the Washington Club physician are capable of treating him and that, if he wants a job here, it would not be a bad idea if he showed up here not later than Tuesday.

PICKED BOWLERS CLASH.

Picked teams of the Federal Government and District Government Bowling Leagues have scheduled a match of ten games, the first five games to be rolled at 8 o'clock Saturday at the Coliseum and the second set on April 20 at the Arcade. Freddie Moore is captain of the Federals and H. B. Steele leads the District Government outfit.

HARTFORDS SEEK FOE.

Unlimited and Senior Nines Enter Capital City League

Larger Fields Than Last Season Expected in Both Classes; No Changes in Age Limits Except in Legion Series.

COMPETITION in the senior and unlimited sections of the Capital City Base Ball League, sponsored by The Washington Post, is likely to be even more spirited than last year. In addition to the majority of the teams which engaged in the heated pennant battles last year, a number of newcomers are ready to enter the field this year.

At a meeting of representatives of teams contemplating entering these two sections, held last night in the District Building, many of the outstanding contenders of the 1928 pennant races announced their intention to enter the league for the approaching season. Others are unable to make definite declarations at present, but expect to submit their formal entries later.

The Montrose, Moose, Ace, Miller Furniture Co., Corinthian and D. J. Kaufman Nines are ready to seek the 1929 senior championship. The Aztec, National Press Building Cardinal, Avenue Valet Shop, Auth and Naval Hospital Teams are the first to announce their desire to engage in the unlimited race.

Aces Graduate Into Senior Class With Strong Team.

The Aces are a new addition to the Capital City League senior section. This club is composed of boys who have been playing together for the past three years and are being graduated into faster company this season. A number of scholastic stars will comprise a major portion of the roster. Fisher, Snyder, McCullough, Hanna, Edwards, McAboy, Shapiro and Miles, of Eastern; Collins, Batson, Sorell, Ensor and Biggs, of Tech; Lawson from the Government Printing Office, Brown from the Navy Yard and Hooff and Robertson have been signed.

The entrance of the Naval Hospital Team in the unlimited section is expected to encourage other service teams to seek the unlimited title. Fort Myer, Walter Reed, Bolling Field, Army War College and other service organizations are contemplating entering teams.

Georgetown A. C. Likely to Defend Unlimited Title.

Georgetown A. C., the unlimited championship winner of last season, will likely defend its title. The Westerners are undergoing reorganization. St. Joseph's A. C., always a contender for the unlimited crown, is expecting to be in the field when the series gets under way.

Two additional teams announced last night that they will enter the Midget title quest. Joe Warring, manager of the Tris Speakers, plans to enter his team, and the Iroquois Nine will compete in the same section.

The directors of the league announced last night that the only change in age limits over last year will be in the American Legion section. The maximum age limit in all other sections will remain the same.

The age qualifications for the various classes are as follows: Unlimited, no age limit; Senior, 21 years and under; Junior, 18 years and under; Midget (American Legion), 17 years and under; Insect, 14 years and under. Ages in all divisions, with the exception of the Midget class, will be reckoned as of June 1, 1929. Midget players' ages will be reckoned as of September 15, 1929.

G. W. Football Candidates Slow Reporting for Drills

COACH H. WATSON "MAUD" CRUM has issued his annual spring training call for football candidates at George Washington University, but has found only a few who have signified their intention of getting in some early licks for the 1929 season.

It is Crum's idea to get as many as possible lined up for the '29 season early. He will drill them at the Tidal Basin.

In view of the exceptionally poor season suffered by the Colonials last year, the Buff and Blue coach is looking for any men who appear to have the makings of capable gridironers. Several of the freshmen team are expected to make strong bids for the varsity next fall, and he is looking for them to come out for this early practice.

Billisolly, Adams, Sheiry, Boyle, Griggs, Parks, Gates, Swartout, Hudson and Goldman, all loom as varsity material, and Crum will look to them to fill the vacancies left by Lopeman, Barrow, Sanders, Goldman and Allshouse, who graduate.

As in 1928, the spring practice will not include rough work. Punting, passing and signal drills will comprise the work for the most part, while light scrimmages may be held from time to time.

Although the schedule will be somewhat easier than last year, it will be by no means a light one. William and Mary, C. C. N. Y., Dickinson and C. U. are all expected to offer formidable opposition, and Crum is not filled with the highest type of optimism.

Gavuzzi Leads Bunion Field on 52-Mile Lap

Wheeling, W. Va., April 11 (A.P.).—Peter Gavuzzi, of England, did 52 miles in 8 hours 2 minutes and 15 seconds today to win the twelfth lap of C. C. Pyle's bunion derby. The lead in elapsed time was retained by Ed Gardner, Seattle, Wash., negro stepper, who was tied for third place in reaching the Mountain State control point. Gardner, who supplanted Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., policeman, as leader of the race last Monday during the Hancock, Md.-Cumberland, Md., run, now has a total elapsed time of 77 hours 53 minutes and 40 seconds.

Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., aspirant for cross-country honors, was runner-up on today's lap, his time being 8:32:15. Troy Trimble, Bakersfield, Calif., tied with Gardner for third place in 9:42:30.

The leaders in elapsed time follow:

1—Ed Gardner, Seattle, Wash...77:53:40
2—Pete Gavuzzi, England.....79:00:22
3—John Salo, Passaic, N. J.....81:38:27
4—Sam Richman, New York.....83:32:30
5—Giusto Umek, Italy.....83:36:51

YOUR BOY—YOUR GIRL

By ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.
The Parent Counselor.

Children's Phantasies.

EVER since Dickey's father died the poor little lamb has been holding long conversations with his poor dead dad. It's so touching. The poor lamb!"

The best solution of Dickey's problem would be a brand-new step father who would talk with him and love him. And if that is not possible, a mother who would give Dickey that understanding and affection he craves, plus a friendship between this boy and some man friend of his father.

There are a number of causes of such children's phantasies. Frequently they are compensations for something else. Take young Jimmy who has a mania for winning in everything he plays. Yet he isn't as skillful at games and sports as the other boys and after one or two unsuccessful attempts with them, he will return to his own back yard to play with "Bill." This fellow "Bill" puts up a good fight, but Jimmy always wins. Plainly Jimmy is compensating himself for his own inferiority by avoiding contest with more capable boys.

Or we may have a girl who creates another and wholly imaginary girl and projects her own good points upon her, making the imaginary Miss what she herself really wants to be. Again the compensation idea. But in this case a compensation for reality.

Then we all kno those imaginary beings who are continually responsible for wrong deeds. If something nice has been done it was Jimmy who did it. But if the cellar door has been left open or the flowers are trampled, then it is the imaginary "Sam" who did it. These creatures of invention constantly appear before children with phantasies whenever there is failure to meet the demands of life.

If Johnny plays games with a "Bill" that always loses, start praising "Bill" as a good loser and maybe Johnny himself will begin to see the advantages of being a good loser. If it is "Sam" that does the bad things while Johnny only does the good ones, you can settle accounts with "Sam" before you have anything to do with Johnny.

If Mary is merely projecting her better self on an imaginary little girl, do your best to help Mary really be the other little girl. And if Sally has an imaginary big sister that never gets whipped, you might stop and cogitate a bit before you use the hair brush next time.

Above all, remember to treat these creatures of invention gently and not drive them out of existence by ridicule or punishment. Make friends with these names of phantasy, discover why they are there and drive them away by substituting realities of courage and sportsmanship.

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER.

The Eternal Triangle.

Mother has given me her advice, but she asked me to write and see what you had to say. Here is my story:

He is married and I complete the triangle. He told me he loved me and I told him that I cared for him. After four months of seeing each other, I find that it has been merely infatuation on my part. I have told him this, but still he persists in calling me up and trying to see me. He is making it quite hard for me, but he says it is because he loves me.

I am willing to take half of the blame for the wrong we did by going out together, but somehow I was attracted to him. He says now that he's found what love really is, he won't give me up. Do you think it would be all right for me to go see his wife, tell her everything and ask her to help me?

GRATEFUL.

Answer—The sympathy game is the usual starting point. The "no one appreciates me like you" type of talk. "If you only knew the burden I must bear" and then a heavy sigh. Girls with a combination of foolishness, lack of experience and the desire to mother believe this talk. Under the circumstances the wife is not likely to help you. Your mother can answer the phone and tell the man to go about his own business. Make the triangle a square and put your mother in it.

Secret of Popularity.

My correspondents may have either of the following leaflets if the usual stamped addressed envelope is inclosed: "Developing a Personality," "Overcoming the Blues."

BOND MART TRADING REVIVES SOMEWHAT

High-Grade Rails and Convertibles Lead in Week's Largest Turnover.

INDUSTRIALS IN DEMAND

New York, April 11 (A.P.).—Trading on the bond market revived somewhat today as traders took their cue from stocks and bought high-grade rails and convertibles. The turnover was the best of the week, totaling nearly $9,500,000.

Measured by the Associated Press combined average of 40 bonds, the market held its slight gain of yesterday. As result of the recent irregularity in stocks, suggestions to buy bonds are increasing in the financial district, although continued stringency in credit remains as the chief obstacle to any marked recovery in this department of the investment market.

The recent favorites among the convertibles were back in the spotlight, with gains of 1 to 4 points. Allegheny Corporation 5s picked up a point. Anaconda Copper 7s at one time sold up nearly 5 points, but finished the day with a gain of around 2 points. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s, with a rise of 4 points, made the best showing, while Dodge Bros. 6s improved a point on a heavy turnover.

Among the rails, the greatest activity centered in Atchison debenture 4½s, which sold up a point on a turnover of $166,000, and the Seaboard Air Line issues. The Seaboard securities have been unusually active the last few days on reports of refunding plans. The adjustment 5s sold up more than a point to a new high at 49. The stamped 4s and refunding 4s, however, did not share in the rise. Other strong spots in the rails were Missouri Pacific, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake & Ohio refunding obligations.

Some of the gilt-edged industrials were in demand at higher prices, particularly the steels. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem issues moving up fractionally to within a point or so of their high marks.

The first newspaper security on the list, Gannett Co. Inc. 6s, was introduced and started off at 95.

Evidences of accumulation again were noticeable in the foreign list. Many of the Scandinavian, South American and other European government issues gained a point or so on more active trading.

U. S. Government obligations firmed after easing off yesterday.

CAPITAL IS LAUDED AS INSURANCE FIELD

City's Financial Greatness Lies in That Direction, Says E. J. Schellentrager.

STOCKS REMAIN QUIET

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Washington's path to financial greatness lies along the insurance way, believes Edward J. Schellentrager, known from coast to coast as the "ace of underwriters," the man who sold John Alexander Carroll, Chicago bank president, $2,000,000 worth of insurance, and here to open next week the forty-second branch of the Reliance Life Insurance Co., of which company's executive staff he is president.

Recuperating at the Mayflower Hotel from the results of a serious automobile accident of several weeks ago, Mr. Schellentrager outlined the reasons why this city may become the country's financial center through centralization of large insurance companies here. These reasons coincided with the opinions of trade bodies' officials.

They are the certainty of a million population based on statistics of the last few years, increase in local real estate values as the result of that growth, and the increasing affinity of the insurance companies for trust-feature banks, so well represented in the National Capital.

Emphasizing that big banks here with trust features will have a mutual affinity for the insurance companies with like characteristics, he said, "There are in Washington more trust companies alive to the situation of conserving insurance trust funds for the sake of their beneficiaries than in any other city of the United States."

Mr. Schellentrager, who will locate in this city, originally was an architect and built some of the finest residences in Pittsburgh, headquarters of his insurance company. Entering the insurance business later, his production was $8,139,650 in his first four years. His surplus business, now "brokered" with other companies, exceeds $17,000,000, the Reliance Co. states.

Offices of the Washington branch, to be known as the National Capital department, will be in the Washington Building. The office will be in charge of J. J. O'Donnell, cashier, and Russell Shelk will be personal representative of Mr. Schellentrager and estate counselor.

Brokers' Loans Decrease.

Total decreases in loans on securities to brokers and dealers of $135,000,000 were shown by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday in its weekly condition report on member banks, as of April 10, compared with the preceding week.

Loans "for own account" fell off $106,000,000; those "for account of out-of-town banks," $21,000,000, and those "for account of others," $7,000,000. Total loans for the week were $5,427,000,000, as compared with $5,562,000,000 for last week, and $3,994,000,000 for the corresponding week in 1928.

Stock Prices Move Little.

Little change was shown in yesterday's market on the Washington Stock Exchange, where, with the exception of a trade of 100 shares of National Mortgage & Investment stock at previous level, 5¾, small lot trading characterized the session.

Capital Traction made a fractional drop in a small turnover of five shares at 97½, and Columbia Sand & Gravel slid to 90¼ on a ten-share sale. Peoples Drug Stores preferred was a point and a half off from its previous level.

The bond market was a brisker one. $3,000 and $1,000 sales in Washington Gas 6s, series A, at 102½, a $1,000 transfer of Washington Railway & Electric 4s, at 86, and a $500 sale at the same price being recorded.

Nine Nominations Made.

Nine nominations were made for directors of the District Underwriters Association at a meeting yesterday, at the Arlington Hotel, four of whom will be elected at the May meeting of the association.

Nominees were John Cremen, Massachusetts Life Insurance Co.; Philip Baldwin, Northwestern Mutual; C. E. McCombs, Mutual Life of New York; John Snyder, Mutual Benefit; Russell Freeman, Prudential; Russell Shelk, Reliance; Dudley Carpenter, Sun Life Assurance of Canada; Eugene S. Adams, Continental; John L. McElfresh, Connecticut Mutual. The association announced a joint sales congress to be held with the Baltimore association May 3, at Baltimore.

Reserve Bank Statement.

Decreases of $66,300,000 in holdings of discounted bills, $17,400,000 in bills bought in open market, and $2,000,000 in Government securities were revealed yesterday, in the consolidated statement on condition of Federal Reserve banks April 10, by the Federal Reserve Board.

Member bank reserve deposits declined $83,400,000, Government deposits, $12,200,000, and Federal Reserve note circulation $5,900,000, while cash reserves increased $58,000,000. Total bills and securities were $56,700,000 below the amount held April 3. Federal Reserve note circulation was $5,900,000 less than a week ago.

Bankers to Go to Richmond.

Headed by H. H. McKee, president of the National Capital Bank, a large delegation of Washington bankers will attend the annual meeting of the Stockholders Association of the Federal Reserve Bank, of Richmond, Mr. McKee being chairman of the stockholders committee.

Albion K. Parris, oldest member of the Washington Stock Exchange and founder of Crane, Parris & Co., will be the speaker next Tuesday evening before the Columbia Historical Society on "The Washington Stock Exchange," the meeting to be held in the Cosmos Club Assembly Hall.

Thirty-nine Nominations.

There were 39 nominations for positions as delegates to the national convention of the American Institute of Banking at Tulsa, Okla., in June, at a meeting of the Washington Chapter of the inatitute last night. Thirty-two will be elected April 25.

Nominations were as follows: William P. Keith, Esther Lau, J. Fred English, T. Edwin Norris, W. A. Cady, Richard A. Norris, William Meahler, Walter Sanderson, Alice Whitton, T. Hunton Leith, A. O. Dooley, Robert G. Whitton, H. F. Kimball, Robert H. Lacey, R. Jesse Chaney, I. J. Roberts, Catherine Krieg, Rose L. Royce, Mabel V. Royce, John Keener, Frank W. Lee, Gerald Keene, Steuart Ogilvie, James C. Dulin, Robert A. Sisson, Mildred C. Woodcock, H. W. Burnside, Bernard Boudren, John DeMarco, Alfred Sherman, W. W. Spaid, E. J. McQuade, James A. Soper, Frank N. Perley, W. J. Waller, William Winstead, A. S. Henze, Raymond Lewis and Lois A. White.

MECHANICS' WAGES WILL GET NO BOOST NOW, BUILDERS SAY

Meeting of Contractors Held Last Night Rules Against Increases Sought.

PUTNAM SUGGESTS EMPLOYERS' UNION

Declares Raises Unjustified; Holds Living Cost Below That of Pact Date.

Taking up the challenge of the steamfitters and reinforcing iron-rod workers unions, which are negotiating for a higher rate of hourly wage, 100 builders, general contractors and subcontractors meeting last night at 2525 Pennsylvania avenue adopted a resolution "opposed to" and agreeing "not to pay" any increase in the hourly rate for mechanics in any branch of the building trades at this time.

The resolution, offered by E. A. Miller, is as follows:

"Be it resolved that this mass meeting of the Builders and Manufacturers Exchange of the District of Columbia and others here interested in the building business in the District hereby agree and place themselves on record as opposed to and will not pay any increase in the hourly rate of pay of mechanics in any branch of the building trades at this time.

"And be it further resolved that this resolution be transmitted to the Building Trades Council of the District of Columbia and any others interested in building mechanics and labor conditions in the District of Columbia."

Committee Is Named.

Following the adoption of this resolution, another, asking the appointment of a committee from the men present to meet this morning at 9 o'clock at the Builders' Exchange, to make further plans against the proposed wage increase, was adopted and the committee named by Arthur L. Smith, chairman.

The committee is composed of W. B. Putnam, E. A. Miller, F. F. Gillen and E. H. Rosengarten, representing builders; Carl O. Romberg, cut stone contractors; R. W. McChesney, electrical contractors; H. C. McKnew, glazing contractors; E. J. Febrey, heating contractors; Joseph Galliher, lumber contractor; Harry Blake, millwork contractor; F. E. Richardson, marble dealers; A. Bussard, plastering contractors; William Owens, plumbing contractors; Edward W. Minte, painting contractors; C. W. Easterday, roofing contractors; David Buteher, mason contractors; Louis Perna, rubble masonry contractors, and Ernest Gichner, sheetmetal contractors.

Previous to the adoption of the resolution against the proposed increase in wage scales, that resolution had contained a clause favoring the adoption of a five-day week for workers of the building trades. This section of the resolution was stricken out of the measure before it was officially presented to the mass meeting for a vote.

Putnam Urges Organization.

W. B. Putnam addressed the meeting and urged the organization of contractors and subcontractors to fight the proposed wage increases as unjustified in the face of decreased living costs as compared with those in 1926 when the last agreement on wages was reached by unions and contractors.

Putnam quoted a Department of Labor pamphlet showing food 1.9 per cent lower; clothes 3.9 per cent lower and fuel 18.7 per cent lower in February, 1929, as compared to 1926. He also said that when the U. S. Government ordered buildings torn down in the proposed Triangle for future Federal buildings, in order to provide work for members of the buildings trades, these workers walked the streets idle rather than work at $1.50 per hour.

A general discussion of the building trade situation lasted three hours during which fears were expressed that any trouble between the contractors and unions at this time might result in an indefinite delay in the Federal building program.

In opposing the increase for the union members of building trades, subcontractors at the meeting asked the support of general contractors, who in turn, replied that they were unable to offer 100 per cent cooperation because if they refused to go on with building programs, outside contractors came in and took the work away from them, being unaffected by any decisions of local contractors.

Inventor Talks to Club On Slow-Motion Films

C. Francis Jenkins, a pioneer inventor in the motion picture industry, yesterday spoke to members of the Exchange Club of Washington, meeting at the Mayflower Hotel, on the scientific value of slow-motion pictures.

Mr. Jenkins will address the Exchange Club at a later date on the subject of television.

Catholic Daughters Hear Bishop Hafey

Progress Through Conflict With Obstacles Topic of Raleigh Prelate.

Bishop William J. Hafey, of Raleigh, N. C., last night addressed members of the Catholic Daughters of America Society and recent members of the Converts League at a meeting in the Catholic Daughters' Building, 601 E street northwest.

"No man or woman has been worth while except through overcoming obstacles," he said. The older generation, he added, looks toward members of the younger generation who have special qualifications, educational and cultural, for the greatest accomplishments in future years. He urged the converts to find friends for newly arrived immigrants.

The Rev. Francis P. Lyons, C. S. P., and the Rev. Francis X. Cavanaugh, spiritual directors of the Converts League, and Miss Mary C. Boland, grand regent of the C. D. A., also spoke and welcomed the guests. Miss Florence M. Winter, chairman of the league, presided. The Georgetown University Glee Club, directed by Edward Donovan, gave a musical program.

Ruth Bryan Owen Backs Equal Rights Amendment

Ruth Bryan Owen, representative-elect from Florida, at a reception in her honor last night at the headquarters of the National Woman's Party, expressed her sincere belief in equal rights. She declared that in her opinion equality of opportunity between the sexes is merely justice.

The reception was given by the Young Women's Council of the party, which is sponsoring the equal rights amendment to the Constitution.

SOCIETY HEAD HITS HERO "DEBUNKING"

President of Patriotic Group Assails Pacifism; Capital Woman Is Elected.

D. A. R. LEADER SPEAKER

Mrs. Frances St. Clair, a member of the Washington chapter of the National Society of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, was one of three members elected yesterday as national councilors of the society at the thirty-first general court of the organization held in the Washington Hotel.

Mrs. Robert F. Stockton, president of the New Jersey State Society of the organization, and Mrs. Frank D. Ellison, of Brookline, were the others named as councillors.

Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, national president, made a vigorous attack against the "deliberate tampering with school histories of the country—the sugar-coated educational system of today—and the radical onslaughts upon the integrity of the American youth," in her address before the more than 200 delegates attending the afternoon session of the society.

"Debunking" of Heroes Assailed.

"It is especially incumbent upon us," she said, "to teach reverent regard for the founders and patriots of this Nation at this time, when 'debunking' these heroes is the popular pastime of so-called 'liberal' writers and lecturers; when our school histories are being tampered with in the interests of pacifism and a false form of internationalism; and when our youths are being subjected to radical, atheistic and utterly demoralizing propaganda by organized influences for corruption, such as never have been witnessed in the world before.

"Other equally insidious influences are being brought to bear on our youth, such as the sugar-coated education of today, against which some of our best scholars, educators and college presidents are already complaining, saying that our schools are no longer turning out young people with the fundamentals of a sound education," Mrs. Buel added.

D. A. R. Leader Is Speaker.

Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, delivered an address at a luncheon yesterday in the Washington Hotel.

A memorial service for the 44 members of the society who have died in recent years, and particularly for Mrs. Robert Hall Wiles, former national president, who died several weeks ago, was conducted yesterday morning by the national chaplain, Miss Katherine M. Green.

Mrs. George Maynard Minor, honorary president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, also spoke at that session, which concluded with a hearing of reports from the State chapters and committees. The society voted to grant charters for the organization of chapters in Rhode Island and Colorado.

The delegates were received at the White House at noon yesterday by President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

Pratt's Ban on Spies Praised by Civic Group

Action of Maj. Henry G. Pratt to bar paid police informers was indorsed last night at a meeting of the East Central Civic Association in the Dunbar High School. Erection of a comfort station at Seventh street near Florida avenue was requested. The association also asked traffic lights on First street between Florida and Massachusetts avenues northwest.

Other resolutions condemned the game of "numbers," and a committee was appointed to investigate means of arousing public sentiment against its operation. The association also appointed a committee to obtain better lighting in the vicinity of Pierce and Defrees streets northwest.

Two Speak on Drama At Guild Conference

Will Hutchins, of American University, and Joseph Adelman, dean of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, New York City, were the principal speakers at last night's session of the Community Drama Guild conference at McKinley High School. Mr. Hutchins spoke on "Modern Shakespearean Acting" and Mr. Adelman on "The Play, the Actor and the Pantomime."

This evening's program will include addresses by Barrett Clark, of New York City, Addison Pitt, director of the National Theater Players, and Harold W. Snyder. The conference will be concluded tomorrow night.

ENGINEERS OPPOSE 3-CENT TAX ON GAS

Group Also Asks Quick Action on Street Car Merger in Capital.

PAVING WORK ADVOCATED

Opposition to the proposed 3-cent tax on gasoline, suggested by Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, of Maryland, to provide funds for developing park properties, was voiced last night at a meeting of the Washington Chapter, American Association of Engineers, at the Playhouse, 1814 N street northwest.

The meeting adopted a report expressing hope that "a merger of the two street car companies will be consummated in the near future, and that legislation to bring this about will be enacted at the special session of Congress, if possible." Regardless of whether the merger is carried through the engineers opposed any increase in fares.

To prevent an increase the report proposed "if the merger is not effected it is strongly urged that the law requiring a 4 per cent gross earning tax be so amended that an adjustment of the taxes can be made to prevent any increase in car fare."

A report also was adopted urging that "sufficient funds be made available to promptly and properly repair the numerous cuts made in the street pavements in Washington "in order that traffic will not be inconvenienced any longer than possible, and that the pavement repaired shall be as good and as strong as the original pavement."

"It is believed," said the report, "that the practice of dumping filling into trenches and not paving the opening for weeks and even months, in some cases, should cease, and that an adequate force of men should be promptly available to make the needed repairs, thus keeping pavements in as smooth condition for automobile tires as possible, at all times."

John L. Nagle, designing engineer of the Arlington Memorial bridge, gave an illustrated lecture on the progress of the work and the method of constructing and handling the 12,000 pieces of granite that are being used.

Coroner States Death Of Cohen Was Accident

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt yesterday issued a certificate of accidental death in the case of 11-year-old Irving Cohen, 407 K street northwest, who was killed Wednesday afternoon when he attempted to board a moving automobile truck at Sixth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest.

The body was taken to the District Morgue to be identified. Bert Cohen, police reporter for the Washington Herald, his brother, upon going to the morgue for the story, learned that the boy was his younger brother.

Representative Carter Alumni Luncheon Guest

Representative Vincent Carter, newly elected to the House from Wyoming, was the guest of the Washington Chapter of the Catholic University Alumni Association, at its weekly luncheon yesterday at 707 Twelfth street northwest. The representative is an alumnus of the university.

Further plans were made for the alumni night card party and entertainment which the local alumni will hold next Wednesday in the gymnasium of the university in Brookland.

GIBSON WILL SUBMIT POLICE FORCE BILLS

Representative and Officials to Work Out Program for Improvement.

PRATT PAY RAISE URGED

Legislation designed to give Washington the finest police force in the country will be recommended during the extra session of Congress, Representative Gibson, of Vermont, announced upon his arrival here yesterday.

The legislation, he said, would be based largely on the recommendations of the commissioners and the police officials themselves. He said he plans to confer with these in the near future.

Gibson said that so far he has not made up his mind just what ought to be done to improve the force, but he felt that he and the local officials would be able to work out a program that would be highly beneficial.

The Commissioners are expected to recommend, among other things, that the pay of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, the superintendent, be substantially increased and that the pay of the other officials and members of the force also be increased.

Pratt's pay of $5,200 a year is considerably below what is paid to police chiefs in other large cities. It also is less than is paid to the other department heads of the local government.

Representative Gibson, who is chairman of the subcommittee that has been investigating the municipal government, said yesterday that he had not completed his report on the investigation of the Police Department. The document must be submitted to the House District committee by July 1.

He was much interested in the retirement of Capt. Guy E. Burlingame and of Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, but he refused to comment. He did say, however, that these two events would cause him to revise what he had planned to say in his report about the Bialock-Burlingame affair and about the "ability and efficiency" of Maj. Hesse.

Autoist Fined $300 For Blocking Police

John E. Histon Is Charged With Preventing Capture of Rum Car.

Alleged to have blocked pursuit by police of a suspected rum-laden automobile John E (Jeff) Histon, 25 years old, was fined $300 by Judge John P. McMahon yesterday in Traffic Court for driving an automobile on the wrong side of the street. Through his counsel, William O'Connell, Histon appealed to the District Court of Appeals and was freed on $300 bond.

Detectives W. B. Satterthwaite and C. C. Stepp, of the Ninth Precinct, testified they were in an automobile pursuing a suspected rum car on Sixteenth street northeast last Saturday when Histon's automobile drove between them and their quarry. They testified that Histon paid no attention to their siren, but continued to drive between the police and the other automobile while maintaining a 15-mile speed. Histon professed ignorance of impeding the pursuit. He stated that he heard the siren, but did not know it was on a police car.

In passing sentence Judge McMahon said: "It's a funny thing that a man who has been convicted of liquor charges and is known as a bootlegger should find himself between a police car and a whisky car. I find this defendant guilty."

Capt. Parsons Shifted From Park Police Post

Capt. Marvel H. Barsons, Coast Artillery Corps, superintendent of the United States Park Police, will be relieved of his duties in the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks after September 7 to take the battery officers' course at Fort Monroe, Va., the War Department announced yesterday.

Capt. Parsons has served as superintendent of the park police for the past four years. He came here from Honolulu, where he had served as regimental adjutant at headquarters of the Hawaiian Department.

Wife Wins Absolute Divorce.

A final decree of absolute divorce was awarded Mrs. Lucy B. Voelker yesterday by Justice Jennings Bailey in the District Supreme Court against Fred D Voelker. The wife sued through Miss May T. Bigelow, attorney, charging misconduct.

SHORTAGE OF $6,000 FOUND IN SHIP BOOKS OF MISSING OFFICER

Lieut. Monteith Vanishes From U. S. S. Vega on Eve of Sailing.

INQUIRY BOARD REPORTS DIFFERENCE IN ACCOUNTS

Paymaster Disappeared While on Three-Day Leave; Boat in New York.

Lieut. Robert J. Monteith, paymaster of the U. S. S. Vega and formerly stationed here, who was missing from his ship when it sailed from Boston, Tuesday, was short in his accounts, Assistant Secretary of Navy Jahncke disclosed yesterday.

Preliminary investigation by a board of inquiry that was convened when the ship docked in New York, Wednesday, indicated a shortage in his accounts of about $6,000, it was learned.

Lieut. Monteith was due back from a three-day leave in time to sail with his ship Tuesday. The Navy Department has not received word from him since he left the ship on April 6.

Commander F. M. Robinson, captain of the Vega, wired Washington immediately on learning that Lieut. Monteith had not reported back to the ship and was ordered to proceed to New York.

Lieut. Monteith's disappearance came as a shock to his wife who lives at 211 Wilson Lane, Bethesda, Md., and to his friends in the city. He has been under investigation, however, since the first of April, when a check showed there might be a discrepancy of several hundred dollars in his accounts.

At that time Lieut. Monteith was ill and had not closed his books for the preceding month. He was ordered to do so. Shortly afterward he left the ship. A full investigation of the ship's accounts has been ordered by the Navy Department.

The Vega is a supply ship and runs from Boston to Puget Sound, on the West Coast. Lieut. Monteith was made paymaster of the ship early this year. He had been stationed here, in the office of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts in the Navy Department.

The paymaster has an admirable record in the Navy. He served for eight years as an enlisted man and worked himself up to paymaster of the Vega, taking home study courses to prepare himself. He has been commended.

Lieut. Monteith was born in Colorado 35 years ago. He gives his home on the Navy records as Traverse, Mich., and his wife's address in Bethesda.

Dean of Women at G. W. Resigns; To Do Research

Resignation of Miss Anna L. Rose, dean of women and associate professor of education at George Washington University, was announced yesterday. The resignation is effective at the end of the present school term. Previous to her appointment at George Washington, Miss Rose taught at Pennsylvania State Normal School.

Miss Rose will accept the post of staff assistant with the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. She will have headquarters in New York and will travel through Pennsylvania, making a survey of the relation of secondary schools to higher education.

Boy, Injured by Auto, Asks $15,000 Damages

Suit for $15,000 damages for injuries was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Charles E. Nunn, a minor, through his father, Floyd A. Nunn, of 1204 Ninth street northeast, against Charles J. Robbins, of 1305 Maryland avenue northeast.

The complaint stated the child was crossing F street near Twelfth street northeast last June when struck by Robbins' automobile and suffering a fractured skull and other injuries. Attorney Claude A. Thompson and Julius C. Martin appeared for the plaintiff.

Woman Is Sought; Speeded, Is Claim

Policeman Obtains Warrant When She Fails to Keep Pledge to Appear.

Miss Edith Burgner, 24 years old, of 3625 Sixteenth street northwest, who failed to answer a charge of speeding yesterday in Police Court, after Patrolman M. Sanders, of the Thirteenth Precinct, had taken her personal bond, and for whom an arrest warrant was issued later in the day, was still at liberty early this morning.

The patrolman, who obtained the warrant, refused to affirm or deny serving the warrant at midnight, when he reported off duty at the precinct station house. The young woman could not be reached at her apartment, and the Tenth Precinct station, where the speeding charge was booked, had no record of her arrest on the warrant.

The young woman was arrested Wednesday night on Georgia avenue northwest, where Sanders said she was making 44 miles an hour. She was taken to the Tenth Precinct Station and informed she would have to post $50 collateral for her liberty. Unable to produce the amount, Miss Burgner informed police she would spend the night in the station, but her captor arranged for her release. Sanders awaited patiently at the court, and when the young lady failed to put in an appearance he decided he had been fooled and obtained the warrant.

Postal Receipts Show Decrease.

Washington's postal receipts for March totaled $504,908.69, a decrease of $21,326.11 from figures for March, 1928. The percentage of decrease was 4.05 per cent.

FALLING ROD KILLS UNIDENTIFIED MAN

Steel Strikes Employe at Nineteenth and F Streets' Building Job.

BLOW FRACTURES SKULL

An unidentified white man, employed by the Cafritz Construction Co. on a new apartment building at Nineteenth and F street northwest, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when a piece of steel fell from the seventh floor and struck him on the head as he stood on the ground.

He was taken to Emergency Hospital, losing consciousness on the way, and died there on the operating table. It was not possible to operate on him, Dr. Leon Gordon, who examined him, said.

Police of the Third Precinct and hospital authorities at first believed that the man was Thomas Bassford, 30 years old, who lives on Seventh street southwest. It was later learned, after a brother and sister of Bassford failed to identify him after viewing the body, that the man was not Bassford.

The body was later taken to the District Morgue, while police continued efforts to identify the man.

The piece of steel, a rod about 8 feet long and an inch in diameter, had broken off from one of a bundle of 30-foot rods being carried to the top of the building on a temporary lift, according to witnesses. The rods are imbedded in concrete during construction as reenforcement.

Wholesale Lumber Men Elect Chiefs

C. A. Mauk, of Toledo, Head of National Association; Convention Closes.

C. A. Mauk, of Toledo, Ohio, was elected president of the National American Wholesale Lumber Association at the final session of the annual convention yesterday in the Mayflower Hotel. Other officers named are Arthur E. Lane, New York City, first vice president; M. G. Truman, Chicago, second vice president; O. M. Shepard, New York City, treasurer, and W. W. Schupner, New York City, secretary and directing manager.

A new board of directors was named as follows: John I. Coulbourn, Philadelphia; A. E. Gordon, Toronto, Canada; Dwight Hinckley, Cincinnati; J. W. McClure, Memphis; H. W. McDonough, Boston; J. B. Montgomery, Pittsburgh; C. C. Patrick, Portland, Oreg.; G. M. Stevens, New York City; J. G. Whittier, Newark, N. J., and Ben S. Woodhead, Beaumont, Tex.

A convention banquet was held last night at the Mayflower. Representative Charles A. Eaton, of New Jersey, was the principal speaker. Ben S. Woodhead, retiring president, also spoke. A feature of the closing day was a reception of the delegates by President Hoover.

Invitation Extended To Ruth Bryan Owen

Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, who begins her duties as representative from Florida Monday, has been invited by the national united committee on law enforcement to be the guest of honor at a mass meeting Sunday afternoon at the First Congregational Church. The meeting will be the last of the series which the committee has been conducting in Washington since January 1, it was announced.

The Rev. Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the committee, will deliver an address on "The Ghost of John Barleycorn." He also will talk on the campaign to dry up Washington.

Forbes Given Reception And Radio by Associates

Elmer E. Forbes, who retired January 1, after nearly a quarter of a century's service as chief administrative traffic officer of the Department of Agriculture, was given a birthday reception and a gift yesterday by his former coworkers at the traffic offices of the division of purchase, sales and traffic of the Department of Agriculture. The gift was a radio receiving set.

Dr. A. F. Woods, director of scientific work of the department, made the speech of presentation. He said the token was given in appreciation of long and faithful service in the department.

YOUTH'S LIBERATION HELD COLLEGE GOAL BY DEAN EMERITUS

Restraints Create Frictions, Dr. Stanley Coulter Tells Confreres at Banquet.

ADVISERS OF STUDENTS ARE HELD TO LACK "IT"

G. W. University Officials Are Hosts to Society; Marvin Welcomes Members.

Exuberant youth was upheld by Dean Emeritus Stanley Coulter, of Purdue University, at the banquet of the Association of Deans and Advisers of Men in conference here, at the Cosmos Club last night.

George Washington University was host to the gathering, representing practically every State in the Union. C. H. Marvin, president of George Washington University, welcomed the members and G. B. Culver, president of Leland Stanford University, responded.

The principal cause of friction between a student body and faculty lies not with the youth but with the lack of a sense of humor among deans, Coulter said.

"Deans Destitute of Humor."

"Deans are utterly destitute of sense of humor," he declared with a broad grin. "Youth is constantly doing the unexpected," he chuckled, "and the unexpected is humorous.

"Now if you will think back a little you did it too, the unexpected; you like modern youth, attempted the impossible.

"We should smile, not because the boy makes mistakes but because he is you not so many years back. We take little events too seriously; we look solemn, instead of smiling. Men, I tell you, a dean has got to have it.

"And don't set rules and mechanize the conduct of the student. A character is never built by negation; you can not do much for the young, but you can do much with them; that's the spirit, work with them."

Penalized for Independent Thought.

Dean Coulter also took the universities to task, in saying that they do not teach the youth to think for themselves. He illustrated his point with an experience where a youth was penalized for thinking for himself.

"We expect too much of youth and the child," he continued, "we do not teach them to think as we should; we should develop the power of thinking in these young men, help them to develop themselves as themselves and not machine them to a standard.

"It seems to me we have had the wrong view of them—after all the chief thing in life is to achieve, and at all times to be one's self—and the dean has the opportunity to show youth the real objects of life, the real heart of it, and to enable him also to be himself."

"G. U. Ready to Cooperate."

Mr. Marvin, in his welcoming address, said that he sometimes feels that "we have too much well ordered higher education." He said that George Washington University had arrived at the time that he hoped it would take its place with the leading universities.

"One of our aspirations is to be a cooperating institution to other institutions throughout the country," he added.

Mr. Culver stressed the importance of the human element in the dean's work.

"We represent the human element in education. We must not let moths get into the academic gowns; we are teachers, to bring hope, to clear away mysteries and to help to point the correct way to youth."

He pointed out the absolute necessity of injecting the human element in what he characterized "mass education and slide rule conduct."

Bad Check Passers' Problem.

What to do with the student who passes bad checks came in for considerable discussion at the afternoon session.

This practice, according to the deans discussing the problem, is one of the most difficult of university life to solve. Some of the universities leave the bad check problem to the police; others give lectures to the freshmen when they enter the university, impressing upon them the law, the proper procedure of handling checking accounts and the meaning of a violation of the law.

Lehigh University has almost solved the problem, it was said, by warning the student the first time he issues a bad or insufficient fund check, putting him on probation for the second offense, and dropping him from the rolls of the university for the third offense. This practice has reduced violations to a minimum.

Much laughter was caused during the discussion when a voice from the floor inquired if any members of the faculty are ever guilty of issuing bad checks.

Following the session members of the conference were taken to Mount Vernon, where a wreath was laid on the tomb of George Washington. Prof. A. G. Murray, pastor of the Friends Meeting House that President Hoover attends, made a brief address.

Truck Crushes Boy In Opening Garage

Victim, Unseen by Driver, Slips Between Door and Vehicle.

Wilson Daniels, 16 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Daniels, of Vienna, Va., was crushed to death yesterday morning at Fairfax, Va., when he was caught between the rear wheel of a dairy truck and a garage door.

The boy, according to witnesses, was opening the door to allow Charles Smith, of Fairfax, to back the truck into the garage. Daniels slipped while opening the door, and Smith, unable to see him, backed the truck against him.

Randolph Loughborough, of Fairfax, hurried the boy to the Alexandria Hospital in his automobile, but Daniels was declared dead upon arrival at the hospital.

Investigation by Fairfax officials resulted in a declaration that death was due to an accident and Smith was not held. Dr. Ford Swetman, coroner, following an investigation, decided no inquest was necessary.

Powell Will Address Authors at Breakfast

Col. E. Alexander Powell, noted war correspondent and author of several books on travel, will be the principal speaker at the author's breakfast of the National League of American Pen Women at 12 o'clock today at the Willard Hotel.

Other speakers are Representative Ruth Hannah McCormick, Representative Ruth Baker Pratt and Harold Kelloch. The latter will explain some of the secrets of Houdini.

Coroner Holds Up Funeral To Investigate Man's Death

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, yesterday stopped the funeral services of Harry Barnes, colored, 45 years old, of 25 P street northeast, to investigate the cause of his death at an inquest today.

Barnes was struck by an automobile, said by police to have been operated by George Carter, colored, 19 years old, 144 Douglas street, Kenilworth, Md., as he was crossing the street in front of his home on December 23, 1928.

At the time he refused hospital treatment, and was confined to his home for three weeks. Since the accident he has suffered eight hemmorhages and from bruises on his head, face and body, according to police of the Second Precinct, who investigated.

Barnes died Wednesday after the last hemmorhage and Dr. L. Mathews, of 1131 First street northwest, who was called, issued a certificate of death from tuberculosis. Upon being informed of the death, Coroner Nevitt yesterday ordered the funeral stopped until an inquest is held to determine the cause of Barnes' death.

Carter was rearrested yesterday and booked on a technical charge of investigation by police of the Second Precinct pending the verdict of the coroner's jury this morning. He was released in the custody of his lawyer, Armiston J. Davis.

House's Well Known Singing Barber Dead at 70 Years

Prince Robinson is dead, and a voice that sent sweet spirituals through the Capitol, is stilled forever.

The colored man, for 17 years a barber on the House side of the Capitol, died at his home, 1501 B street northeast, early yesterday morning of kidney disease. He was born in Alabama about 70 years ago.

In his long service on Capitol Hill, the singing barber shaved some of the most celebrated members of the Congress. He was brought to this city by the late former Senator Oscar Underwood.

"Swing low, sweet chariot—" Prince would croon, as he wielded his razor or shears, and the senator or representative in the chair relaxed like a baby listening to a lullaby.

Prince was an ardent Democrat and attended several of the Democratic national conventions. At the Baltimore convention, he regaled the delegates with the "Houn' Dawg" song that was Champ Clark's campaign hymn. At other conventions he sang whatever songs were the vogue.

Usually, when a Congress is coming to an end on March 4, the House goes in for an old-fashioned orgy of oratory, shouting and singing. On several occasions, Prince was hauled out of his barber shop and placed on a table in the well of the House chamber. There he would sing his spirituals, his plantation songs and whatever else the members called for.

Prince is survived by a widow. Funeral arrangements had not been completed yesterday.
